Mrs. Mulford Re-elected ... Presidency

Hoover Praised for Aid in Child Welfare

Proposed Bay City Harbor Fund Opposed

Mrs. Ida Belle Mulford was re-elected president of the Los Angeles Woman's Christian Temperance Union at the annual election of officers of that organization conducted yesterday at First Methodist Church.

Other officers re-elected are Mrs. Lura Hyden-Boleyn, vice-president; Mrs. Nellie E. Choate, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Lizzie Langworthy Anderson, recording secretary; Mrs. Ida F. Throop, assistant recording secretary; Mrs. Katherine Peck, treasurer.

Mrs. Ida Belle Mulford, the president, congratulated the union on the celebration of its thirty-eighth birthday and on the fact that with more than 1000 members, the Los Angeles W.C.T.U. is the largest union in the world.

HOOVER PRAISED

Mrs. Mulford spoke in appreciation of the constructive work done by Herbert Hoover, before and after his election to the Presidency, praising him especially for his interest in child welfare and calling attention to the fact that the President has called a child welfare conference to be conducted at Washington next November. The speaker also mentioned with approval the coming school of instruction to be conducted at Washington by enforcement officers of the country.

Mrs. Bernice Johnson, Los Angeles county director of legislation for the W.C.T.U., discussed amendments to be voted on at the coming state election and voiced her opposition to the proposition that the State appropriate $10,000,000 for harbor improvements at San Francisco.

TAXATION QUESTION

"For many years the cities south of the Tehachapi have been doing nothing except spending time and money for the benefit of San Francisco and I, for one, am weary of it," said Mrs. Johnson.

The proposed amendment to reduce rates of taxation for street railways from 5 to 4½ per cent of the railway companies' incomes was viewed with "suspicion" by Mrs. Johnson, who advised her hearers to vote "no" on the proposition "unless there is an evidence of better service by the street-car companies between now and November."

Husband's application in Superior Court was denied. Hutton & Co. A tax of $[illegible] should have been assessed, he charged.

An affidavit also named Lowell and Bryan and E. A. Pierce.

Martial Law in Buenos Aires

President Yrigoyen Retires with Vice-President in Command of Nation

Many Persons Wounded in Street Fighting Sequel to Resignation

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 5. (AP)—Hipolito Yrigoyen, twice Argentina's President and long its mystery man of politics, today retired from office and delegated the powers of Chief Executive to Dr. Enrique Martinez, Vice-President.

The first act of the new government head was to declare a state of siege, of martial law which prohibited public assembly and placed the capital city, the eighth largest in the world, in the hands of the military.

MANY WOUNDED

Disorders broke almost immediately, demonstrators parading in the Avenida De Mayo clashed with police near its intersection with the Calle Peru and many were wounded. There were other widespread incidents of minor character.

Explosion of bombs and the scream of sirens from the offices of La Nacion, Buenos Aires' daily, first notified the populace an event of transcendent importance had

DIRIGIBLE LOS ANGELES RETURNS FROM TRIP

LAKEHURST (N. J.) Sept. 5. (AP) The navy dirigible Los Angeles returned to its hangar at 7 p.m. today from a trip over up-State New York. The ship was not damaged in the least, its officers said, contradicting rumors that its rudder was put out of commission on the flight.

FRENCH FIX ARMS AIM

Treaty on Land Forces Sought

Paris Government Places Limit as of Present Military Strength

German's Speech Attacking Versailles Pact Gives Rise to New Fears

PARIS, Sept. 5. (AP)—A correspondent of the Associated Press was informed by authoritative French sources tonight that France is ready to negotiate a general treaty for the limitation of armament, based on the existing strength of the French army.

This decision regarding land forces is contingent on the maintenance of the Versailles treaty intact. French opinion is described as increasingly disturbed over the demand of German Nationalists for revision of the Versailles treaty.

LAND-FORCE PACT

The newspapers gave prominent position to a speech by Gen. Von Seeckt, former commander of the German Reichswehr, to the effect that the coming years must be spent in a struggle against this treaty.

Paris believes that an important contribution will have been made to the cause of disarmament if an agreement to limit land forces to their present level can be negotiated.

The existing strength of the French army, including homeland and colonial troops, is given here as 922,000. The French say that English troops in the homeland, India and other colonies amount to the same figure.

CHANGE POSSIBLE

Spokesmen frankly admitted tonight that France's attitude would change if Germany got approval for the military plans recently voiced by Gen. Von Seeckt providing for a standing army of 300,000 men.

French experts said that under Von Seeckt's plan the German standing army would strike into enemy territory should Germany believe herself menaced. They insisted this would violate the terms and spirit of every peace agreement, including the League of Nation covenant itself.

The Foreign Office said tonight naval negotiations between France and Italy have not yet been inaugurated.

MANKIND REGARDED MISTAKE

British Scientist Says Nature Overdid it by Improving on Ape

BRISTOL (Eng.) Sept. 5. (AP)—The theory that man is a mistake of nature was advanced here by Dr. H. S. Harrison, head of the anthropology section of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, in his presidential address before the body.

Dr. Harrison was at a loss to understand why a man ever ceased to be an ape, for he believed he did very well while he was an ape.

"Man had already been given the means to earn a livelihood," he said, "and he found himself commanding and inventing luxuries. In producing a new and cunning big-brained anima' with hands, nature overshot her mark and we are struggling with the consequences.

"The brain of the later paleolithic man appears to have been like our own in all essentials and a Cro-Magnon man might today become a skilled mechanic or an able bishop.'

PORTUGUESE PRESIDENT ILL

LISBON (Portugal) Sept. 5. (AP)—President Carmona canceled all interviews today and took to his bed. The nature of his illness was not made known.

Will Rogers Remarks:

CAMP RICHARDSON (Cal.) Sept. 5. [To the Editor of The Times:] I sho' would like to be in New York tomorrow and see that international polo game. The selection of our team does away with the old idea that you had to be a rich man to play. Two fine boys on our team don't even own a horse and the three next best players in America to the four chosen are all poor fellows. Two old Texas cowboys are back there shooting goals whose names ain't even in the telephone directory. All power to Tommy Hitchcock, who took polo out of the drawing-room. The American team should double any English score. Let's see.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

PARIS FLYERS IN KENTUCKY

Coste and Partner Acclaimed at Louisville but Cancel Entertainment for Sleep

Another article by Capt. Coste, written exclusively for The Times in Southern California, appears on Page 3, Part I of this issue.

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) Sept. 5. (AP)—Greeted by the cheers of thousands of citizens and the shrieking of factory whistles, Capt. Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, Paris to New York to Dallas flyers, swept out of a murky sky and landed on Bowman Field here at 6:41:20 p.m. tonight.

As the wheels of their aeroplane touched ground for the third time in America a crowd of approximately 6000 persons surged forward, shouting a noisy welcome. The flyers had left Dallas, Tex., at 12:30 p.m.

The Frenchmen, obviously tired from their Paris-to-New York flight and from the subsequent nonstop flight from New York to Dallas, had requested through their manager, Rene Recover, that no entertainment be provided for them here. Plans for a banquet and other forms of reception were abandoned and the only official ceremony was the greeting of a welcoming committee headed by Mayor Harrison.

It was dark when the Question Mark arrived here and floodlights were playing over the field. The flyers circled the field once and then made a perfect landing, taxiing up to the administration building, where the reception committee waited. After the welcome they were escorted by police and officials to waiting automobiles.

Led by a detail of motorcycle policemen and followed by scores of automobiles, the machine bearing the flyers then wended its way through cheering and flag-waving crowds to a local hotel, where the flyers are to remain overnight under guard, so their rest will not be disturbed. They planned to retire immediately upon arrival at the hotel.

Coste and Bellonte, bareheaded and tanned, smiled broadly as the crowd surged about them at the field, and four Louisville girls rushed up, kissed each flyer on both cheeks, and presented him with a bouquet of dahlias.

They then were escorted to the top of the administration building at the field, where they were introduced over the radio. Both spoke briefly in French and their remarks were interpreted in English. Mayor Harrison extended the welcome of the city.

LAST DAYS OF ANDREE STORY LOST

Log of Polar Expedition Found to be Legible Only Up to September 5, 1897

TROMSOE (Norway) Sept. 5. (AP) The story of the Andree balloon expedition, it is understood, is legible in the explorer's notes up to September 5, 1897. It is said there is writing in Andree's log after that date but it is illegible.

The condition of the diary after September 5 is such that it may be impossible, therefore, to follow the story of the fate of the expedition as told by its leader himself beyond that date.

It would seem that the trio arrived on White Island on September 3, after having battled their way across the ice since mid-July when their balloon met disaster on the attempted flight to the North Pole.

Dr. Gunnar Horn today proposed a Swedish expedition be sent to White Island next summer to look for further evidence of the Andree expedition.

Dr. Horn said it is possible Frankel's body might be found there, buried in the ice. Many of the things which the Horn party found were dug up from a depth of eighteen inches or more. It is considered possible Frankel's body lies farther down in the ice.

BRATVAAG CREW WILL RECEIVE REWARD

TROMSOE (Norway) Sept. 5. (AP) Adolf Hotel, director of the Norwegian Svalbard and Arctic Sea Office, said tonight his office has placed 40,000 kroner (about $10,000) at the disposal of the owner of the sealer Bratvaag for distribution among the ship's crew and members of the Gunnar Horn expedition.

Arizona Section Swept by Rain

PHOENIX, Sept. 5. (AP)—A heavy rainstorm swept across the east-central portion of Arizona tonight.

Rain started falling in Safford shortly after 10 o'clock and still was pouring down an hour later. Arroyos and washes in the Globe-Miami district were running bankfull.

A heavy shower started falling in Phoenix about 11 o'clock. The rain was accompanied by a severe electrical storm and a high wind.

NEW ACTIVE VOLCANO DISCOVERED IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 5 (AP)—Dispatches from Ciudad Victoria, in the State of Tamaulipas, today said an active volcano has been discovered near Aldama, 200 miles southwest of Brownsville, Tex. The discoverers said the crater was in an unsettled mountain area.

ALL SPAIN IN GRIP OF STRIKERS

Political Fights Add to General Disorder and List of Injured Includes Many

MADRID, Sept. 5. (AP)—Scarcely an important town in Spain remained without some sort of strike tonight, while disorders occurred today at Renteria, near San Sebastian, over a metal workers' strike and free-for-all fights over political issues were reported at Orense, in Galicia.

In neither these cities did deaths result, but many persons were injured and in Renteria all business houses closed after the strike was unexpectedly proclaimed at noon. Most of those injured were struck by stones from the mob or knocked down by the horses of mounted guards.

With increasing political activity heralding the coming of general elections, which will probably take place in January, with strikes gaining and the peseta slumping in value as the cost of living goes up, the authorities are preparing for further disorders in the principal industrial and political centers.

Among the towns affected by strikes are Zaragosa, where street-car motormen and conductors are out as are the painters; in San Sebastian and surrounding industrial centers, where metal workers are striking, and in various factories of Barcelona, Bilbao, Granada, Cordoba and Valencia. There are numerous others.

Jugo-Slavians to Face Italian Firing Squad

TRIESTE (Italy) Sept. 5. (AP)—Four of the eighteen Jugo-Slavians on trial for acts of terrorism were sentenced to death before a firing squad as the case was concluded tonight.

They are Francesco Marusic, 24 years of age, Zvonimiro Milos, 36; Ferdinando Bidovec, 22, and Luigi Valencic, 32. Two others were acquitted and the remaining twelve were given prison sentences.

Of the four condemned to death the government prosecutor contended that Francesco Marusic was the leader of the band—that he and Luigi Valencic were connected with a plot against Premier Mussolini by which they intended to plant a bomb in the Duce's motor car.

REDWOOD CITY, Sept. 5. (Exclusive)—Only a coachman while alive, David W. Crowley became a personage in death. His will, filed for probate here today, disposes of an estate valued between $75,000 and $100,000, and one of the legatees is Mrs. Helen Irwin Crocker Fagan, wealthy and socially prominent San Francisco matron. Crowley had been coachman for the Irwin and Temple Crocker families most of his life. Mrs. Fagan's share is estimated at about $5000.

Zukor Daughter to Seek Divorce

RENO, Sept. 5. (AP)—Mrs. Mildred Zukor Loew, daughter of Adolph Zukor, president of the Paramount Pictures Corporation, has engaged the service of a Reno attorney and is expected to arrive here tomorrow to establish a divorce residence, it was learned tonight.

Her husband is the son of the late Marcus Loew, theater magnate.

HURRICANE DEATH TOTAL, 1200, MAY RISE TO 2000

Injured Number 5000, Damage Set at $20,000,000, and 30,000 Homeless Cry for Food

[Copyright, 1930, and all rights reserved by the Associated Press]

SANTO DOMINGO, Sept. 5. (AP)—The death list in the Dominican Republic's hurricane disaster this afternoon swelled to more than 1200. Bodies are still being pulled from the shambles of the city.

Relief workers under President Rafael Leonidas Trujillo fear the total will swell to 2000. Material damage is more than $20,000,000. The injured number about 5000, while 30,000 are homeless. These figures are for the capital alone.

The famous cathedral, which has stood against the hand of man and the hand of time for 400 years, and is a jewel of architecture, is among the buildings that escaped destruction. The tomb of Christopher Columbus also escaped. The tomb is inside the cathedral, close to the entrance.

OTHER TOWNS ESCAPE

Motorcycle messengers succeeded in surveying conditions in the interior of the country. They reported that the hurricane concentrated its fury on the capital. The large towns of La Vega, Santiago and Puerto Plata were not damaged.

Rolling kitchens this afternoon began feeding the hungry and homeless populace of the capital. People took refuge for the night within churches, schools and other public buildings left standing.

Operation of the kitchens was the first act of Mario Fermin Cabral, President of the Senate, who was designated by President Trujillo to supervise the feeding of the refugees and the removal of debris.

Of the city's 10,000 buildings only 400 are left in which to house the wounded and the weak. And today hunger began to stalk the littered streets.

MASS INCINERATION

Relief workers have time only for the living and so, lest the horror of pestilence be added to the city's sorry burden of misfortune, any attempt at burying the dead was abandoned in favor of mass incineration. Bodies are being stacked on the beach and burned.

And yet, despite the terrific loss in life and property, hope flamed strongly in the survivors' hearts and was strengthened by reports that relief ships are on the way with food and medical supplies, doctors and nurses.

Food, because of its insufficiency, is being strictly rationed and President Trujillo himself worked in wreckage-heaped streets to see that the most needy were first served and most carefully protected.

As is always the case in the aftermath of disaster, whether the catastrophe be due to fire or flood, wind or earthquake, during the first paralyzed period after the hurricane passed there were some instances of looting and plundering.

But today the city was under martial law and the relief work went forward in the chaotic city with perfect order.

PRISONERS SET TO WORK

Because others could not be spared and in order to utilize every available agency in at least preparing for the gigantic reconstruction program that will have to be put into effect to rebuild the city, prisoners were set to work today clearing the debris from the streets.

Their task will take them weeks and maybe months, for it is a colossal undertaking just to clear the ground for the Santo Domingo that is to be. Masonry and timbers lie everywhere in tangled heaps, mounds of wreckage from which bodies were still being recovered today. The city looks as if all its man-made structures had been scooped up in giant hands, crumpled to worthlessness and tossed back upon the ground.

Declaring the situation is disastrous and 90 per cent of the city was destroyed, President Trujillo appealed by cable today for quick assistance from the United States and all other friendly nations.

"We are in need of everything," he wired after telling of the urgency of the need for help.

It was really two disasters that beat the city prostrate Wednesday

AID RUSHED TO ISLAND

America Offers Helping Hand

Food, Medicine, Water and Clothing Go to Stricken Area by Air and Sea

Hoover Extends Sympathy; Red Cross Directs Relief; Army Volunteers Help

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. (AP)—Shorn of its fury by the rugged path it traveled across the Dominican Republic, the hurricane which lashed Santo Domingo was moving leisurely toward the Florida Straits tonight while American relief forces extended a helping hand to the devastated island city.

Rains and light winds marked the progress of the disturbance toward the tip of the Florida coast, and storm warnings had been taken down, but the incoming reports from Santo Domingo painted a vivid picture of the furious wrath it put across the island before the mountains sapped its strength.

A thousand dead, 2500 injured, 4700 homes destroyed and thousands homeless were some of the figures that came to the offices of the American Red Cross here as it gathered its forces for relief activities. Food, medicines, water and clothing were being dispatched by airplane and ship.

Red Cross officials said command of American relief activities is now in the hands of an American committee which Minister Charles B. Curtis was asked to name today. This committee will co-operate with officials of the republic and through it will be spent the $40,000 the Red Cross has cabled to Curtis. Capt. Antonio Silva, president of the Porto Rican Red Cross chapter, will take charge of immediate relief in the field.

The committee also will take charge of the relief supplies for which Gov. Roosevelt of Porto Rico was sent $10,000, as well as of other contributions made through American officials.

The Canadian Red Cross offered assistance today, and the American Red Cross replied it will be glad to act as intermediary if desired.

Ernest L. Swift, assistant director of foreign operations, said except for voluntary contributions of clothes and relief supplies, no commodities will be sent from the United States.

The United States Army volunteered to the Red Cross the use of surplus army medicines, food and shelter if necessary to save life.

A cable was sent Col. George W. Helms, commander of the Sixty-fifth Infantry, San Juan, Porto Rico, authorizing him to give out any surplus supplies of tents, medical equipment and food upon proper request.

Col. Helms, reported from San Juan he had conferred with Gov. Roosevelt and given him 100 tents, 500 cots, 500 blankets, 1200 cases of milk, 500 cans of lard and 500 pounds of candles, and will fill future requests as far as possible.

STARK NAKED TRIBE FOUND

Primitive Indians Studied by Orinoco Expedition Use Caveman Tactics in Courtship

[Copyright, 1930, by the New York Times]

PORT OF SPAIN, Sept. 5. (Exclusive)—The Orinoco expedition headed by Dr. H. S. Dickey arrived at Trinidad today with important original geographical data and an enormous collection of ethnological and zoological material for the American Museum of Natural History.

First to penetrate peacefully the land of the Guaharibos Indians, the Dickey expedition found them primitive, stark naked and typically Mongolian. They use stone implements but possess enormous farms of maize, pineapples, sugar cane and bananas. They live in cone-shaped community houses under a patriarchal form of government. Their weapons consist of seven-foot bows shooting ten-foot barbed poisoned arrows.

They have a remarkable system of courtship. Children are espoused in infancy, but a male adult desiring another wife approaches the husband of the woman chosen bearing a huge club. A blow with the club on the head at the hands of the husband is considered adequate compensation for loss of the wife, if the suitor survives to take her. Among the Guaharibos the explorer found many heads battered and scarred.

Progress of the expedition was seriously handicapped on the upper reaches of the river by unseasonable low water, which is normally fifteen feet higher during July, the wettest month of the year, necessitating dragging the canoes through shallows for many miles. Mr. Dickey declares Chaffanjon's supposed exploration of the Orinoco above Guaharibos cataract is utterly false as not one salient feature on his map is correct.

The Orinoco originates in the foothills of the Parima Mountains and is formed by at least three large affluents and numberless small tributaries. The present expedition recorded four of these previously unrecorded. Mr. Dickey established a base camp near Casiquiari Canal and made a collection of birds and mammals, among which is the only known specimen of a dwarf sloth, 5 months old and which weighs only three ounces.

Mr. Dickey is to lead a new expedition in February, next, and will establish a base camp at his present point of highest achievement, which lies seventy-five kilometers beyond previous attainments. His men are prepared to spend six months in the region investigating the still unexplored area.

Rubber Gardens Foreshadowed by New Process

AKRON (O.) Sept. 5. (AP)—Rubber gardens may succeed truck gardens in Akron backyards if Firestone Tire and Rubber Company experiments demonstrate the commercial practicability of a new variety of rubber.

The base of the new product, discovered by a German chemist, is potato starch, company officials said. The synthetic product contains no latex or plantation rubber. It is made by mixing the starch with chemicals which coagulate into a gum-like substance said to differ from rubber only in that it is less elastic.

afternoon. For first one arc of the whirling hurricane crashed across the city and then, after an interval, the other half of the circle ripped across town in the opposite direction and completed the havoc begun by the first blow.

The first devastating rush of wind, tearing off roofs and pushing walls of wood and stone on companies of houses and public buildings and on pedestrians in the street, was due north. After a period of hysterical terror that seemed interminable there came a lull and the citizens thought the worst was over. But in reality the quiet was only due to the fact that the city was temporarily in the slower moving hub of the hurricane's juggernaut wheel, and soon the storm broke again, the wind this time due south.

The greatest intensity was between 1 and 2 o'clock. By 3 o'clock the hurricane had passed inland across the republic and today the warm sun shone placidly down on a city razed, on the wholesale victims of the Caribbean's latest tempestuous tantrum.

FLORIDA, CUBA AND BAHAMAS MAY ESCAPE

MIAMI (Fla.) Sept. 5. (AP)—Official weather reports tonight gave semblance that Florida, Cuba and the Bahama Islands will not be affected materially by the rapidly diminishing hurricane that wrecked the city of Santo Domingo, capital of the Dominican Republic, Wednesday.

Barometric readings from various Cuban points indicated the storm passed inland over Northern Cuba and that there no longer is any defined center of disturbance, said Richard W. Gray, government meteorologist.

Atmospheric pressure along the northern coast of Cuba late today was 29.92 and at some points higher, while Nassau reported normal conditions with the barometer rising in the outlining islands. From Key West to Miami, barometer readings were normal.

Forecasts stated the disturbance likely will continue northwest or west-northwest during the next twenty-four hours without damaging winds.

BLOCKING OF CHANNEL HAMPERS RELIEF SHIPS

SAN JUAN (Porto Rico) Sept. 5. (AP)—Gov. Roosevelt, mobilizing relief forces for stricken Santo Domingo, was informed this afternoon supply ships dispatched today will be unable to enter the Ozama River at Santo Domingo because the hurricane blocked the channel.

Maj. Cary I. Crockett, who arrived there last night from Porto Rico on the Governor's orders, reported a dredge is trying to remove the obstruction in the channel of the Ozama.

Supply ships will have to unload at San Geronimo Beach, two miles west of the city. No lighters are available and ships' boats must be used to land medical supplies and rations.

Martial law is in effect in the ruined city. Good order prevails. Relief work is slowly being organized. American Minister Charles B. Curtis asked Gov. Roosevelt that Maj. Crockett be temporarily placed in charge.

Flooded roads, fallen trees and a wide inundated area isolate the capital from the interior.

CORRESPONDENT FINDS INTERIOR IMPASSABLE

PORT-AU-PRINCE (Haiti) Sept. 5. (AP)—Ernest Nichols, Associated Press staff correspondent, today penetrated twenty-four miles east of Azua on horseback in an effort to reach Santo Domingo City through the hurricane-swept district on the eastern end of the island.

Nichols telephoned after midday today from a point on the border that conditions of travel were so bad in that region that he could not proceed further. Amid scenes of the utmost desolation the roads, at best none too easy to travel, were impassable even with his mount. The further Nichols went the more difficult became his journey and he stated that he was retracing his steps.

The correspondent set out yesterday from here in a motor car which he was obliged to abandon within twenty miles of the seaport of Azua. From there he went forward on horseback, filing his dispatches whenever he could obtain wireless or other contact with the office here.

RELIEF RUSHED TO STORM AREA

State Department is willing to cooperate in relief, but that the task is now thought to rest properly upon the Red Cross.

The Catholic Hospital Association, holding its annual convention here, adopted a resolution offering its assistance to the Red Cross in the relief work. Nearly 700 hospitals in the United States are members of the association.

The U.S.S. Grebe reported by wireless it is bound from San Juan to Santo Domingo with relief workers and supplies. The Grebe carries a medical personnel of thirty.

Acting Receiver of Customs Norman L. Orme sent this message from his headquarters at Santo Domingo:

AID SENT BY AIR

"Meager reports country indicate radius thirty miles damaged, but towns' houses intact. Macaris untouched. Official sent by Roosevelt (Maj. Cary I. Crockett, the Governor's aide) arrived Thursday, returned Friday. Rivers high; wharves, ground occupied. Warehouse merchandise (held for customs inspection) under water. Condition population bad. Food short. Thousands without shelter. Hundreds dead, more wounded. No lights, water outside. Urgent."

The Marine Corps at Port Au Prince, Haiti, cabled that two planes sent by the President of Haiti has carried a special representative of that official and if field landings are feasible they will continue to supply necessities by plane to the limit of availability during the emergency.

"Conditions appear to be worse than first reported," the message said.

"Surgical and medical personnel will also be furnished if deemed necessary by Dominican government. Road communications to Santo Domingo interrupted."

CONDITIONS GRAVE

Col. Cutts, commanding the First Brigade of marines at Haiti, later cabled the Navy Department that the planes sent from there had found conditions "unbelievable," and "everything is urgently needed." "It is the present intention to establish a complete field hospital unit at Santo Domingo," he said.

President Hoover sent his sympathy to President Trujillo of Santo Domingo.

"I am shocked and grieved," President Hoover said, "to learn of the terrible storm disaster which has wrought such devastation in Santo Domingo and I hasten to send you my own deep sympathy and that of my fellow-citizens with your suffering people."

Vpersio Franco, secretary of the Dominican Legation here, in the absence of Minister Rafael Brache, conferred with State Department and Red Cross officials and with Dr. Leo S. Rowe, director-general of the Pan-American Union.

Save for one cable, the legation here had received no communications, but officials hoped for more detailed accounts within the next twenty-four hours.

Suicide Seeker Insures Death

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5. (AP)—Caleb A. Levensaler, 54 years of age, an investment broker, believed to be despondent over market losses, strapped window weights to his body, leaned over the rail of an automobile ferryboat and when he landed on a lower deck instead of the water, shot himself through the head, dying a few moments later.

He left a farewell note to relatives in his automobile.

MISSING MINER FOUND DEAD

SAN ANDREAS, Sept. 5. (AP)—The body of Edward Flemm, 56 years of age, a miner, was found at the bottom of the Bryhson shaft, an abandoned mine, late yesterday. He had been missing from his home here since last Saturday.

Beautiful Santo Domingo—Before Disaster Fell

Ancient Cathedral Among Few Buildings Spared

Above is a general view of the city of Santo Domingo before the tropical hurricane virtually leveled it, leaving only 400 buildings out of 10,000 standing. Below is the front of the historic cathedral housing Columbus's tomb, which dispatches say withstood the storm.

YRIGOYEN QUITS AS PRESIDENT

taken place. As word spread that the President, who has been ill, had left his office the city went into an uproar.

The resignation was not unexpected, but nevertheless came as a surprise since leaders of Yrigoyen's own party, the Radicals, were understood to have agreed to maintain a status quo until Monday when they would resume their efforts to oust the President.

FATAL RIOTING

Yrigoyen's action was forced by increasing disorder within the republic, both in the capital city and in the provinces. Last night 3000 students parading in the Avenida De Mayo, clashed with police. Two were killed and thirty wounded.

The President, who has held office since October, 1928, and was to have remained in power until 1934, has been blamed for economic depression within the republic, and has been accused of seeking to establish a dictatorship through installation of his favorites in places of power.

OWN PARTY REBELS

It is assumed tonight that he will remain a factor in Argentine politics. The text of the decree by which he retired from office merely states that to the Vice-President of the republic, Dr. Enrique Martines "are delegated the functions of the Chief Executive of the nation."

Strangely enough, much of the opposition to the President came from within the ranks of his own party. Radical leaders and members of the Cabinet for several days have attempted to bring about his resignation, while the more usually active opposition elements have been somewhat inclined to let events take their course.

RESIGNATION TO HELP BUSINESS OF NATION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. (AP)—While Embassy and State Department officials received the report of President Yrigoyen's resignation with great interest, well-informed financial circles tonight predicted his withdrawal would have a favorable effect on Argentine credit and business in this country.

In business circles and among authoritative sources who have had close contact with Argentine affairs, Yrigoyen was held largely responsible for the present economic depression in Argentina, though it was generally realized that much of the depression there has been a reflection of the world-wide commercial decline.

Observers in official circles recalled that the former President has been repeatedly criticized in the Argentine press for a "notoriously antagonistic" attitude toward the United States.

Citing the abolition last November of the Argentina Caja de Conversion, which took that country on the gold standard, and the recent disturbances in Bueno Aires as "two severe jolts," to foreign confidence in the republic, financial authorities were of the opinion that Argentina is still fundamentally sound financially.

Reduced Work Week Sought

LONDON, Sept. 5. (AP)—The Trades Union Congress meeting at Nottingham today demanded of the government a reduction of the general working week to forty-four hours, including meal times.

John Bromley, member of Parliament for Barrow-in-Furness, predicted there will be 4,000,000 unemployed in Britain by February.

FRENCH FLYER SETS SMALL PLANE MARK

PARIS, Sept. 5. (AP)—The French aviator Jean Laulle in a 40-horsepower, 770-pound plane today established a new world's record for distance in a circuit with 2730 kilometers (1678 miles.) The former record was by the Czecho-Slovakian Vichereck of 2500 kilometers, made in Prague, June 7, 1928.

FRENCH PLAYWRIGHT DIES

PARIS, Sept. 5. (AP)—Georges De Porto Riche, distinguished writer, playwright, and a member of the French Academy, died today. He had been ill several weeks.

Drive Against Rebels Goes On

MANAGUA (Nicaragua) Sept. 5. (AP)—The Nicaraguan constabulary in contact with insurgents during August killed twenty-eight of them, wounded twenty, and captured nine. One member of the guardia was killed, and two were wounded.

Gen. Douglas MacDougal, commander of the guardia, in submitting his report of operations to President Mcncada, listed thirty-two victorious guardia combats during June and July. Forty-six insurgents were killed and forty-two wounded during those two months.

STUDENT TALKS ON HURRICANES

Weather Bureau Forecaster Familiar with Habits

Terror Breeds in 'Doldrums' of Atlantic Ocean

Sun's Position Prime Factor in Starting Storm

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. (AP)—Temporarily deserting his charts on which a heavy red line marks the path of the tropical storm that swept over Santo Domingo, Charles L. Mitchell, Weather Bureau forecaster, in a radio talk today told how the "doldrums" and the earth's rotation cause hurricanes.

Such storms, whether they be the typhoons of the Far East, the cyclones of the Bay of Bengal, or the hurricanes of the South Pacific or the West Indies, are alike.

"All of you," Mitchell said, "doubtless have experienced a state of mind known as the 'doldrums,' when there was a sort of sense of depression with variable decisions that lacked force and permanence.

HOME OF DOLDRUMS

"There is an area called the doldrums over the Atlantic Ocean north of the equator, between South America and Africa, that moves northward and southward with the sun, and in this belt there is a slight depression of the barometer, the winds are light and variable as a rule and local thunderstorms of the usual afternoon conventional type are rather frequent.

"When the 'doldrums' are near the equator, nothing happens, because the deflective force of the earth's rotation necessary to begin a cyclonic storm is so near the zero storms cannot originate.

FAST ENOUGH, ANYHOW

"But in late summer and early autumn the 'doldrums' move to near the Cape Verde Islands and the deflective force is quite sufficient to initiate a cyclonic circulation. Then, by some so-called 'trigger' action which is not thoroughly understood, a cyclonic circulation is set up," the forecaster said.

"Once started, the storms gain violence. The usual West Indies disturbance moves slightly north and east or west at twelve to fourteen miles an hour."

...seem to be a conces... ...sion to dirigibles. Nevertheless I maintain that their performance is not yet convincing. I admire what they have accomplished. It is granted that they have taken passengers across; but the dirigible is more at the mercy of an accident than the airplanes. Let them operate on regular schedule in an overocean service. If they can do this for a long period without mishap, that would be conclusive that they are practical. But, even at that, they must increase their speed to be commercially successful.

RELATIVE COSTS

Their inferior speed is not their only handicap. From a practical standpoint they have another one that will still remain even if the speed can be stepped up to a point where it compares with a plane. This second handicap is the cost involved, not alone in the construction of the ship, but also of the huge hangars required. And, beyond that, a large ground crew must be maintained. Until now there has been a great struggle between these two types of aircraft, but, despite the splendid voyages of the Graf Zeppelin and the R-100, I think the airplane still has the upper hand. The dirigible can do things the airplane cannot, but the use of landing fields ashore and afloat will offset this. Eventually, of course, direct flight will be the thing.

I realize that the ability to make a direct flight is just the goal at which the designers of the DO-X aim.

But airplane designers must not make the same mistake as is found in the dirigibles; they mustn't build their machines so large that the expense of construction and operation eats up the profits.

EXPERIMENT LAUDED

That is just a simple business consideration and it is my reason for believing that the DO-X is too large for practical purposes. Of course, it constitutes an extremely interesting scientific experiment and I admire those who are working on it. They are trying to solve a difficult problem—to find whether the use of many motors gives a plane a real advantage.

This inquiry is assuredly of value to aviation, for we should never forget that safety must always be placed ahead of every other consideration if transocean flying is to be a business success. Speed with safety is the problem and only the future can solve it.

I place my faith in one good motor and I prefer to have only one than three. Though the three may each be just as good as the one, there are three chances of getting into trouble instead of one. But then, I do not want to generalize.

AMERICAN ADVANTAGES

Distances in America are long enough to make the time saved by flying very appreciable; whereas in Europe the cities are many of them relatively close together and when the time consumed in traveling to and from airdromes is added to the flying time there is little saving over the time of a train trip.

But your country has other advantages than that of vastness. An important one is the lack of national barriers. Today I have flown 1000 miles and more. When one flies that distance over Europe he may cross half a dozen countries, each with its customs and passport regulations. That is not only an inconvenience but operates to add to the actual flying time.

In contrast, one can cross an entire continent here without any such interruption. Indeed, instead of finding one's self at odds with others there is a spirit of co-operation here. In developing its own aviation each community finds it best to work hand in hand with the others. That is a distinct help.

PASSENGERS AVAILABLE

And another asset to aviation you have here is, needless to say, your form of industrial development which makes travel facilities important and so provides passengers to pay fares.

I shall have an opportunity while here to study your planes and motors. It is possible that the Question Mark will fly back to France but if it does neither Bellonte nor I will be in it. My friend Paul Codos, who is now in Paris, may take my place and some one else will take Bellonte's—provided the flight is made.

Why, I am asked, do I not fly back myself? Obviously it would be an experience that would bring me nothing at all. It would be risking for nothing trying to do too much. It would be overzealous.

I have been asked stiller questions than that. I was so amused at one question that I assured my questioner that I was going to fly around the earth from the North Pole to the South Pole. I must have given that answer because I am told that a newspaper has announced that I am about to set off on this quaint expedition.

I cannot refrain from repeating that both Bellonte and myself are very touched by the cordiality of our reception here. It has made us feel that we have millions of new friends, a feeling that one can never forget.

BARNES CITY TAX PLEA IN HIGH COURT

Hundreds of Property Owners Ask That Area be Declared Purely Rural

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5. (AP)—Several hundred property owners of the so-called Barnes City area of Los Angeles today sought an order from the State Supreme Court that, if issued, would permit them to pay the comparatively low county taxes instead of the higher tax imposed on property in incorporated areas. The property owners were represented by their spokesman, George H. Bray.

Bray and the other property owners contend the land is unincorporated, while the County Auditor points out the area was made a part of the city of Los Angeles April 11, 1927. Later, however, the incorporation proceedings were declared void and succeeding litigation so snarled the status of the district that the residents are not quite sure whether they are urban or rural dwellers.

Bray asked a speedy decision, because taxes are due November 1 and further litigation is probable unless the status of the district is settled.

Borah Would Let Senate Do Investigating

OMAHA, Sept. 5. (AP)—Asserting Senator Nye's Senatorial investigation had a mission to perform and should continue with it, Senator Borah of Idaho said here today the detectives now figuring in the case add an "off-color" note.

"The committee should determine the facts so the people may know them," he said. "I am not interested in detectives and I think that the Senate is not interested, either."

Senator Borah expressed approval of President Hoover's acceptance of invitations to make addresses.

"The Hoover administration is being blamed for a great deal for which it is not responsible," he said. "Hoover scarcely was responsible for the drought or the stock market crash."

No Holiday for County Groups

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 5. (Exclusive)—County central committees must meet for organization purposes on Tuesday, the 9th inst., regardless of the fact that it is Admission Day, a legal holiday, Charles J. Hagerty, election statistician in Secretary of State Jordan's office, ruled today.

Hagerty says the language of the primary law plainly states that the new county committees shall meet at the Courthouse on the second Tuesday following the August primary election and no exception is made for holidays.

GANDHI'S TERMS FOR PEACE HIGH

Full National Government Demanded by Leader

Lord Irwin Refuses to Grant Stipulated Program

Resumption of Clashes in India Anticipated

POONA (India) Sept. 5. (AP)—Negotiations for cessation of India's civil-disobedience campaign have broken down because Mahatma Gandhi demanded a full national government, responsible only to the people of India and with the right to secede at any time from the British Empire, as the price of calling off the movement.

This the Viceroy, Lord Irwin, refused to grant.

Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and Mr. Jayakar, the peace-makers who delivered those terms from Gandhi and other imprisoned Nationalist chieftains to the Viceroy, and returned with Lord Irwin's reply, tonight made public the full correspondence after stating that their peace efforts had ended in complete failure.

STIPULATIONS MADE

The Nationalist leaders—Gandhi, the Pandits Motilal and Jawarhalal Nehru, Vallabhai Patel and Mrs. Sarojini Naidu drafted their demands at conferences in Yeroda prison here.

In addition to the principal points mentioned for a national government, they stipulated as follows:

That the government should have control of defense forces as well as full economic control.

That it be given the right to refer to an independent tribunal such British claims and concessions, including the Indian public debt, as seemed to them unjust.

That political prisoners not found guilty of violence should be released, their confiscated property restored and any fines paid be refunded.

That village officers who resigned with the start of the civil-resistance movement and were dismissed should be reinstated if they so desired.

That all special restraining ordinances be repealed.

MORE CLASHES FEARED

If the Viceroy agreed to these terms, Gandhi agreed to call off the civil-disobedience program in general, but with the understanding that the illicit manufacture of salt and the picketing of foreign cloth and liquor shops were to continue. He agreed, however, that no more raids upon government salt depots would be organized.

Resumption of the violent clashes between police and volunteers and of the political bitterness that divided Indians against Indians and Europeans against Nationalists is indicated by announcement of Gandhi's terms and their rejection.

The civil disobedience campaign during the recent rainy season has been virtually in abeyance. All India has been watching the negotiations between the government and Gandhi in the hope a better spirit would be developed for the forthcoming London round-table conference.

TWO NATIVES KILLED IN CLASH WITH POLICE

SHIRALA (India) Sept. 5. (AP)—Disorders in the Satara district, brewing for several days, today were climaxed in a battle between police and villagers at Shashi in which two natives were killed.

Six policemen were wounded when the natives charged with scythes and heavy stones.

Many hundreds took part in the encounter and the casualties were heavy. The police used their firearms freely after sticks proved ineffective. Scores of arrests were made, including several wealthy merchants.

NATIONAL CONGRESS LAUNCHES "GANDHI WEEK"

BOMBAY (India) Sept. 5. (AP)—The All-India National Congress today inaugurated a "Gandhi Week" by conducting an illicit salt demonstration on Chowpatty Sands. Thousands of people participated. A large police force kept order and later arrested the secretary of the congress committee, Mr. Trivedi, and the editor of the Congress Bulletin, Mr. Vuzder.

MRS. RHINELANDER DROPS BALM SUIT

WHITE PLAINS (N. Y.) Sept. 5. (AP)—A $500,000 suit for alienation of affections, brought by Mrs. Alice Jones Rhinelander against Commodore Philip Rhinelander, father of her estranged husband, was discontinued today in Supreme Court. The suit was dropped in accordance with Mrs. Rhinelander's recent agreement with her husband, Leonard Kip Rhinelander, reached at Las Vegas, Nev., under the terms of which she was to resume her maiden name of Alice Jones, drop a suit for separation, and discontinue action against Commodore Rhinelander.

'MOTHER' OF MINE UNION HITS LEWIS

Mary Jones, Centenarian, Gives $1000 to Carry on Fight Against Leader

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. (AP)—"Mother" Mary Jones has settled her union labor fight with the Rockefellers, but her old feeling that John L. Lewis should be ousted as leader of the United Mine Workers of America has led her to make a contribution of $1000 to miners who are fighting him.

The 100-year-old unionist made the donation to John Walker of Chicago, a friend and a leader in the fight of the reorganized Mine Workers of America against Lewis.

From the sick bed that she never again expects to leave she whispered to Walker as she gave the money:

"I know of no better use for it. It has broken my heart to see the United Mine Workers crushed. I only pray I may live long enough to see John L. Lewis licked."

Walker's protestation that she needed the money was of no avail.

Robbers' Blows Kill Recluse

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5. (AP)—Giovanni Marcelli, 70 years of age, San Francisco recluse, died in the County Hospital today from a beating suffered Wednesday supposedly at the hands of robbers seeking the hiding place of his rumored hoard of gold.

Police believe two men and a girl, seen to enter Marcelli's cabin that day, beat and tortured the man, and when he refused to disclose where he had hidden his supposed fortune made a search of the place.

LOWER RATES ASKED ON CALIFORNIA FRUIT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. (AP)—A complaint charging that freight rates on fresh deciduous fruits from points of origin in California to South Dakota destinations are unreasonable and excessive was filed today with the Interstate Commerce Commission by the South Dakota Board of Railroad Commissioners. It asked the commission to order the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe and other railroads to put into effect lower and "reasonable" rates.

DUDLEY AYRES KILLS HIMSELF

Stage and Radio Performer Feared Mental Illness

After Lecture on Good Cheer He Commits Act

Actor Widely Known on West Coast Stage

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5. (Exclusive)—At 11 a.m. today thousands of Californians heard Dudley Ayres, star of the stage and microphone, deliver an educational message to the down-trodden, discouraged, and shut-ins. The title of his talk was "It Can Be Done!"

Less than an hour later Ayres was dead by his own hand. He shot himself through the head in the garage of his apartment-house. Able to solve the problems of others, he was not able to solve his own.

Fear that he was hovering on the brink of insanity was given as the reason for Ayres's self-destruction in a note left by the actor on the seat of his expensive automobile.

NOTE TO WIFE

The note was addressed to his wife and read:

"Marjorie, my dear:

"I am afraid I am losing my mind and I haven't the courage to go on and don't want to spoil your life. So I am taking the coward's way out. Dudley."

Mrs. Ayres said her husband has been suffering from nervous disorder for several months, but she had believed he was recovering.

Ayres, who was 40 years of age, and director of speaking at station KYA, had a long career on the stage, principally on the Pacific Coast.

HE PLAYED HERE

Ayres's present wife was his third. His first wife was the stage actress, Isabelle Fletcher, from whom he was divorced in 1923. The following year he married Miss Winona Wilkes, the daughter of the theatrical producer, Thomas G. Wilkes. She died in 1928, a week after a daughter was born in Los Angeles. The daughter is living in Los Angeles with the Wilkes family.

For some time Ayres was connected with the Henry Duffy Players and appeared in leading stock companies in San Diego and Los Angeles. He played leads in the Alcazar stock company here some years ago, appearing opposite Belle Bennett. Recently he has played in Los Angeles stock companies.

Better Inter-city Telephone Service - - than ever!

A history-making event took place in the Mojave desert sands 33 miles south of Bakersfield this week.

The new Los Angeles-San Francisco telephone cable was completed. Now, finer telephone service than ever links up California cities and towns.

Day by day, mile by mile, working crews have been driving toward each other south and north. Their job has been one of the dramatic engineering projects of the West.

The hardy new storm-proof cable spans rivers and mountains, dips beneath towns and deserts. Each reel weighs three tons. Many of them have been dragged up difficult slopes and along hazardous ridges.

At one point it was necessary to keep seven pumps going to enable cable splicers to get down into the manholes. Many a hole digger has struck country that assayed "10 per cent rocks and 90 per cent sparks." Yet often the progress has been at a mile-a-day clip. Man's work — a whale of a construction job — and we're proud of the crews who have put it over in the face of storm, heat, rain and every condition of ground and hazard.

The new cable runs through from Los Angeles through rugged Castaic Canyon, Newhall, Bakersfield, Merced, Stockton and Livermore to Oakland and San Francisco. It's an important link in the cable that will ultimately connect Mexican border with Canadian, making the whole Coast one big neighborhood. Its hundreds of lead-sheathed copper wires already give us immense new facilities for serving your inter-city telephone needs—faster, clearer, more dependably than ever.

SIX GET IN ILLINOIS RACE

Three More Candidates Enter Contest Against Mrs. McCormick, Lewis and Mrs. O'Neill

CHICAGO, Sept. 5. (AP)—The race for the United States Senatorship from Illinois became a six-entry affair today and the wet and dry fight correspondingly broadened. The race started out with two candidates: James Hamilton Lewis, former Senator and outspoken wet, as the Democratic nominee, and Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican and personally dry, who declared she will abide by the voters' decision on a prohibition referendum.

Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill of Downers Grove, a Republican and bitter foe of Mrs. McCormick, next announced as an independent dry with the support of George B. Safford, superintendent of the State Anti-Saloon League, and other prohibitionists.

Three more candidates filed today.

Abe Lincoln Wisler of Chicago, one of the last April Republican primary candidates, entered the race as an independent on a new Liberal party ticket. Louis Warner of Chicago, defeated by Lewis in the Democratic primary, filed as an independent dry.

Wisler polled 19,758 primary votes out of 1,410,538, and Warner garnered 19,619.

C. Emmett Smith of Chicago entered as an independent opposed to the World Court and League of Nations.

Mrs. O'Neill received a setback even before she filed. State Senator Cuthbertson, Republican dry leader, today said he will continue to support Mrs. McCormick.

"I note that Dr. Safford is quoted as having said the Anti-Saloon League probably will indorse Mrs. O'Neill," Cuthbertson said. "To follow such a course is unthinkable for the reason that every dry vote for Mrs. O'Neill will be a vote for Senator Lewis."

MOUTH OF MINE IN MURDER TALE

Finding Old Shaft Backs Up Prisoner's Confession

He Killed Florence Higby Years Ago, Hargard Says

Woman's Skull and Shoe Had Been Found at Jacumba

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 5.—Location of an abandoned mine by a deputy sheriff was believed today to lend corroboration to the confession of a prisoner in New York that he murdered a girl named Florence Higby in the San Diego mountains six years ago.

The abandoned shaft, barely large enough to admit a human body and completely covered by dense chaparral, was discovered by Deputy Sheriff W. H. Sooter. The shaft is believed to be the one into which the body of the girl was stuffed by her murderer. Search of the old mine was being planned by the sheriff's office with expectation, however, that it could not be penetrated until tomorrow or later. Possible solution of the murder, which was only recently disclosed, although it occurred several years ago in the lonely mountain area near Jacumba, was seen by Sheriff Ed Cooper with receipt of a purported confession from an inmate of a government prison in the East.

The murder was brought to light June 28, last, when R. J. Villim and A. W. Smith, proprietors of Beacon Hill service station five miles east of Jacumba, were prospecting for water in that neighborhood. They discovered a woman's hiking shoe and a woman's skull. Coroner Schuyler C. Kelly reached the conclusion that the skull was that of a girl in her early 20's. Search for other remains was made but nothing found.

SHERIFF SEARCHES RECORDS

The girl mysteriously done to death so long ago that only her bleached skull and a time-toughened hiking shoe are all that remains, may be Florence H. Higby, as the government prisoner says. The Sheriff was searching records today to ascertain if such a girl was ever reported missing.

Gerome E. Hargard, serving a sentence of three years and six months in the disciplinary barracks on Governor's Island, New York, made the confession, according to communication from Capt. Edgar W. King, in charge of the barracks prison. Hargard is under observation for his mental condition, the letter stated. Hargard was placed in the hospital for observation after he made the statement, "I want to give myself up for murder," Capt. King wrote. The following information was obtained from Hargard: That during June, 1924, he was employed at a mountain resort between El Centro and San Diego. That the girl, Florence Higsby, was very attentive to him. That one day they were returning from a walk and she besought him to marry her. When he refused she threatened to tell of the relations between them, he said. He stated further that he then choked her and left her body to lie on the mountainside. Later he changed his statement to the effect he hid her body in an abandoned mine.

Hargard's record disclosed he was arrested in Los Angeles on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon in 1927. He was convicted in Los Angeles before that in 1925 for grand theft. He served time in San Quentin prison.

Undersheriff Oliver Sexson was assigned to search the county near where the remains were found for the abandoned mine. The old mine shaft will probably be gassed to kill snakes or other wild creatures which may infest it before a man is sent into it, according to Sooter.

SHAFT HARD TO ENTER

Sooter believes the shaft will be difficult to penetrate, inasmuch as a man would have to worm his way along without room to turn or rise. The shaft has such an abrupt descent into the mountainside that if the girl's body were pushed into it the corpse probably would slide a long distance, he surmises.

The mine is some distance from the spot where the skull and shoe were found. Sooter attributes this to coyotes or other marauding beasts. His theory is that the hungry beasts attempted to drag the body from the hole, and he believes they succeeded only partly, because no other remains were found anywhere about the scene.

"Club Rates" in Examination of Drunks Sought

SAN FERNANDO, Sept. 5. — In an effort to economize on city expenditures, the local City Council is seeking "club rates" from physicians called upon to examine asserted drunken drivers arrested here. During the past month, the cost of such examinations totaled $69, representing twenty-three prisoners who were given the sobriety test. The Council objected to the $3 fee charged for each "drunk."

"Nothing short of a hold-up," was the way the Chief of Police described the practice. The Chief has been instructed to bargain with local physicians in an endeavor to get a cheaper rate. It was the consensus of opinion that the physicians should be paid $2 for each visit to the police station and the examination of one asserted drunk prisoner. For each additional examination he would receive $1.

"The doctors should be willing to give a wholesale rate," one official said. The physicians have made no answer.

LEGIONNAIRE FACES JAIL

Fred White, Adjutant of Long Beach Post, Demurs at Being Immured in Cell for Losing Bet

PASADENA, Sept. 5.—No habeas corpus proceedings or technical objections will save Fred White, adjutant of the Long Beach Post, American Legion, from spending next Wednesday night in this city's new jail, according to eight Pasadena Legionnaires who today were appointed to "shadow" White during his remaining days of freedom.

Commander A. C. Bonzer and Adjutant White, both of Long Beach, are scheduled to have the honor of being the first prisoners locked in the new de luxe cells as the result of a Legion membership contest between Pasadena and Long Beach which this city won. The bet, made before the contest, provided that the commander and adjutant of the losing post be jailed for one day in the winning city's bastile.

"I believe in paying my bets and I'll be on hand at the stipulated time," Commander Bonzer is asserted to have told Commander Albert Engvall of the local veterans' organization.

Adjt. White, however, is reported to look with disfavor upon a diet of bread and water. He was named adjutant after the bet was made and holds that he cannot be held responsible for the bet of his predecessor, Adjt. Clinton M. Sims.

The bet was made between the posts and not between persons and if White took office after the wager was made he is doubly fortunate in falling heir to the honor of being one of the first occupants of a nice clean jail, according to Commander Engvall.

The special guardhouse detail, appointed to "go and get White" if he goes A.W.O.L., consists of Ralph Wood, captain; Thomas Eckstrom, Wendall Warren, Charles Cobb, Fred Amesbury, Henry Garwood, Harry Richardson and Carl Falkenborg.

Rancher Attracted to Barn by Mysterious Blast

Heart Fails as He Reaches Doorway of Building

Broken Bottle Linked to Odor of Cyanide Fumes

TUSTIN, Sept. 5.—While hastening to investigate the source of a mysterious explosion near his home here late yesterday, William Kenyon, 74 years of age, was stricken by a heart attack that caused his death instantly before the eyes of his son, Dwight. County authorities, mystified as to the nature and source of the explosion which lured the elderly man to his death, are making a chemical analysis of glass fragments found strewn over the floor of the Kenyon barn where a small bottle apparently had been shattered. Whether the bottle exploded is not known.

The unmistakable scent of cyanide gas detected at the scene by the son also remained unexplained as no trace of the chemical, that is commonly used for citrus fumigation, was found on the premises.

Father and son were on the front porch of their home at Third and Pacific streets, when they heard an explosion at the rear. The father rushed to investigate with his son following a few paces behind him. As his father reached the door of the barn, Dwight noted the odor of cyanide, he said later, and called a quick, sharp warning to his father, "Look out, don't go in there, there's cyanide gas here." His father halted and stepped quickly backward a pace, then fell to the ground. He was dead when picked up.

A physician summoned from Santa Ana expressed the opinion that cyanide poisoning had been the cause of death and it was not until an autopsy was conducted today by Dr. E. W. Tock, county autopsy surgeon, that heart disease was disclosed as the actual cause. No trace of cyanide poisoning was found, Dr. Tock's report stated.

Kenyon had resided here seventeen years. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Belle French Kenyon, and five children: Chester, Perry, Dwight and Elizabeth, all of this city, and Lee French Kenyon of Perris.

Hospital Sewer System May be Linked with City

SAN FERNANDO, Sept. 5.—A proposal made by the city of Los Angeles to the local City Council, that this city's sewer system be connected with the United States Veterans' Hospital here to handle sewerage from that institution, is being studied by the City Attorney before any action is taken by the Council. At present, sewage at the hospital is handled by its own system and disposed of in a large tank.

Due to the fact that this system is held inadequate, government authorities have requested Los Angeles to arrange with this city for taking care of the hospital's sewage as is done with Olive View Sanatorium.

When the agreement was made between Los Angeles and this city several years ago, permission was granted to San Fernando to extend its sewer lines across Los Angeles territory to connect with the local disposal plant. This grant was conditional on San Fernando's willingness to serve a certain surrounding district in Los Angeles territory, should the need arise. Under this agreement Olive View has been connected with the local sewer system. The Veterans' Hospital, however, did not come in the district, because it was believed at the time the hospital's system would be adequate.

The Council is expected to act favorably on the proposal.

Girl Student Ends Life with Shot in Heart

SAN BERNARDINO, Sept. 5.—Despondent, ostensibly because of ill health, Velma Erlinger, 22 years of age, shot herself through the heart last night and died almost instantly, as she screamed to her mother to forgive her.

"I'm sorry, mother; I've shot myself," she cried to Mrs. Erlinger as her mother entered her room and discovered her act.

Her mother a few minutes before the shooting had sent her to her room to lie down and rest.

The deceased girl was one of the star students of a local business college. Miss Erlinger was a graduate of the San Bernardino High School and popular among the younger people of the city. She had been in poor health for some months and it is believed became despondent when treatment failed to aid her to regain her health. Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow.

HUSKY TRIO STALKS IN CORN

Fair Damsels Exhibit Prize Growth

"Iowa Has Nothing on This for Height," Girls Say

Left to right, Helen Krehbiel, Ernestine Driscoll and Lucille Barry ready to "stalk" right into this field of prize corn raised for the agricultural exhibit at Los Angeles County Fair in Pomona, the 12th to 21st inst., on the Harry Cook ranch near Chino. They declare that Iowa has nothing on this corn. So keen has become the competition in the agricultural department that prospective exhibitors begin their preparations to exhibit the prize products months in advance.

POMONA, Aug. 5.—Every inch of the 100,000 square feet devoted to the display of heavy farm machinery at Los Angeles County Fair held in Pomona from the 12th inst. through Sunday, the 21st inst. has been taken. This statement coming from Secretary-Manager C. B. Afferbaugh, is significant in that it gives assurance to visitors of one of the most varied and complete exhibits of the kind yet offered in the Southland.

In addition to the heavy machinery in this department, there is a large quantity of the lighter farm machinery shown in the regular industrial department and in individual displays. Thus orchard heaters are usually shown outside in order that they may remain lighted for demonstration.

To the average rancher the educational and economic value of the study of the latest types and improvements of machines cannot be overestimated. Labor-saving features appear to predominate in the entries. Important improvements will also be shown in deep-well pumps, many of which will be shown in action. Tractors are included in the heavy-machinery exhibits and a large number of makes will be shown.

Farm implements this year will cover a wide range and will include the last word in plows, cultivators, harrows, etc., designed for particular service such as grove work, vineyards, etc. Some interesting entries in sprayers are also promised while devices for handling fertilizer, engines for general ranch work and articles almost too numerous to mention, fill out the lists.

In fact this department is said to be so complete this year that were it segregated from the remainder of the fair it would form a big attraction all by itself.

The fact that the fair will be open this year on two Saturdays and Sundays is given as one of the chief reasons for the early demand for exhibit space. The Sunday showings will not only add two extra days to the fair but they will give the busy rancher as well as the busy city dweller an opportunity to attend the big exposition.

While the rancher will be particularly interested in the machinery let not the housewife think that she has been neglected for she will find an array of home-making conveniences well calculated to gladden the heart. Throughout the industrial section a large percentage of the displays will be of articles designed to lighten her burden. There she will find the latest in electrical refrigeration, electrical appliances for the laundry, for the kitchen and, in fact, for every department of her home. Many new things, astonishing in their performance, will be shown. All these she can examine at her leisure without feeling in any way the obligation to purchase.

"OLD GRADS" PRESENT PROFESSOR WITH WATCH

REDLANDS, Sept. 5. — Members of the class of 1885 of the Worcester (Mass.) Polytechnic Institute, forty-five years after their graduation have remembered the only living instructor of the class, Dr. T. E. N. Eaton of this city. They have sent to him a beautiful Touchon repeater watch, one of the most expensive made.

Prof. Eaton was known to his former students by the affectionate name of "Tene," taken from the initials of his full name. Inscribed in the back of the watch are these words: "Thomas E. N. Eaton, Tene, from the class of '85, forty-five years after."

The timepiece is a thin model Touchon repeater and tells the time for those who are blind as well as for those who see. Upon command, the watch will strike the hour and the minutes in musical tones and its accuracy is said to be constant. Such watches generally cost more than $1000.

At the annual banquet of the class, of which there are twenty members living, Prof. Eaton was made an honorary member of the class. Prof. Eaton first came here in 1888, on a sabbatical leave. Then he returned in 1891 to make his home, regained his health and has been mathematics instructor in the high school here for the past thirteen years.

Three days following Christmas are chosen as the days for staging the water event, which will probably attract boat enthusiasts from all over the United States, particularly in sections of the East and Middle West, where waters are frozen during the winter months.

Commodore J. A. Reek, Frank L. Smith and Secretary MacLeod, Stuart H. Lucas and Don Douglas are named on the committee to interview possible entrants. If the Christmas regatta is staged it will be the first time such an event will have been tried in Newport Bay during the winter season.

BAD BREAK IN VALLEY CANAL

Zanjeros Unable to Account for Mystery Damage

Ranchers of West Side Fear Grave Water Shortage

IMPERIAL, Sept. 5. — Ranchers on the west side of Imperial Valley are facing the threat of a serious water shortage during the week as a result of a break in the Sofatera Canal near Volcano Lake in Lower California, early last night.

According to reports brought to the Imperial Irrigation District offices here, the break is nearly 100 feet in length. The situation is so serious that directors of the district left this afternoon to inspect the damage and confer with Engineer M. J. Dowd, regarding plans for repair work.

The Sofatera Canal supplies water to all that part of Imperial Valley lying west of New River, and also a considerable area in Mexican Imperial Valley. As soon as the break was discovered, water was shut off at Cudahy Check and, according to reports, only a small amount of damage was done to adjacent lands. However, ranchers depend on this canal for both domestic and irrigation water and a week's shutdown will cause considerable hardship and some loss to farmers in the area involved.

Zanjeros, who found water pouring through the gap during the night were unable to explain the cause of the break.

BAPTISTS OUST THEIR PREACHER

Ontario Congregation in Stormy Session Declares Rev. Gould Pulpit Vacant

ONTARIO, Sept. 5.—The pulpit of the First Baptist Church of this city is without a minister, and will probably be filled with substitute preachers for two or three weeks, it was intimated today after the congregation had declared the Rev. J. Orrin Gould no longer pastor of the church, and the pulpit vacant.

In a stormy session of the congregation and Dr. Gould, request was made of the pastor to tell his following why he had not tendered his resignation as instructed early in July.

The outcome of the meeting was that the membership publicly declared the pulpit vacant, and the church without a pastor. The vacancy of the pulpit was to take effect immediately, the members voted.

The church board set about at once to seek another pastor to take the place of Mr. Gould.

The latter has been pastor of the local Baptist Church for two years. He succeeded Rev. Harold Propps, who remained here only a few weeks, and then accepted a pastorate in Hollywood.

No statement was made by Mr. Gould following the action of the church board in declaring his pulpit vacant.

Mr. Hook received word today that the break is a clean one and that there is little danger of complications.

LAST RITES TODAY FOR SLIDE VICTIM

GLENDALE, Sept. 5.—Funeral rites will be conducted at 11 a.m. tomorrow in the Wee Kirk o' the Heather, Forest Lawn Memorial Park, for Donald Downs, president of the 1928 graduating class at Glendale High School, who died Monday night of injuries received in a rock slide on Muir Trail in the High Sierras.

The body arrived here yesterday from Bishop, where it was taken by pack train after the boy's death in a mountain camp.

Young Downs was one of four boys injured in the slide. The others are recovering. Downs lived for a week after the accident, but succumbed following a second operation to check blood poisoning. He formerly was a track and football star at Glendale High School and had planned to enter the University of Southern California this fall.

His mother, who was with him when he died, is in a state of collapse at her home here.

Tax Rate Cut in Huntington Beach Again

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Sept. 5.—For the third consecutive year the tax rate for this city will be $1.80 on the $100. The rate was officially set by the City Trustees. According to City Clerk Charles R. Furr, the cost of the city government for the year will be approximately $190,125. The assessed value of the city is $12,675,000.

City Engineer Rossen is preparing plans and specifications for the first step in the improvement of the East Side, the budget allowing for the immediate expenditure of $23,987 for street work.

Plans provide for the improvements of Wesley avenue and Quincy street to cost $7515; Crest avenue to Tenth street improvements to cost $10,819; Tenth street from Palm to Crest, $923; and Indianapolis street, $4820. The streets will be finished in rock and oil surface with concrete curbs and culverts in some places.

East Side residents are circulating a petition seeking to have Huntington avenue cut through to the Coast Highway. With this street cut through congestion in the business district will be eliminated and will provide better access to the coast for East Side residents and for tourists coming in on Delaware from inland cities.

NAVY TO SPEND MILLI

More than that Sum Authorized for Projects Under Way or Proposed for This Year at San Di

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 5.—More than $1,000,000 is authorized for projects now under way or proposed for this year, announcement today by Capt. Dewitt C. Webb, public works officer of the Eleventh Naval District. Webb said bids on a $165,000 project extending the North Island Naval Air Station pier to a length of 1000 feet have been opened at the Bureau of Yards and Docks, Washington, and that award of the contract to the low bidder soon is expected. The pier now is 440 feet long.

Work of extending the erection shop at the naval air station, for which $150,000 was provided, is progressing and plans are being prepared for a welfare building to cost $150,000, and a metal aircraft shop costing $130,000, at that station, Capt. Webb announced.

By the end of the year an announcement is expected to be made for construction of a combination mess hall, for the use of men at the local naval training station, for which $348,000 has been allotted, and on the construction of a 50,000-barrel fuel-storage unit at Playa fuel depot.

FORMER KAISER WINS LIBEL SUIT

"Morgenpost" Editor Fined or Must Go to Jail

Berlin Lord Denies Charge of Krupp Works Fraud

Echoes of Wilhelm's Lost Glory Heard in Court

BERLIN, Sept. 5. (AP) — After a four court struggle in which echoes of his lost splendor reverberated through the halls of justice, former Kaiser Wilhelm today won his damage suit against a newspaper editor he charged with slandering him.

The court decreed that the defendant, Ewald Mendel, editor of the Morgenpost, must pay a fine of 1500 marks (about $75) or serve three months in jail. The newspaper had charged that the Kaiser profited the Krupp Arms Works to supply inferior munitions during the World War because he had a personal interest in the company.

"OUR KAISER"

The suit opened with a hot clash over the residence of Wilhelm's attorney on their right to speak of the former as "Our Kaiser." The defense protested that he should be referred to as "Prince of Prussia." The court finally ended the word battle by ruling that "there isn't a Kaiser any more," and allowed Wilhelm's attorneys to speak as they pleased.

Then the court to permit the parties to settle the matter out of court precipitated another clash.

"The Kaiser has been slandered," declared, "nothing but complete recantation will satisfy us," thundered Max Alsberg, one of the former Kaiser's lawyers. "We want to see much-heralded proofs."

SETTLEMENT OPPOSED

Mendel's attorneys were equally firm. They said settlement of the case was out of the question, declaring they would establish the truth of the newspaper's charges before the case was thrown out of court.

The case ended, however, without the Morgenpost being allowed to present the "much-heralded proofs." The court ruled that it was impossible to determine what conditions were during the pre-war and war days referred to in the disputed Morgenpost article. The proofs, consequently, were not admitted as evidence.

CENSUS JUBILEE OPEN TO PUBLIC

Prosperity Pageant Opens Way at Glendale

More than $1,000,000 Worth of Exhibits Shown

Admission Day, Tuesday, Honor State Pioneers

GLENDALE, Sept. 5.—The annual Prosperity Pageant and Census Jubilee opened in this city last night to a capacity crowd with the Mayor of Glendale, C. E. Austin, delivering the address of welcome and asking the attendance of the citizens of this community in making this "first event" a success.

More than $1,000,000 worth of exhibits are on display at the pageant, it is stated, presenting the most modern and up-to-date devices for the home, also showing the latest creations from Hollywood Row.

The entertainment portion, a feature of the pageant, will consist of the Southland's most noted artists taking part. The musical program is under the direction of Kenneth Louis, from Russia, who at one time was the principal tenor for the San Francisco Los Angeles grand opera companies, with his own troupe of artists.

There will be a complete change of program daily, with many interesting events slated for the entertainment of visitors to this section of Glendale products.

A record attendance is expected during the ten days and nights of the pageant, based on the tremendous advance sale of tickets made long before the doors were opened, according to George McCarthy, pageant director.

Admission Day, the 9th, will be observed as Pioneers' Day in the pageant, the program of that date being dedicated to Glendale's first citizens and to Glendale pioneers.

Among the guests of honor on Admission Day will be Mme. Lutge Lutge, known as America's first woman impresario, and one of Glendale's early residents, who returned here after an absence of more than thirty-five years.

Mme. Lutge has agreed to appear on the program on Tuesday, presenting a number of noted singers among whom will be Leon Sametini, violinist, and Samuel Gardner, composer. Caldwell will give a special number, "The Jewel Song," specially written for the occasion.

Harvey, to a new firm composed of W. C. Neely of Santa Ana, A. Kraus of Alhambra and W. Shettel of the former organization, was announced today.

Under escrow arrangements the new firm will take possession the 15th inst. The consideration for the deal, which has been under process for some time, was announced by Mr. Shettel, secretary-treasurer of the new organization.

Starting on the opposite corner of Second and Garey avenues, where it is now located, the store has steadily expanded until it is now one of the largest and most representative department stores in the valley.

Shepherd and Harvey, active members of the former firm, have announced no definite plans for the future. Shepherd has been a resident of the city for many years, and is secretary-treasurer of the Los Angeles County Fair Association. Harvey, who joined the firm in 1926, is also well known in civic, business and fraternal circles.

AMERICANS IN PERU JAIL AWAIT FATE

State Department Given Advices that Prisoners are Not Mistreated

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. (AP)—Secretary Cotton said today the State Department was informed the two Americans held prisoner by the new Peruvian military junta are receiving satisfactory physical treatment, but their cases have not yet been settled.

Ferdinand L. Mayer, American charge d'affaires in Lima, is looking to the interests of the two men. One of them, Harold B. Grow, former naval officer, was imprisoned on a charge that he intended to bomb the city of Arequipa under orders from former President Leguia.

The other, Charles W. Sutton, who worked as irrigation engineer under two former Peruvian governments for nearly twenty-five years, was imprisoned shortly thereafter, charged with irregularities in his former duties.

Cotton said the State Department had not ascertained whether either man had taken an oath of allegiance to the Peruvian government under which they worked.

Ex-Senator Reed Criticizes Allies

PARIS, Sept. 5. (Exclusive)—A hot criticism of the Allies' attitude toward Germany was offered here today by former Senator James A. Reed, Missouri, who has just returned from a comprehensive auto tour of Europe. He took the trip to study general conditions.

"The Young plan is crushing Germany," declared the former Senator.

"Germany's position is that of a man bleeding in twenty places," he said, "while the doctors—the allied nations—try to cure him by opening another wound."

Mr. Reed believes that France is particularly responsible.

HOOVER GREETS GERMAN FLYERS

Von Gronau and Zimmer Call at White House

Commercial Air Line Over Atlantic Discussed

Visitors Regard Plan as Entirely Feasible

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. (AP)—Capt. Wolfgang Von Gronau and Edward Zimmer, German trans-Atlantic flyers, today were congratulated by President Hoover, who discussed with them the practicability of a commercial air line between Europe and the United States.

Before seeing the President Von Gronau said the idea was entirely feasible. He said the ocean crossing should be divided into three stages, with bases on the west coast of England, Iceland and Greenland.

The flight of the Germans was unheralded and was a part of a training program of a German governmental flying school which is headed by Von Gronau. He said no advance preparations were made and their plane was old and lacked proper radio equipment.

WORK WANTED--SEE WILBUR

Interior Department, Once Ruler of Empire, Finds Duties Rapidly Diminishing, Hence Seeks More

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. (AP)—The Interior Department which surveyed, mapped and sold an empire, seems to be working itself out of a job. Its head, Secretary Wilbur, has expressed the opinion the department should have more work to do and today John H. Edwards, acting secretary, said the National Park Service is the "only growing bureau" under its jurisdiction.

Edwards explained the other bureaus have no room for further development. Each is engaged in a fixed task. When that is completed, nothing is in sight to take its place.

The day when the General Land Office had for distribution hundreds of thousands of fertile acres is gone. They are farms, towns and cities now. The cream of the reclamation service work has been done and the vast area west of the Ohio River is disposed of save for a few patches of desert and rocks.

The Indian service is another example. Secretary Wilbur believes it should cease to exist in twenty-five years, with its work complete. A study made in the Northwest recently, to determine if it is feasible to cut down activities among the Indians now, yielded a report that about half of the 30,000 wards of the government might be given certificates of competency, and dropped.

The Geological Survey is still in operation but has lost its only growing offshoot, the Bureau of Mines, to the Commerce Department. With establishment of the new veterans' administration, the Bureau of Pensions, which had spent nine-tenths of the appropriations for the department, passed from Interior jurisdiction. The Patent Office was transferred to the Commerce Department while President Hoover was Commerce Secretary.

There is only one other bureau—the Office of Education — but it seems congealed between a policy of restricted activity and a movement for creation of a department of education.

Some sentiment exists for transferring to the Interior Department the Forestry Service and the Biological Survey of the Agricultural Department, because of their relation to the national parks and public lands, and also the Public Health Service, now in the Treasury Department.

Move Means Freeze Out for American Pictures

Agreement All Complete and Waits Ratifying

PARIS, Sept. 5. (Exclusive)—A bilateral agreement for the free exchange of French and German talking motion pictures has been closed here, it was learned today.

The compact is regarded by motion-picture officials as another move against the expansion of American interests in the European market.

It is said that the new accord will allow the unrestricted exchange of French and German pictures outside the quota walls.

Likewise, it provides for special licenses to permit the sale of French pictures in Germany above the normal French quota.

The agreement, which is for the period of one year, is reported to be in the hands of the respective governments for ratification.

TARZAN AND THE LOST EMPIRE

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

All the survivors of the week of combat were there, one hundred of them. Each man was given a sword, dagger, pike, shield and harquus net, and thus, one by one, they were sent into the arena. They were divided into two equal parties and red ribbons were fastened to the shoulders of one party and white ribbons to the shoulders of the other.

Tarzan was among the reds, as were Hasta, Metallus, Lukedi, Mpingu and a Bagego named Ogonyo. The reds were to fight against the whites until all the reds were killed or all the whites. The two parties were lined up on each side of the arena. Trumpets sounded and the armed men started advancing cautiously toward each other.

Tarzan smiled at the net he was supposed to make use of and he concluded that the Spanish sword would be little help. But he had used spear and shield in fighting beside the Waziri warriors, and with the dagger he felt at home, as the hunting knife of his father was the weapon he had used since he was a boy in the jungle.

As the two lines drew closer, each man selected the opponent opposite him, and Tarzan found a ferocious-looking black from the outer villages. Already pikes were flying through the air. Tarzan and the black hurled their missiles at the same instant. Tarzan's weapon passed through the shield of his opponent and pierced his heart.

EDLEY RIDES AGAINST BRITISH POLOISTS TODAY

RABBIT PUNCHES
PAUL LOWRY

NORTH AND SOUTH

THE battle for the State golf championship is proceeding merrily on its way to a North-South final at Pebble Beach. This is assured as far as the southern end is concerned, Bud Eichelberger of these parts having disposed of Ralph Hoffman of Oakland, leaving Bud and Fay Coleman in sole and undisputed possession of the lower half of the draw.

Of course, if Johnny McHugh gets licked by Francis Brown of Honolulu, the old, familiar line about "South Dumps North Again" will have to be thrown into the waste basket.

Mr. Brown, who is very long from the tee, does his hitting under the colors of Honolulu, and the headline writers, therefore, will have to dig up other verbiage.

It seems that our Mr. Leon Keller of Rancho did quite nobly in his quarter-final match with Coleman, holding it square over the regulation route and forcing the Southern California champ to travel an extra hole.

However, the thought suddenly striking him that it might be considered an upset if he defeated a champion, he twice drove out of bounds on the extra hole.

Naturally, this threw the match to Coleman, although there are no reports that Mr. Keller was trying to emulate Brother Harris of San Francisco, who deliberately drove into the ocean in order that he might not defeat Coleman the previous day.

I really liked the chances of Lawson Little, the boy who beat the fellow that licked Bobby Jones in the nationals last year, but Brown apparently had too much on the ball for Little.

THE STRIKEOUT HERO

REV. H. HOCKER, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Compton, takes up arms for Benly Horne as the strikeout king in the pinches.

In this respect he takes issue with Feg Murray, who pointed out in a recent cartoon the feat of Lefty Grove of the Philadelphia Athletics in a game with the Red Sox.

Mr. Hocker writes as follows:

"Feg Murray in Wednesday, September 3, 1930 issue of the Los Angeles Times, speaking of the remarkable record of Lefty Grove of the Athletics says:

"'He went in as a relief pitcher against the Red Sox on June 2, 1928 (second game of a double-header) and fanned three men with the bases full in the eighth inning and then struck out the first batter to face him in the ninth inning.'

"Now that's fine, but Benly Horne did better than that in the game between the Angels and the Seals last Tuesday night, September 2 at Wrigley Field when there were three men on and no outs

Crowd of 8500 Sees Veteran Pitcher Steal Show

Schulmerich and Gaston in Collision at Plate

BY BOB RAY

Ed Baecht, youthful Angel right-hander, attempted to hang up his twenty-first victory of the season at Wrigley Field last night, but ran into a little too much competition from Elmer Jacobs, veteran Seal hurler, often referred to as the "poppa of the five little Jakes." Elmer proved entirely too good for the Seraphs and Baecht and pitched the Seals to a 4-to-1 victory that evened up the series and provided plenty of entertainment for the crowd of 8500 fans on hand for the occasion.

ELMER JACOBS

Baecht was supposed to be the attraction of the evening, but "Old Jake," after yielding a run in the first inning, settled down and blanked the Seraphs the rest of the way to steal the limelight from his youthful rival. Baecht allowed eight hits, one less than the Angels got off Jacobs, but was not as steady in the pinches and yielded runs in the second, fourth, sixth, and eighth innings.

The contest was featured by a collision at the plate between Wes

AMERICANS FAVORED IN INTERNATIONAL OPENER

Earle Hopping Lands No. 2 Berth on Team; Expect 40,000 Fans to Attend Polo Classic

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 5. (AP)—For the tenth time since 1886, Great Britain and the United States will send their foremost riders galloping into action tomorrow for the international cup, emblem of polo supremacy and one of the world's classic trophies of sport.

Official announcement by the rival captains late today confirmed the opening line-up as follows:

CALIFORNIA STAR

Eric Pedley
Of the Midwick Country Club, who rides at No. 1 for America in the international polo battle against Great Britain today.

America—Eric Pedley of California, No. 1; Earle A. S. Hopping of New York, No. 2; Capt. Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., of New York, No. 3; Frederick Winston Churchill Guest of New York, back.

TOMMY HITCHCOCK

Great Britain—Gerald Balding, No. 1; Lewis L. Lacey, No. 2; Capt. C. T. I. (Pat) Roark, No. 3; Lieut. Humphrey Guiness, back.

These selections came as no surprise, but confirmed the belief that the 22-year-old Hopping, youngest member of the American team, has won the No. 2 position in a hot four-cornered contest, involving the two Texans, Cecil Smith and Rene Williams, as well as another Californian, Elmer Rossiter, Jr. There had been no speculation about the remaining three positions, which mark the inclusion of a Californian, Pedley, for the first time.

Capt. Hitchcock, ace of the defending forces, nevertheless specifically reserved the right to make any changes he considers necessary after the first match. Except as a result of the injury or incapacitation of a player, no substitutions can be made once a team takes the field.

There had been even less doubt about the British line-up, which represents the extent of the available Anglo talent with the exception of Capt. Charles H. Treyor, the nonplaying leader and only remaining spare. The challengers were beset by a series of ailments, forcing three No. 1 candidates out of action and compelling a rearrangement of the team made effective only last Sunday.

This switch, regarded as strongly improving the chances of the British, involved sending the famous Anglo-Argentine veteran, Lords

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 5. (AP)—A home run by Paul Waner in the ninth gave Pittsburgh its second victory over Chicago today, 8 to 7.

The Cubs fought an uphill battle all the way against the league leaders. Three-run Buccaneer rallies in both the seventh and eighth brought a deadlock and sent Pat Malone to the showers in the latter frame. Waner's circuit swat came with one out in the ninth to decide the issue.

Gabby Hartnett, Cub catcher, hit his thirty - second home run of the season with two on in the fourth. Score:

STARS WIN ANOTHER

Hill Hits First Ball Pitched for Home Run and Club Goes on to Beat Missions, 8 to 7

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5. (Exclusive)—Hollywood beat the Missions again today. The score was 8 to 7 and it made four wins in a row for Hollywood here this week. Hollywood has taken ten out of thirteen games from the Missions in the last two weeks and has tightened its hold on first place.

The Missions came from behind twice, overcoming a four-run lead once and a two-run lead another time, but they could not overcome the lead Hollywood got in the eighth inning. They had the tying run on first base in the ninth when Rufft rolled to Green for the put that ended the game.

JESSE HILL

Jesse Hill hit the first ball pitched by Dutch Lieber for a home run in the first inning. He drove that ball into the bleachers with one hand. He got a double later in the game. That hit would have been a home run on a big field for the ball was between the fielders, going plenty fast, and Hill is a swift runner. The bleacher front held the hit to two bases.

After Hill hit his home run, Lee was walked and Brannon, Barbee and Carlyle hit singles, scoring two runs. Green hit into a double play, the third

BOBBY LA SALLE STOPS THOMAS IN COMEDY GO

Bad Bobby LaSalle, the wild man of the beaches, won on a technical knockout over Eddie Thomas last night in the sixth round of their scheduled ten-rounder at Hollywood.

BOBBY LASALLE

In the sixth round LaSalle connected with a right hand flush on Thomas's chin. Thomas went down, but rose up on one knee. After Referee Lieut. Duke Kenworthy had counted to four he stepped and told Thomas to get up and fight. Thomas replied that he couldn't as Kenworthy raised LaSalle's hand, whereupon the Wilmington idol galloped over to Thomas, picked him up and deposited him in his corner.

During the first three rounds Thomas ran with LaSalle after him. Several times LaSalle stood stalk still and beckoned Thomas to come in and fight, but Thomas, who doesn't look like a fighter, but a gentleman of the ensemble, ran just the harder.

Once during the affair LaSalle told Thomas, "Go on and run, you monkey, I'll catch you yet." And sure enough he did catch him in the sixth.

Phil Zurick, good-looking newcomer from the East, proved to be too smart and too quick for Battling Bulahan in the six-round semi-wind-up. Zurick won an easy

Tales of a Wayside Tee

LEO DIEGEL, the bounding elf of golf, starts in next week at Fresh Meadows in defense of the hardest title of them all to defend. He must meet the pick of the professionals, minus only Hagen and Mac Smith, at a week of match play over the thirty-six-hole route.

No champion faces a harder job. He must run the gantlet where such golfers as Tommy Armour, Horton Smith, Gene Sarazen, Johnny Farrell, Harry Cooper and others are waiting for his scalp.

Hagen failed to qualify after a run of hard luck and Mac Smith doesn't care for a week's play at thirty-six holes per day. But outside of these two the best talent in the game is ready for the all-week test over a course where par is seldom equaled.

Concerning Diegel

The first time I ever saw Diegel in a big competition dates back to the United States open at Inverness in 1920. He was then the same nervous, highly keyed golfer that he has been for ten years. It was something of a surprise then to see him hit his tee shot and either chase the ball over the hill or else jump to the top of a tee box, shading his eyes with his right hand, to see just where it stopped.

Diegel came within one swing of winning that open. He had the title sewed up with six holes to go. Then at the top of his swing on the thirteenth tee of the last round some one sneezed or coughed and Leo crashed his drive into the ravine below and took a 7 on a par 4 hole. Even with that break against him he lost only by a stroke. But he almost jumped off the tee as he swung at the fatal ball in the wake of the wrecking cough.

Other Chances

At Worcester in 1925 Diegel turned in a 67 early in the going and had a great chance on the last round. He was out in 33 and started home 3-4. He was 4 under 4's with the crown on his head as he brooded about the next hole where a tree to the left of the course had previously cost him two strokes. Coming to this spot, Diegel again hooked back of the tree, took a 7 and finally finished with something like a 9 on the last hole. Yet Diegel is a fine up-hill fighter. He is geared to such a nervous pitch that he has to battle against himself as well as an opponent, and this means a double job.

It was due to this nervous strain that he adopted his present putting method, where the wrists do not come into play—where he must do most of the work with his elbows and arms, holding his elbows wide apart in a big triangle.

Diegel is also one of the longest hitters in golf. He has a way of coming into the ball at a flat angle where the final sweep of the club is close to the ground and almost parallel. This keeps out any cut and gives him twenty or thirty yards beyond the distance he might have gotten with a more upright swing.

Diegel is one of the most popular players in all golf, amateur or professional. He plays the game to the final hilt without any attempt at goat-getting, without any thought of an alibi. He came near hooking Hagen at Olympia Fields a few years ago when he was 4 up and 4 to play, only to lose on the fortieth hole against Hagen's brilliant rush at the finish. He was the one to finally break Hagen's long winning streak and to repeat last fall. Leo is one of the most interesting of all the golfers to watch, and he is sure to carry his share of the gallery at Fresh Meadow next week.

His Challengers

Who will be Diegel's main challengers? There are two you can count on quickly. One is Tommy Armour, the brilliant Detroit entry, a master of both wood and iron. The other is Horton Smith, who is always dependable.

But these are not the only two. Gene Sarazen and Johnny Farrell are fine match players and so is Harry Cooper. Anyone from this trio is quite good enough to win. And these are only a few from one of the strongest fields of many years. Billy Burke is a fine golfer and so is Johnny Golden, who played so well as Interlachen.

In these P.G.A. championships where the star pros can go out for everything you will see some of the most remarkable shots of the year. They are not restricted as they are by the medal count of an open, where one mistake may cost too heavily. Here they can go for the pin and take all the chances in sight. They can play golf to the limit without the nervous tremors of a medal round.

The recent tournament over one of Paul Lannin's fine courses at Salisbury, L. I., was proof enough that most of the bunch have their blades adjusted for next week's play. This tournament comes as close as anything else to deciding the match-play championship of the world.

A WASHINGTON SITUATION

BOUND for the Superior Court, Lawyer Marty Burke, erstwhile sports writer and editor, paused long enough to remark that Jimmy Phelan has a political situation to contend with at Washington this year.

"No," he said, "it's not Baggy Bagbaw's friends who will bother Phelan.

"When Baggy was finally ousted they were convinced it was for the best.

"They'll be good and be still unless Phelan gets off to a terrible start.

"There are other warring elements, and Phelan has these to cement before he gets whole-hearted support."

Lawyer Burke is the chap "Baggy" once ejected forcibly from the Washington dressing-room on a certain New Year's Day when Alabama came from behind to snatch a game out of the fire from the Huskies.

Lawyer Burke later became sports editor of a paper in "Baggy's" home town. "Baggy" was discomfited, but Lawyer Burke saved the day by a fine appreciation of the situation.

HOLLYWOOD FOUR TO FACE FOES TOMORROW

Out to hang up another victory, the Hollywood Polo and Hunt Club four will clash with the Clover Leaf All-Stars in a special rematch contest tomorrow at 2:30 on the Ventura Boulevard field.

The Film City team defeated the All-Stars, 5 to 2, last Sunday and with Buddy DuBrock again riding in top form will rule a slight favorite to repeat its triumph. DuBrock will hold down the No. 2 berth while John Feyes, a new addition to the team, will perform at No. 3. Bill Ray, who scored all his team goals last week, will ride at No. 3 for the All-Stars and is expected to do the majority of the point gaining. Porter Chase is another fast rider for the Clover Leafs.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS STOPS TOM GARDNER

Gardner's neck and shoulder have been affected. The case has not been serious and he will probably recover, the doctors said.

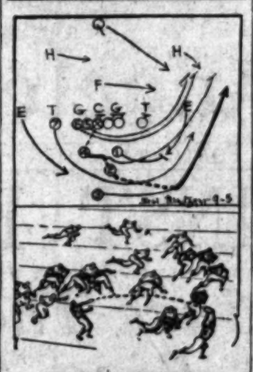
Zuppke's Fake Forward Pass Ground Gainer



BY SOL METZGER

The story of Bob Zuppke, painter of lurid landscapes and lover of the spectacular in football, is an amazing one. Never a varsity man at Wisconsin but a hard-working and much-bumped-about scrub, Bob got himself a job coaching the Oak Park High School team in Chicago. Whereupon football looked him over and pronounced him sound. He was gathered unto Illinois.

One of the main reasons why the "Little Napoleon of the Gridiron" became a full-fledged college coach with a most enviable record today is the play shown here. It went like a house afire at Oak Park. It was a step forward in football strategy, one so sound that Illinois may spring it at any time when the going is hot, just as they uncork the famous "flea flicker" which Bob also perfected as a high school mentor.

Ball is passed to No. 4 back, who in turn passes it laterally to the No. 2 back while on the run. No. 4 continues around the end. No. 2, upon receiving the ball, fakes a forward pass to check the oncoming defense. Instead, he throws a lateral, the second of the play, to No. 3 back, who is already speeding wide to circle the end.

When No. 3 takes it on the run he is protected by waves of interfeagers, most of them from the line. Looks complicated, doesn't it? It's anything but. Matter of fact it's a whale of a play and always will be, for the opposition is sorely perplexed throughout.

run scoring meanwhile, Bassler and Gazella hit safely to score the fourth run of the inning. Turner hit hard to Burns for the third out.

Eddie Mulligan doubled in the last of the first and scored on a sacrifice fly and an infield out. Mulligan got four hits, nearly half of the total made by the Missions.

Green was passed in the fifth and Bassler singled to put him on third. Gazella lined to Mulligan who doubled Bassler off first but Turner singled to score the run.

The Missions tied the score in the last of the fifth. Hoffman singled, Lisber was passed and Mulligan beat out an infield hit, to fill the bases. A pass to Rodda, forced in one run and a single by Monroe scored two more. Hufft forced Monroe at second, while Rodda scored the fourth run of the inning. Brannon hit a home run in the sixth to pu. Hollywood out in front again, and Green hit a line drive into the bleachers in the seventh to add to Hollywood's lead.

But the Missions tied the score again in the last of the seventh. Mulligan got his third hit, Rodda was out on a fly to Carlyle, and Monroe was passed. Burns drove the two runners home with a double to right.

Hollywood put over the winning run in the eighth. Brannon got his fourth hit of the game and Barbee got a hit on a bunt that took a bad hop and nearly hit Rodda in the eye. Both runners were advanced on Carlyle's sacrifice. Green walked to fill the bases, Bassler grounded to Monroe, who threw late to second base trying to force out Green. Brannon scored and all hands were safe. Gazella popped to Rodda and Turned bounced to Lieber for the third out.

Mulligan began the last of the ninth with a single, but got no help. Rodda was out on a fly to Carlyle. Monroe forced Mulligan at second and Hufft ended the game with a weak roller to Green.

Bonita are still leading the catches brought in from the Olympic, with halibut, sculpin, sandabs, bass and mackerel also being caught.

GOLF WIN GOES TO SARAZEN

Gene Captures First in Lannin Memorial Play at New York

SALISBURY PLAINS (N. Y.) Sept. 5. (AP)—Scoring a 70 on the last round, Gene Sarazen, stocky professional from Flushing, N. Y., today won the $5000 J. J. Lannin memorial open golf championship with a 72-hole total of 287.

Runner-up with 288 was Walter Kozak of Douglaston, N. Y., who shot rounds of 69 and 71 today and held the lead until Sarazen's fourth-round 70 pushed him into second place.

Third honors went to a young Britisher from Clementon, N. J., Charles Lacy, whose first-round 69 aided him in scoring an aggregate of 290. His last-round 71 beat par by one stroke.

AMERICAN GOLFERS DEFEAT CANADIANS

TORONTO, Sept. 5. (AP) — The team representing the United States Seniors' Golf Association retained possession of the Duke of Devonshire trophy today by defeating the Canadian team, 34½ points to 10½, the largest margin of victory since the United States won at Apawamis in 1924 by 16 points. Backed by the best golf he has shown here in years, Brown made short work of his youthful opponent. He won the first hole and stayed in the lead from then on. His twenty-five-foot putt on the third for a birdie 3, put him 2 up and he added the next hole to his collection with a par 4.

Each birdied the par 3, 160-yard fifth, Little sinking a ten-foot putt and Brown dropping a twelve-footer. The entrant from Hawaii turned the first nine in par 36, 3 up. Little, wild and continually in the traps, had a 40. Brown birdied the par 4 eleventh after his second stopped two feet from the pin, and he made the match dormie 5 by taking the thirteenth. Little was in a trap on the hole and wasted a stroke before he got out. He was down in 6 for the par 4 layout, Brown holing a 5. The fourteenth, a par 5, was halved in 6, thereby settling the match.

BRILLIANT PUTTING

McHugh stayed in the running by virtue of a good putting game. On the first and third he rolled in fifteen-footers for birdie 3's. The San Franciscan player made the turn 1 up, taking a 37 to Heron's 38. On the incoming stretch McHugh won the tenth, eleventh and thirteen to go 4 up. The next two holes were halved in 6 and 4, respectively. Heron, usually reliable on the greens, had an off day in this department. He three-putted the ninth and tenth.

The Coleman-Keller contest developed into the tightest of the day after Coleman had shown first-nine tendencies of making a runaway race of it. Coleman went out in par 36 for a 2-up advantage, his opponent using 39 strokes for the stretch. Keller won the fourteenth and fifteen with pars 5 and 4 to even the account, then dropped the seventeenth and squared the match again at the eighteenth. On the extra hole Keller drove his first shot out of bounds and after getting out the green in four, conceded the match. Coleman spanked his ball on in two and had two putts for the hole.

After being 1 down to the seventh, young Eichelberger won that hole and the next two for a lead that was never overcome. Hoffman cut the margin to 1 up by winning the eleventh, but Eichelberger came back for the thirteenth, fourteenth, fifteenth and the match. Hoffman picked up on the fifteenth after shooting out of one trap and into another to finally lay four on the green to his opponent's two.

The two survivors from the south, Coleman and Eichelberger, will pair off in tomorrow's thirty-six-hole tests with Brown and McHugh opposed in the upper bracket.

BROWN FAVORED

On the strength of his play so far, Brown has been installed the favorite in both the semifinals and Sunday's finals.

Five entrants in the present tournament have announced plans for competing in the national amateur at Philadelphia later this month. They are Brown, Little, Eichelberger, Hoffman and Charley Seaver, Los Angeles.

YELLOWTAIL STRIKE AT SANTA MONICA

Yellowtail have now decided to strike for the anglers at Santa Monica, it was learned yesterday from Cliff and Jack, operators of the live-bait boats Palisades and Thrush. A large school has been in the bay for some time, but were not biting. Labor Day Frank Stevens, fishing from the Palisades hooked on to a seventeen-pound yellowtail and after nearly a thirty-minute tussle, landed the fighting fish.

The fall fishing season off the Bay City is expected to be as good as the summer months this year. Warm pleasant weather is favoring the anglers, while good catches of halibut, sculpin, sandabs, bass and mackerel also being caught.

The bell saved Bulahan in the fourth round, Zurick sending him through the ropes just as the round ended.

Young Papke stopped Johnny Nichols in the second round of the special event. Nichols, a game battler, was on the canvas twice in the opening session, once for a nine count and then an eight count. Half a dozen players from England, a couple from Canada, and a six-foot seven-inch giant from Ireland, Lottieton Rogers, were the principal foreign contenders in addition to Borotra.

Wilson will Quit Football

SEATTLE (Wash.) Sept. 5. (AP)—George Wilson, former University of Washington all-American football player and a professional grid star the last four years, announced today he had turned down a contract to play for the Providence (R. I.) Steam Rollers pro eleven this season. "I am quitting football forever," said Wilson. "I have started on a business career and have hung up my '33' jersey for the last time."

FREEMAN IS WELTER KING

king of welterweights. They have accepted Freeman as their champion, although the new champion was born in Hot Springs, Ark.

Haley probably reached his decision on Freeman's dogged aggressiveness, although the spectators, at least those in the ringside seats, were convinced Thompson had the margin in nine rounds on his masterly boxing skill. Thompson floored the new champion for a count of six with two ripping left hooks to the jaw in the second round and had him in distress at the end of the tenth when he landed a hard right to the jaw that made Freeman's knees buckle just before the bell.

Freeman made his big drive for the crown with the beginning of the twelfth round. He found Thompson, a tiring champion and began to score effectively with lefts to the face and caused the champion to miss frequently.

Haley, the referee, said he based his decision on the fact that Freeman landed the cleaner punches and scored more frequently. He credited Freeman with winning eight rounds, five going to Thompson and two being even.

"Freeman outscored Thompson with a left-hand jabs by at least three to one," Haley explained.

"When I told Thompson in the dressing-room that his missing punches caused me to give the decision against him, he said he had no kick to offer."

TAME AFFAIR

The fight, except for two or three rallies that brought the spectators to their feet, was comparatively tame. Thompson boxed cautiously and continuously circled the challenger while Freeman doggedly came charging into close quarters in his attempt to inflict body punishment.

The only knockdown of the battle came in the second round when Thompson floored his opponent. A left hook to the jaw sent Freeman sprawling to the floor. He immediately got up on one knee and stayed in this position until the count of six. When he got up he grabbed Thompson around the waist and hung on while the champion tried to shake him off.

Freeman apparently shook off the effects of the punch when the third round opened. He began his crowding tactics, always staying in close to the champion when not out in the open to spear him with long lefts to the face.

Freeman weighed 145 3-4 pounds, the lowest he has weighed in two years. This low weight caused his handlers to worry in fear he might not survive the fifteen rounds, but except for the crushing blows that floored him in the second, Freeman gamely stood up under Thompson's heavy fire.

Thompson tipped the beam at 143 3-4 pounds.

TEN YEARS IN RING

Freeman comes into possession of the championship after ten years in the ring. In the last six years he has met some of the best of the fighters in the world at his weight, but only became a dangerous challenger a year or so ago after recovering from an illness that sapped his strength and kept him on the shelf for more than a year.

In the semi-wind-up after the championship battle, Tony Herrera, lightweight of Fort Werth, Tex., scored a technical knockout over Gaston Charles of New York in the second round. Charles hit the floor eight times in the two sessions and then Referee Johnny Kilbane waved him to his corner.

PLANS OF ITALY SHIP LINE TOLD

Navigazione Libera Triestina to Augment Fleet

Skipper Announces Building of Two Motor Liners

Cost of Each 20,000-Tonner Set at $2,500,000

BY WALDO DRAKE

Plans of the Navigazione Libera Triestina to augment its present five-ship Italian-flag passenger and freight service from the Pacific Coast to Mediterranean ports with two 20,000-ton motor liners, to be built expressly for the trade, were revealed yesterday by Capt. Fortuna Dodero, in port from Genoa with the N.L.T. liner Rialto. Capt. Dodero said the new ships, to cost approximately $2,500,000 each, will be started at the company's own yards at Trieste early next year and are scheduled to enter service early in 1932.

Each will carry 300 cabin passengers and they will have passenger accommodations and cuisine equal to the finest liners in trans-Atlantic trade, said Capt. Dodero. The big motorships will have ample refrigeration space for transport of Pacific Coast fruits to the Mediterranean and for carriage of Central American bananas to Los Angeles Harbor. They will have a sea speed of seventeen knots and are being designed to make at least nineteen knots on their trials.

Capt. Dodero also announced that N.L.T.'s latest addition to the Pacific Coast-Mediterranean fleet, the turbiner California, will sail from Genoa on December 12, next, and arrive at Los Angeles Harbor on her maiden voyage about January 17. The California is the former 20,000-ton Cunard steamer Albania, having been rebuilt at a cost of $250,000 for the California passenger and refrigerated cargo trade. She now has accommodations for 180 first-class passengers and forty second-cabin travelers, while in addition to space for 6000 tons of regular cargo she has 100,000 cubic feet of refrigerated cargo space in her first tween-decks.

LARGE SHIPMENT OF WHALE OIL DUE AT PORT

Seven thousand five hundred barrels of whale oil will be brought in from San Clemente Island the 9th inst. by the factory-tanker Lansing, for shipment to Procter & Gamble's plant near Cincinnati for manufacture into soap. It is the season's output to date of the California Sea Products Company, whaling off Southern and Lower Californias. Operations will continue but temporary dearth of whales has caused the laying up here of two killers, the Clemente and Barbara, leaving only four killers and the factory-ship active. It is understood forty-four railway cars are required for the shipment.

Mayor Porter's special committee seeking a San Pedro site for a municipal ferry slip and terminals, will hear appraisals aired on Southern Pacific frontage from First to Tenth street, San Pedro, on the 10th inst. The meeting will be in harbor commissioners' offices uptown. Appraisals well over $1,000,000, with a wide disparity between them, are expected to be returned by W. H. Daum for the harbor department, and C. H. McGarry for the Southern Pacific. Committeemen are Leslie C. Mott, George Nicholson, Murray Butler, Paul Eubank and Shannon Crandall.

Data will be assembled immediately on several thousand local fishing boats, as part of a nation-wide canvas ordered by the United States Tariff Commission. It is understood 40,000 craft will figure in the national inquiry. Nationality of fishermen and sources and quantities of fish caught are sought. The investigation is declared to be not directed toward exclusion of aliens from American fisheries, but is rather, "solely for the purpose of ascertaining the present extent of our fisheries, the nationality of vessel owners, and the sources of production." W. H. Mahar, deputy collector of customs at San Pedro, will supervise the compilation.

Richard Barthelmess, film star, was among the 370 passengers arriving from Seattle and San Francisco yesterday morning on the Admiral Line flagship H. F. Alexander. Approximately as many travelers went north on the liner last night. The vessel brought south 750 tons of package freight, a seasonal record. The line dispatched the Emma Alexander to Ensenada with 250 excursionists last night, and will conduct three more excursions, the last leaving here the 26th inst.

A six months' honeymoon to Hawaii is the portion for Ronald de Long, local traveling passenger agent for the Dollar Lines. The night of the 10th inst., he will wed Miss Margaret Croft, recent graduate of University of California at Los Angeles, at the St. Marys of the Angels Church in Hollywood. They will motor north and sail two days later from San Francisco on the President Jefferson for Honolulu. There he will have charge of the Dollar passenger offices until his return next spring.

Fourteen of the twenty-two passengers arriving yesterday from Mediterranean ports aboard the Italian motorship Rialto, of the Navigazione Libera Triestina fleet, disembarked at this port. Among them were Arthur Horte, completing a three-year motion picture-logue of the world, returning with his bride; Mrs. Hazel Hayle, prominent in Santa Barbara society; Mrs. Mildred Cobbs, San Diego; Mrs. Lenore Schutze, Pasadena; Clair Gilbert, local orchestra leader, home from a European concert tour, and William Humes, pioneer local oil producer, with Mrs. Humes and their daughter.

Capt. A. C. Paulsen will take the Panama Mail liner Guatemala out to New York, via Central American ports, Monday with 125 travelers and 4000 tons of California freight. Among the passengers will be Manuel Escobar Vega, Guatemalan representative to the Pan-American reciprocal trade conference, at Sacramento last week; Gabino Mata, former Secretary of Agriculture of Salvador, returning home with his daughter, Jessie, and Mrs. A. F. Thompson, Piedmont social leader, with her daughter, Frances.

FINANCIAL

MORTGAGE UNIT BUSINESS FIRM

Guarantee Company Profits Double Dividends

Year's Business Expected to Equal 1929 Volume

Net Increase of Certificates Holds Steady Level

Net earnings of the Mortgage Guarantee Company, including Mortgage Guarantee Associates, were at the rate of 17 1-3 per cent of the outstanding capital during the first six months of the current year, as against 18 1-2 per cent in 1929, Morgan Adams, president, announced yesterday. The company has 60,000 shares of $100 par value capital stock now outstanding, as compared with 50,000 shares in the first half of last year.

This profit rate is equivalent to more than twice the dividend requirement of $4 per share annually.

For the first seven months ended July 31, last, the net increase in outstanding guarantees amounted to $7,136,831. This compares with $7,169,801 reported for the same period last year.

LOANS CONTRACT

During the first six months there were 2434 loans contracted, amounting to $15,500,000, against 2481 loans in the same period last year, valued at $18,688,800.

From present indications, Mr. Adams stated, third-quarter business of the company is expected to show improvement over that of the summer months and results for the year as a whole, should compare favorably with last year. Business of the Mortgage Guarantee Company usually reaches the peak for the year in the last and first quarters.

Mr. Adams is also of the opinion that conditions in 1931 in respect to real estate and building in Los Angeles and Southern California generally will continue on a quiet basis comparable with the current dull period.

GROWTH INDICATED

Combined net earnings of the Mortgage Guarantee Company and Mortgage Guarantee Associates, amounted to $402,272, or $6.05 a share on the 50,000 capital shares then outstanding. On the basis of the 17 1-2 per cent on the larger capital the earnings for the period just ended are more than double dividend requirements of $4 a share on 60,000 shares for the half-year. Net earnings for the year ended December 31, 1929, amounted to $916,101.90, or $16.31 a share on 60,000 shares.

The capital of the company was raised last summer from $5,000,000 to $6,000,000 through the offer of stockholders to subscribe for one new share at $125 for each five shares held. All of the stock of Mortgage Guarantee Associates is held in trust for stockholders of Mortgage Guarantee Company.

Curtiss-Wright Shows Loss for First Half Year

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Curtiss-Wright Corporation and subsidiaries for the first half of the year today reported a net loss of $5,351,681 after depreciation and other charges, including $3,031,307 for inventory adjustments, development engineering and similar expenses. In the quarter ended March 31, last, the company reported a net loss of $1,620,939 after deduction of $661,758 for depreciation and various reserve accounts.

The balance sheet as of June 30, last, showed that despite the drastic markdown of inventory the company is in sound financial condition with cash and call money exceeding $3,000,000 and current assets about $11,000,000 in excess of current liabilities, or a ratio of 3.3 to 1.

Wright Aeronautical Corporation for the quarter ended June 30, last, showed a net loss of $689,388 after charges against a net loss of $384,837 in the preceding quarter. For the half-year net loss was $1,274,345 as compared with net profits of $1,884,407, or $2.25 a share in the like period of 1929.

Failures Show Gain for Week

NEW YORK, Sept. 5. (AP)—Commercial failures for the week, with five business days because of the Labor Day holiday, totaled 336, compared with 300 for the like week last year, R. G. Dun & Co. reports.

The Pacific Coast section showed a reduction, while the largest increases were in the West and the East. Not only was the aggregate of all insolvencies higher this week, but failures with liabilities of more than $5000 rose to 208, compared with 163 in the corresponding period of 1929.

GROUP OF TRUSTS REPORTS ASSETS

Total assets of the twenty-eight corporations, the common stocks of which underlie Corporate Trust Shares, amount to $23,510,962,036, according to a survey issued yesterday by American Depositor Corporation, sponsors of this fixed-type investment trust. This compares with $22,058,693,235 a year ago and $16,436,375,976 in 1921, says the survey, which covers the past nine years of the corporation's activities.

POSTAL NET DROPS

NEW YORK, Sept. 5. — Postal Telegraph & Cable Corporation and associated companies reported today for the six months ended June 30, last, earnings of $1.03 a share on 305,295 shares of 7 per cent preferred as against $4.04 a share on 304,950 preferred shares in the first half of 1929.

ESTIMATE ON COTTON YIELD LOW

Survey of Central Belt Puts Output for Year at 53 Per Cent Normal

MEMPHIS, Sept. 5. (Exclusive) Reports of correspondents indicate that the condition of the cotton crop average for the belt the 1st inst. was 53.3 per cent of a normal for the date, indicating probable production of 13,720,000 bales, 500-pound gross weight equivalents, the Commercial Appeal will say today.

The condition of the crop over the south one-third of the belt, over most of Alabama and over the Atlantics is good. Elsewhere the condition except in localities ranges from very poor to only fair.

Georgia and the Carolinas are enjoying prospects for a crop second to none since the boll weevil invaded these States. The prospect in Alabama is not as good as in the Atlantics but compares favorably with any in recent years.

Mississippi, Tennessee and the States west of the Mississippi River have suffered terribly from excessive rains in May followed by prolonged drought. Drought over the central belt, not yet broken in numerous localities, was the most severe the Weather bureau has ever recorded. Weather bureau records go back to 1871.

The Commercial Appeal's estimate by States, is as follows:

	Condition Indicated	Bales
Alabama	60	1,740,000
Arkansas	60	1,287,000
Georgia	60	1,407,000
Louisiana	60	1,140,000
Mississippi	60	1,188,000
Missouri	70	168,000
North Carolina	60	1,440,000

WAGE, SALARY IDEAS CLASH

Decrease in Cost of Living Cited as Excuse by Head of One Company; Farrell Opposes Reductions

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Since the discussion started about wage and salary reductions, some sound and some quaint ideas have been advanced on both sides of the question. Probably the most specious line of reasoning came the other day from the head of a large manufacturing company in explaining the basis for salary cuts.

Salaried workers, said this executive, should expect reductions along with the wage earners during this period of declining business as a matter of fair play and because "the purchasing power of the dollar has increased."

WORKS BOTH WAYS

It is true the cost of living has decreased and the dollar of today will buy more goods than the dollar of 1929. But it will be difficult to find any manufacturing company that has ever increased salaries in conformance with the rising curve of living costs. It seems this feeble explanation leaves the company in question open to some serious argument in the future if the cost of living index is to work both ways.

There is also justifiable criticism of some industries and some companies utilizing the current business depression to cover long-standing troubles or internal ills in their own situations. Unable prior to the advent of business pessimism to cut wages and salaries without risking loss of public confidence, these companies are among the first to cut wages and salaries and to link the business depression as the reason.

Actually a substantial number of the pay-roll reductions to date are traceable to financial difficulties antedating the 1930 trade recession, but the casual reader only gathers from these announcements that the business outlook must be worse than the public has been led to believe.

Constructive corporate managements are reluctant to take the easy way out and contribute to unemployment and loss in general purchasing power. This point of view was expressed in the statement made by James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, for the recent symposium of "Printers' Ink."

FARRELL'S IDEA

In opposing reductions of wages in the steel industry, Mr. Farrell said: "If you are going out to sell your goods and eliminate your profit and expect to get it out of the men in the mills you are greatly mistaken. Make up your mind to one thing, use better judgment in your selling prices for your material and get rid of the idea that wages are going down."

"We all know," continued the Steel president, "that just as soon as they go down, if they should, Mr. Customer gets it. It is like some shipowners who complain about the Panama Canal tolls; if the Panama Canal tolls were reduced or abolished the merchant ahead would get the benefit of the reduction and the taxpayers here would pay for it; certainly shipowners could not retain the saving."

Brighter Tone Noted in Trade Survey of Week

NEW YORK, Sept. 5. (AP)—Dun's Review tomorrow will say:

More promising aspects, more tangible reasons for encouragement, and a further strengthening of sentiment mark the general business situation with the passing of what is traditionally the dullest period of a year. Precedent is being followed how with an acceleration of activity as September opens, and the upward trend is the more significant in the present instance because of the extent and scope of the preceding recession.

A more cheerful feeling had recently developed in various quarters in anticipation of a turn for the better, and the fact that improvement has come at the time it was expected is an important phase. Even with only moderate gains in actual operations, confidence has been bolstered, and unsatisfactory features, although by no means disregarded, are less prominently in the foreground. Evidence that all readjustments to new economic conditions have not yet been completed is sufficiently plain to temper the current reports of seasonal revival, but constructive changes in progress scarcely can fail to have ultimately beneficial effects. Nothing has occurred to alter the widely held opinion that commercial recovery as a whole, will be gradual, and recognition of this probability should serve to modify hopes as to results in the early future.

INCOME OF INSURANCE UNIT GAINS

Pacific American Fire Premium Total Jumps Nearly 35 Per Cent

Revealing substantial progress for the first seven months of this year over the corresponding period of last year, Pacific American Fire Insurance Company in a report submitted yesterday to the board of directors by D. W. Pierce, Jr., executive vice-president and general manager, showed gross premium income of $611,426, as against $454,409 for the like period of 1929, an increase of nearly 35 per cent.

The reserve for unearned premiums increased from $214,283 as of July 31, 1929, to $448,041 on July 31, last, a gain of $231,778.

Policyholders' surplus which stood at $4,423,589 at the end of the first seven months of last year totaled $4,507,744 on July 31 of the current year. Practically 15 per cent of the company's invested assets, it was shown, are in real estate, mortgage loans as of July 31, last, amounting to $719,000.

"We estimate that this will continue. Our company is now operating in practically all of the western States and has recently established general agencies in Oklahoma City, Denver and Kansas City."

Mr. Pierce will leave tonight on an extended eastern trip in connection with company affairs.

Irregular Trend Shown in Sales of Chain Stores

NEW YORK, Sept. 5. — F. W. Woolworth Company reported today August sales of $22,055,003, off 9.7 per cent from the dollar volume in August, 1929, and for the first eight months of the year, $174,113,198, off 4.7 per cent from the same period last year.

H. T. Parson, president, stated that sales for May, June, July and August, 1929, covered the company's fiftieth anniversary sales effort and showed a gain in these four months of $11,331,174, falling off from September, 1929, and through the last four months when the gain was but $609,368. The last four months this year, he said, should make up quite a bit of last year's decline of the same period. The week ended August 9, last, showed the turning point with each week since showing a considerable gain.

I.B.A. Changes Procedure for Annual Meeting

Radical changes from customary procedure in the matter of conducting the nineteenth annual convention of the Investment Bankers' Association of America has just been announced in the preliminary program issued to the 1967 main and branch offices of the association's membership in the United States and Canada. The conclave has been called at New Orleans from October 12 to 15, inclusive.

The program reduces the traditional six-day convention to four days, opens the preconvention committee meetings to all delegates and departs from the open-house custom by providing for one closed session at which all delegates will be urged to express their opinion of the more urgent problems of the business. The press will be excluded from this session and no verbatim transcripts will be issued for the benefit of absentees.

Another innovation in the procedure will be that the thirty-nine members of the board of governors will convene two days before the opening. They will consider reports to be made to the convention by the committees. Committee chairmen will only make summaries of their reports to all delegates while detailed reports will be distributed in pamphlet form. Committee meetings this year will be open to all delegates. About 1000 are expected to attend the convention.

TRADE SLUMP END SIGHTED

Alabama Business Leader Believes Bottom Scraped in Nation, Particularly in South

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

(Copyright, 1930, by the North American Newspaper Alliance)

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Robert Jemison, Jr., Birmingham (Ala.) business man, can see the blue sky behind the business clouds.

"We are of the opinion that business in America generally, and particularly in the South, has scratched bottom," Mr. Jemison told me. "And that we may hope for gradual improvement in conditions throughout the last quarter of the year, with perhaps a fair business year in 1931.

"The slowing up in building will automatically result in gradual absorption of the surplus of buildings of various classes. The present low cost of building, with the corresponding adequate supply of funds at lof rates of interest, should stimulate that industry throughout the next few months, this following somewhat the unemployment situation and creating a demand for certain kinds of building materials and labor."

To Mr. Jemison, the most unsatisfactory things at the moment are the continued decline in exports and the depression in agriculture on account of the drought and low prices.

In spite of these, "it is our belief that industry will not fall far short of the last quarter of 1929," concludes Mr. Jemison.

Ever since the United States Chamber of Commerce, at its annual meeting last year, condemned the Agricultural Marketing Act, the subject has remained pretty much up in the air, for the chamber, while condemning the act, has not made any constructive suggestions as to how to meet "the farm crisis."

Alexander Legge's comment on the chamber's condemnatory resolution was as follows:

"The Chamber of Commerce proposes to make the Farm Board impotent and would sponsor another national conference to adopt some more resolutions of sympathy for agriculture."

Now definite steps are being taken to establish a farm policy for the chamber. A questionnaire has been submitted to the 1600 member organizations of the chamber in a referendum, which will close October 18.

A year ago, a committee was appointed by the chamber under the chairmanship of William P. Gest, hard, vice-president of the First National Bank of St. Louis, to determine whether or not the chamber should support "commodity exchange trading."

This committee has now reported in favor of commodity exchange trading, as well "as trading in futures on commodity exchanges."

So the question as to the "place of commodity exchange trading in the economic structure of the country as a facility for the marketing of agricultural products" is the subject of the referendum.

If the record of past performance is any criterion, the resolutions of the Gephart committee will be adopted.

So it means the United States Chamber of Commerce will continue to fight against the Farm Marketing Act and the policies of the Farm Board, led by the redoubtable Mr. Legge.

Columbia Head Answers Radio Merger Rumor

LONDON, Sept. 5. (Exclusive)—Regarding merger rumors with Radio Corporation of America, Lord Marks, chairman of Columbia Graphophone, Ltd., at the annual meeting advised stockholders to ignore such reports as they would be notified at the earliest possible opportunity if any negotiations should ever materialize into anything of concrete importance.

Owing to sale profits in Great Britain being greater than in the previous year and new fields of development providing additional revenue, it was possible to increase profits to £380,158 from £305,120 a year ago, the chairman reported.

Lord Marks said he was satisfied with the progress made in the radio field and that during the coming season the radio line would be extended. Sales of the combination gramophone and radio receiver have exceeded manufacturing capacity, he announced.

WOOL MART SENTIMENT IMPROVING

Review Reports Month Opens with Promise of Better Days Ahead

BOSTON, Sept. 5. (AP) — The Commercial Bulletin of Boston tomorrow will say:

While there has been no big movement this week, September has commenced auspiciously in the wool market and there is noticeable an air of quiet confidence through the trade. Prices are being steadily maintained with a tendency, if anywise, in favor of the seller.

The goods market continues to develop slowly, but evidently there is some business to be had and for this business the mills are securing their prices; there apparently is no chance to sell goods at lower rates and take it out of the wool dealers' profits this season. Top makers are fairly well engaged, although new business is limited.

The season opened at the cape this week with prices quite up to expectations. The cape clip contains a rather heavier proportion than last year of the shorter 10-12 months wool. Values appear fairly steady in the European markets.

Mohair continues slow with prices quoted nominally at unchanged rates.

The rail and water shipments of wool from Boston from January 1, 1930, to September 4, 1930, inclusive, were 96,126,500 pounds, against 120,581,700 pounds for the same period last year. The receipts from January 1, 1930, to September 4, 1930, inclusive, were 285,979,615 pounds, against 345,910,583 pounds for the same period last year.

Boy Found Dead as Raid Sequel

DAVENPORT (Wash.) Sept. 5. (AP) The body of Shirley Snooks, 16 years of age, who fled from a watermelon patch when the owner fired upon him and four other lads, was found in the Spokane River near Lincoln, twenty miles from here, the Sheriff's office was advised early tonight. A general search had been under way since Monday.

After the boys fled from the melon patch, Dewey Heater, who fired the shotgun to scare them off, forced all the raiders except Brooks to return to his house and made them eat melons until they were ill, the boys said. It is believed that Brooks, wounded, ran into the river and was swept away by the current.

OPERA STAR FIGHTS DEBT OF HIS WIFE

Everett Marshall Says Community Property Not Liable for Loan

Money which Mary Fabian, Chicago Civic Opera Company soprano, loaned to Carolina Segrara, now wife of Everett Marshall of the Metropolitan Opera, for her opera debut in Milan, Italy, on July 31, 1927, has never been repaid in full, attorneys stipulated yesterday before Municipal Judge Bush, according to Collins Mason, attorney for Miss Fabian. Miss Fabian sued Marshall and his wife for $300, the amount still due out of $500 originally loaned.

Mrs. Marshall was reported ill and unable to appear. Marshall admitted the facts, but contended that the community property now held by himself and his wife is not liable for a debt contracted by her prior to their marriage, according to Mason. The attorneys for both sides were ordered to reappear before Judge Bush next week to argue the point, on which further action in the case rests.

MOTHER OF ENVOY NEAR DEATH HERE

Mrs. Frank A. Gibson in Grave Condition at Home Following Hemorrhage

Mrs. Frank A. Gibson, mother of Hugh Gibson, American Ambassador to Belgium, was last night reported to be seriously ill at her home, 2305 Scarff street, with little chance for recovery. Mrs. Gibson was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage last Monday and since that time her condition has grown steadily worse.

About two months ago Mrs. Gibson, who is 72 years of age, suffered a nervous breakdown and after hospital treatment for six weeks returned to her home.

Ambassador Gibson has been notified of his mother's condition, but has not indicated whether he will be able to return to Los Angeles immediately.

TRAFFIC SIGNAL ORDERED

STRIKERS FACED BY SOLID FRONT

Workers in Five More Cloak Factories Walk Out

Employees in Other Branches Remain Unmolested

No Disorder Except for One Small Row Reported

Employers in the women's cloak-and-suit industry of the city kept an unbroken front yesterday against the attempts of union organizers to gain a foothold in the industry by forcing recognition of their union through a strike. As the result of the refusal of the employers to deal with the union agents, the employees of five additional plants were called out on strike yesterday, bringing the number who have responded to the strike to almost 700.

The industry against which the present union attack is directed embraces sixty-three shops in this city, having a total of about 1200 employees, of whom about 600 are members of the union. So far the union leaders have directed their attack against only twenty-four of the shops, including the five whose employees struck yesterday.

OTHER BRANCH AT PEACE

The reason why the full union strength has not yet been called out, it is understood, is that some of the members are employed in shops where the union leaders believe they can achieve their end without resorting to the strike weapon. A check which included the owners of these shops yesterday, however, disclosed them as adamant in their determination to give no recognition to the union.

Employers in other branches of the women's apparel industry asked yesterday to have it made plain that the present strike is being directed at only one branch of the trade, that is, the shops manufacturing women's cloaks and suits. The manufacture of women's dresses is a much larger branch in this city, furnishing employment to more than 6000 girls; then there are also the shops making children's apparel, which employ about 2000 persons, and the shops manufacturing women's underwear, which have about 1500 employees.

In none of these other branches of the women's apparel trade does there seem to be the slightest menace of unionism at present, it was stated yesterday. Every plant is not only strictly open shop but, so far as is known, none of the workers belong to any union.

POLICE END FRACAS

In these other branches the great majority of the employees are Mexican girls, while in the cloak-and-suit section about 90 per cent of the workers are men. That factor has led to some apprehension that the present strike, as it fails to make any headway, may be marked by considerable disorder and even violence, but that stage has not been reached, it was stated yesterday by Detective Lieutenant Hynes, head of the police Red squad.

There was a case yesterday of what threatened to be violent intimidation, when a striker started to attack a worker, but two plain-clothes policemen were on the scene, and hustled the striker to the station house, where he was released when the worker, Louis Fisher, refused to make a complaint against him. Fisher is employed at the shop of M. Di Gesu, 127 East Ninth street, and his encounter with the supposed picket took place at Ninth and Main streets.

Aside from this one instance, Lieut. Hynes said, the region in which most of the shops is located was peaceful yesterday, with suspected pickets and other loiterers obeying quickly the police orders to move on.

Richard Kersey Expires After Sudden Illness

Richard W. Kersey, 87-year-old father of Vierling Kersey, State Superintendent of Schools, and of Cleon Kersey, died yesterday in the Hollywood Hospital from injuries suffered as he fell to the sidewalk at First and Main streets Wednesday when seized with a sudden illness.

Mr. Kersey had been a resident of California for more than fifty years and of Los Angeles for thirty-four years. He was born in Marion, Ind., and came to California fifty-four years ago.

Private funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. today at the chapel of Garrett Brothers Mortuary, 921 Venice Boulevard, with cremation following.

THEATRICAL COUPLE MARRY

Romance Began on Australian Stage

Mr. and Mrs. John Garrick

WITH a close circle of friends in attendance, John Garrick, motion-picture actor, and Miss Harriet Bennett, stage actress of San Francisco, were married yesterday in Hollywood and shortly afterward left for Mexico for their honeymoon. They were married at the Church of St. Mary of the Angels, 4510 Finley avenue, Rev. Neal R. Dodd, pastor, officiating.

The wedding culminated a romance of two years when Miss Bennett and Garrick met in Australia, where they went to play leads opposite each other in "Rose Marie." Since then Garrick has been under contract to Fox Films. On the completion of his next picture for that company they will leave on a trip to Honolulu.

Miss Bennett, daughter of Mrs. Ira Brayton Bennett, 1550 North Fairfax avenue, was dressed in a gown of old point lace, with a cap of the same lace and tulle. She carried a bouquet fashioned from rare Vounda orchids from Australia, and gardenias and lilies of the valley. These orchids blossom but every two years and were placed in the bouquet because their romance had its start in that country.

The bride's attendants were Mrs. Alice Bracey Taylor of New York, maid of honor, Carlotta Bennett, her cousin, bridesmaid. She was given in marriage by her uncle, Jack Brehany, theatrical producer; Noll Gurney of London was best man. Garrick legally adopted his present name after coming to this country because his real name, Reginald Dandy, was too similar to that of another film actor.

Council Delays Miniature Golf Curfew Action

Consideration of the ordinance restricting the operations of the miniature golf courses of the city was continued one week yesterday by the City Council, with another hearing scheduled for Thursday afternoon.

According to Councilman Webster, who started the machinery which resulted in the drafting of the ordinance, several changes, agreeable both to proponents and opponents of the measure, will be proposed.

SHORTRIDGE ON VISIT TO SOUTHLAND

Senator Says He Expects New Efficiency in War on Border Smuggling

Increased efficiency in attacks upon border smuggling is expected by Senator Shortridge to result from the creation of the new customs district made up of San Diego and Imperial counties, the Senator said yesterday upon his arrival here. He registered at the Biltmore.

SENATOR SHORTRIDGE

Senator Shortridge is deeply interested in the new department inasmuch as it was created at his suggestion. W. H. Ellison has been named Collector of Customs in the new district.

The Senator said he will be in Los Angeles about ten days. While here he will attend the Los Angeles County Fair at Pomona and will go to San Diego to confer with the new collector.

COUNCIL APPROVES FLASHER PURCHASE

The City Council yesterday voted in favor of purchasing 300 traffic warning flasher signals, referring the matter of providing funds to the Finance Committee. Each signal costs $70, less a cash discount. The contract will be entered into with the Automobile Club of Southern California, which obtains the signals from the Interstate Signal Company.

DROWNED SWIMMER'S BODY WASHED ASHORE

Washed ashore, the body of Larry Tobin, 20 years of age, who was drowned last Sunday while swimming in the ocean near Palos Verdes, was recovered yesterday at Redondo Beach. The body was removed to the Niland mortuary.

KEATON'S LIFE DEMANDED BY STATE FOR MURDER

Jury's Verdict Says Slayer Sane When He Shot Down Flint; Prisoner Unshaken

First-degree murder with the death penalty will be recommended for Frank D. Keaton, slayer of Motley Flint, yesterday declared sane by a jury, when he goes for sentence before Superior Judge Schaper next Wednesday morning, according to Dep. Dist.-Attys. W. W. Burgess and William Russell, who prosecuted the case.

Keaton who, by his plea of not guilty by reason of insanity, admitted the facts of the slaying, under the California law, may be sentenced to from ten years to life for second-degree murder, to life for first-degree murder, or receive the extreme penalty.

PROSECUTION'S VIEWS

With the verdict of the jury that the former stock-market speculator was sane when he shot down Flint in a local courtroom on July 14 last, Dist.-Atty. Fitts and Chief Deputy District Attorney Stewart, together with the two deputies who prosecuted the case, announced that the death penalty will be asked for Keaton.

"The jury has found that Keaton was sane when he murdered Flint," declared Burgess following the verdict. "The facts already before the court show that the murder had been planned for some time and that Keaton armed himself, went to the courtroom where Flint was giving testimony in a civil action, and there shot him down in cold blood. I believe that the facts justify the extreme penalty."

SLAYER UNMOVED

Keaton, who the day before had caused a scene in court by leaping to his feet and denouncing Burgess, took the verdict which came at 11:30 a.m., yesterday, without a quiver. When he was taken into court he was very pale but gave no other indications of emotion.

With the verdict read and a matter of court record and the jury polled by Defense Counsel Paul B. D'Orr and Thomas Reynolds, the 10th inst., at 10 a.m., was fixed by Judge Schauer for sentence. Then Keaton was led away by the court bailiff.

Shortly after his return to a hospital cot in the County Jail where he was kept while his sanity was in question he was ordered into a cell and by 2 o'clock in the afternoon became a prisoner in Cell 3 of Tank 1632, the same tank and cell occupied by Edward Hickman, slayer of Marion Parker. Keaton refused to talk to newspaper men or jailers after his transfer and spent the rest of the day on his prison bunk with his hands clasped over his eyes.

NATURE OF TRIAL

The trial, which began almost three weeks ago, was in fact a sanity hearing in which the jury had only to decide whether or not Keaton was sane at the time of the slaying. That Flint was murdered and that Keaton fired the fatal shots were admitted by the defense before the trial got under way. The defense, however, contended that the former stock speculator was insane and did not know the nature and quality of his act.

According to the evidence brought out during the trial Keaton, who had suffered heavy losses in stock-market speculations, fixed the blame for his troubles on Flint and others who had been mentioned in the Julian Petroleum Corporation crash. When he learned by reading the newspapers that Flint was to testify in a civil action he went to the courtroom and shot him down as he was leaving the witness stand.

SHULER MENTIONED

A courtroom sensation came during the trial when Dr. Thomas J. Orbison, a State alienist, testified that Keaton told him that his head had been filled with radio speeches of Rev. R. P. Shuler attacking Flint and others when he fired the fatal shots.

During the course of the trial Shuler's name again and again crept into the transcript but no mention was made of a booklet titled, "The Julian Thieves," written by Shuler and, according to the police, found in Keaton's pocket after the shooting. Records show that when Keaton was questioned regarding Shuler by the police he denied that he had heard his radio talks and also denied having the booklet in his pocket.

The jury which found Keaton sane in just five hours of deliberation was composed of Lloyd Wyatt, foreman, Mrs. Olive E. Drew, Mrs. Anna Hall, Jacob R. Heinke, Mrs. Minnie C. Frampton, Pierce P. Kinsman, William H. Mitchell, Mrs. Florence Murray, Warren C. Alexander, Mrs. Josephine Yinger, Charles A. Shellman, and Thelma N. Barnard.

NEW VENICE OIL DRILLING CURB ASKED

Councilman Williams Sees Need for Protection of Beach and Streets

A letter calling for further restrictions upon the oil drilling now going on near the beach in Venice was offered in the City Council yesterday by Councilman Williams. It was referred to the City Planning Committee for consideration.

After describing conditions, Williams points out that debris covers parts of the beach and city streets in the drilling area, while bulkheads, designed to keep oil and filth from the bathing beach and the water, are haphazard at best.

Williams recommends that the Board of Public Works be authorized to require that:

(1.) Bulkheads conform to specifications;

(2.) They be contiguous from Avenue 28 to Avenue 50;

(3.) Each well carry its permit number;

(4.) Drilling operations be suspended until permit is obtained;

(5.) Sump holes be regulated in height and depth and that they be made watertight.

Crewless Yawl Runs on Shore off Dana Point

Without a crew aboard, the yawl Pacific Child went on an independent cruise yesterday and last night brought up aground off Dana Point, thirty miles south of San Pedro.

John M. Lyle, manager of the Dana Point Estate, telephoned to the Coast Guard at San Pedro and a boat was sent to try to pull the yawl off.

The Pacific Child, a forty-footer, is owned by B. C. Huber, Newport Beach yachtsman, and is believed to have broken adrift in the heavy swell at some point near Dana Point where she had been anchored by her owner, Mr. Lyle went aboard the craft and found all doors locked, and that no one was aboard.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

THOUGH I say it who shouldn't, I can't help admitting the fact that Little Daffodil and I were the hits of the Radio Show.

With several young ladies named Little Rosebud, Little Queen Titania, Little Mignonette and so on, Uncle John displayed me to the eager millions.

We were placed in a big glass cage like a show window, with the amazed and awed spectators in front.

I WAS A TRIUMPH

In a way I felt that I was at a disadvantage.

Little Daffodil had bare legs, tartan fairy wings and a ukulele. Had Uncle John been fair about it and given me due warning I, too, would have worn fairy wings and bare legs. As it was, he put me in a deep chair right in the middle of the little radio flowers; I was adorned by dignity alone. I had to wear my regular pants and I am afraid they were not pressed.

Never having been in such a situation before, I was in doubt as to the best mood—whether an attitude of apparent deep thought and profound meditation, or a lighter attitude; or merely a patriarchal beaming upon the tap dancing of Little Daffodil.

REBUKE FOR JOHN

There is one thing I shall always hold against Uncle John—in spite of our long friendship.

Of course he was busy and all that; but was it necessary for him to have introduced me by my drab ordinary name? With these other flowers he could at least have introduced me as "Little Lotus Bud."

WELL, ANYHOW—

Afterward Uncle John herded me into a railed coop where I greeted admirers. Not always with triumph. One old lady glared at me in deep astonishment; withdrew her proffered hand and said: "Well, this ain't the way I thought you was going to look." Another surveyed me long and with deep dissatisfaction. She did not offer to shake hands. She turned away and said, sternly: "Where's Almy Whitaker?"

WHY, THE IDEA!

One gracious lady from Boston said she liked to read the Lancer because she always enjoyed the spectacle of people trying to kid themselves.

"You are always sighing for the primitive," she said. "Well, I'd like to see you try it just once."

MY PRIMITIVE SOUL

This is a monstrous injustice. I adore the primitive. Of course, I would want to have gas and electricity and an automobile, and I don't see how I could get along without Jane.

Jane, who always has an extra pack of cigarettes parked somewhere, and knows what telephone you want, and chases out the bores and makes them like it; and sternly makes me see the ones I ought to see and generally pilots my life and is kind of easy to look at, and never says the wrong thing at the wrong time.

The way I figure it, heaven sends young lady secretaries like Jane, and it would be profanation and sacrilege to avoid the blessing.

Anyhow, my idea of the primitive is to do without luxuries; Jane is a necessity.

FISCAL YEAR CHANGE ASKED

A resolution by Councilman Randall, proposing the submission to the people of a charter amendment changing the beginning of the fiscal year from July 1 to February 1, was referred yesterday by the City Council to the Legislative Committee.

SEPTEMBER MORNS NOT HOT

Unless Weather Warms Up for Remainder of Month 1930's Summer will be Cooler than 1929's

With the remaining days of September lies the deciding factor as to whether the summer months—June, July, August and September—of 1930 will prove warmer than the same period of 1929, although mean computations available for the first three months in figures of the United States Weather Bureau give last year a degree lead over the current period.

August of 1929 set a point of 76 deg. mean temperature—the warmest month of any name in fifty-three years—as compared with 74 deg. for last August. August of 1929 had six days of 90 deg. or above and a wide plurality of days of 80 deg. against last August with five days of 90 deg. or over and a much smaller margin of other high temperatures.

The figures between the two seasons are so nearly similar that the compilers of records in the Weather Bureau cannot render accurate accounting of the temperatures until September has turned in its sunshine totals.

Average mean temperatures, however, for June, July and August, 1929, are a decimal above 72 deg. and for 1930 a few points above 71 deg., according to the annual summary of the Weather Bureau.

There is a prospect that the current month may fall lower in the temperature range because of possible rainfall in the latter part of the month, a condition indicated by the unusually cool summer in Alaska and meteorological movements that may bring early rain.

In a general monthly summary of 1929 Col. H. B. Hersey, chief meteorologist of the local Weather Bureau, pointed out that the temperatures of June of that year ranged above normal, a decrease

YIPPEE! CATTLE ROUND-UP STIRS BLASE HOLLYWOOD

Without assistance of cowboys, directors or cameramen, a cattle round-up took place on Hollywood Boulevard at Western avenue yesterday.

Eight cows, as astonished apparently as the human spectators, charged between automobiles. Policemen without chaps or lariats pursued. Storekeepers watched fearfully. Street cars stalled in long lines. Visitors from the plains of the Dakotas and Montana were heard to remark that after all Hollywood was very much like home.

Thomas Story, Negro, caused the round-up. Driving a heavy truck loaded with brick he lost control of it, according to police reports. The heavy vehicle thundred down Western avenue, struck a grocery truck which in turn hit another truck containing the eight cows.

The cattle truck turned over; a sedan was caught in the general melee and smashed; there was a wild grinding of brakes, honking of horns, and excited cries as other automobiles and commercial vehicles bumped together, nicked fenders and dented hub caps.

Without knowing what it was all about the eight cows, hurled suddenly into the street, began to run. So did many humans. Officers Walker and Bryan came up. So did Jailer Schultz and a band of trusties from Hollywood jail, not far away. Lewis Reichel of 4520 Second avenue, driver of the cattle truck, did what he could to help.

After a great deal of work in the hot sun the cattle were guided into a near-by garage and there loaded back on to the truck.

Reichel needed attention for cuts and bruises after the round-up, and Miss Marjorie Russell, 29 years of age, occupant of the sedan that was demolished, did also. Story, the driver of the runaway truck, was taken into custody.

Colorful Pageant Traverses Downtown Streets as Feature of Founding Fiesta

Historically accurate presentations of life and customs of early Los Angeles were shown in a colorful parade through the downtown section last night by several hundred gaily caparisoned characters, bringing to a close the second and last day of the fiesta which started Thursday, celebrating the 149th anniversary of the founding of Los Angeles.

A large crowd lined the walks to comment.

The entire distance covered by the parade and at the Plaza the police had difficulty for a time in clearing a way to allow the concourse to start. Scheduled to start at 7:30, the parade was more than an hour late getting under way.

The parade was headed by the American Legion Drum Corps, attired in snappy Spanish costumes, a calvalcade of horsemen, also attired in the early manner, followed. Old-time carriages carrying shawled senoritas and caballeros and an old stage coach came next. Covered wagons and old-fashioned water-carriers, burros carrying goat-skin water bags, attracted considerable

The Union Pacific Band, attired in old-fashioned costumes, made a decided hit. Then came carriages, floats and finally a float representing the nationalities living in Los Angeles during the gold-rush days. In the center of the float was the California bear.

The Indian was represented by Lone Star from the Walapai tribe; Spain, by Marybelle Chapman, wearing the costume owned by her grandmother; America, Mrs. Grace Widney Mabee, wearing costume of period; Uncle Sam, Edward D. Burke; Mexico, Miss Alice Cisneros, wearing costume owned by famous Mexican actress; France, Mme.

ROUND-UP NETS MANY SUSPECTS

Twenty-seven Put in Jail on Variety of Charges

Victims of Robberies Observe Them in Shadow Box

Two Policemen in Custody Accused of Protection

In a smashing drive on organized crime members of the central police burglary detail commanded by Captain of Detectives Lynn and the gun squad led by Detective Lieutenant Lefty James, co-operating with the newly reorganized robbery squad, yesterday had twenty-seven burglary and bandit suspects behind the bars in the City Jail. They were shown to victims in the shadow box at Central Police Station last night.

The spectacular round-up began Tuesday when Captain of Detectives McCaleb, transferred from the Wilshire division, took charge of the central robbery squad. Capt. McCaleb ordered his men to search through all known underworld haunts and bring in every suspicious character regardless of the orders of the Police Commission that officers found visiting gambling or bootlegging establishments might be discharged.

CONTINUOUS DUTY

Wednesday night seven suspects had been taken into custody. Two were identified immediately by a robbery victim. Working in pairs, the members of the three squads were on duty continually, night and day, until yesterday morning.

Thursday night the number of suspects rose to fifteen. One is Danny Day, wanted for bank robbery and murder in Philadelphia. With the finding of Day in a house at 711 South Westlake Avenue the detectives, with the assistance of members of the fugitive detail also arrested Remere Brescia, William Famiglitia, Joseph A. Plummer and Joseph L. Sauer.

Notification of apprehension of this gang was immediately sent to Philadelphia police. Before dawn yesterday a wire was received from Chief of Detectives Connelly, Philadelphia requesting that not only Day but also all of his associates be held on suspicion of murder and bank robbery.

OTHERS HELD

With the arrest of three youths giving the names of Robert Rucker, Kenneth Shiff and Dick O. Armendariz, Capt. Lynn announced the completion of the round-up of a gang of burglary and robbery suspects who, he states, operated under the protection of two police officers taken into custody late Thursday night. The others are John F. Peffer and W. C. Hayes. They already have been identified, according to Detective Lieutenants James and Leapie, by Arnold Gonnales of 615 Bailey street as the two men who, accompanied by two others, took ninety gallons of liquor from the cellar of his father's home.

Others of the asserted gang in custody are James and Donald Kartanes and Talbert Linnastruth, all of Hynes, according to the detectives.

SIX ROBBERIES

Three robberies Thursday night and three yesterday morning were revealed in reports on file at the central record bureau yesterday.

Phillip Small of 1916 Manhattan stated that his cafe was called at a home at Eighty-fifth and Hoover streets and was met by an armed man. Invited forcibly inside, he said he was lined up against a wall with a dozen other men who had been playing cards. The bandit who met him at the door and a companion then methodically searched through their clothes and collected an aggregate of $650. Before they left the bandits compelled all their victims to take off their trousers so that immediate pursuit would be foiled.

MONEY OBTAINED

William Holton reported a bandit held him up on his miniature golf course at 3069 Los Feliz Boulevard and obtained $4.

Four Negroes strong-armed Ben Yemella of 820 Towne avenue at Fourth and Towne streets and robbed him of $140, he reported.

A bandit who said he was broke and out of work held up Joseph Owetz in his grocery at 3117 Garnet street and obtained $18.

A. R. Persons, an automobile salesman of 2711 West Seventy-eighth Place, reported two prospective buyers robbed him of a car he was demonstrating to them at Browning and Normandie avenues.

Shortly before noon yesterday Mrs. Pearl Fox reported a bandit, armed with a revolver, forced her into an apartment at 535 Wall street and robbed her of $5.

Burglars broke into the dress shop of Grace Bovard at 3000 Wilshire Boulevard and obtained $3000 worth of furs and dresses.

Ex-Prisoners Placed on Jobs

During August sixty-three prisoners of the County Jail, on their release, were placed in positions by the contact office of the Sheriff's department, according to a report filed yesterday with Supervisor Shaw.

A total of 2129 ex-prisoners have been found positions by the contact office since its organization in June, 1927, the report states.

FLASHERS TO BE PLACED

Boulevard-stop flasher signals will be installed on Hill street at Santa Barbara avenue, according to action taken yesterday by the City Council.

EDUCATION BUDGET CUT EXPLAINED

Supt. Bouelle in Talk to Executives of Schools Cites Reduced Taxes

The first meeting of executives of the Los Angeles public school department was held yesterday morning in the Chamber of Commerce Building when 130 supervisors, directors, heads of divisions and counsellors gathered to hear Supt. Bouelle discuss the reason for the $1,000,000 cut in the public school budget this year.

He explained that the cut followed as a natural result of the reduction in tax assessments in Los Angeles County amounting to approximately $100,000,000. With $1,000,000 less with which to work this year, he said the school building and expansion program of necessity would be curtailed, but emphasized the point that the cut would in no way affect the high standards for which the Los Angeles schools are known.

Harry M. Schafer, assistant superintendent of schools, spoke briefly of the National Education Association convention which will be held here next June. Thousands of delegates are expected to attend.

A. E. CRESSE ELECTED BY MORTICIANS

Funeral Directors Also Name Other Officers and Listen to Address

Arthur E. Cresse of Highland Park was elected president of the California Funeral Directors' Association yesterday at the concluding session of the organization's twenty-sixth annual convention at the Biltmore. Selection of the next convention city will be made by the executive committee, with San Francisco suggested to be the choice.

Other officers elected are: First vice-president, Frank Dickey of Vallejo; second vice-president, E. B. McCormick of Los Angeles; treasurer, Eugene Webber of Napa, and sergeant-at-arms, Archibald O'Leary of Sebastapol. Delegates to the national convention at Atlanta, Ga., will be chosen later.

Members presented a desk clock to Lester Wagendorf, retiring president.

Dr. Percy J. Magan, trustee of the Los Angeles County Medical Association, was the chief speaker, taking as his topic, "Disposition of Unclaimed Human Bodies." He spoke in praise of plans to establish an embalming school here.

Mrs. McPherson Going Strong for Eggs, Oatmeal

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 5. (Exclusive)—Aimee Semple McPherson is getting her appetite back.

Sister just can't seem to get enough eggs and oatmeal," declared an attendant at the secret retreat near here where the evangelist is recuperating from a nervous breakdown.

"And she was able to be moved into a bedroom she liked better," said the same informant tonight.

How long it will be before Mrs. McPherson can take her place again in the pulpit at Angelus Temple could not be predicted at the McPherson rest house.

Trixie Friganza Faces Tax Lien

Trixie Friganza, actress, was named a defendant in an income-tax lien filed yesterday in United States District Court by Collector of Internal Revenue Welch. It is charged she owes $23669.21 additional taxes for 1927.

At the same time the Collector filed discharges of liens against Annette Kellerman for $6978 for 1919, and John Francis Dillon for $34,744.79 for 1926 and 1927.

HEARING CONTINUED FOR PARIS INN PAIR

As result of the stipulation of counsel, the hearing of Inocente Fedroli, reported as manager of the New Paris Inn, 210 Market street, and Jean Laforgue, a waiter, was continued yesterday by United States Commissioner Head until the 11th inst. Fedroli is accused of maintaining a nuisance and the waiter of sale and possession of intoxicating liquor. Both are at liberty on bail.

A LIMONY HINGES ON BABY GOLF

Divorced Woman Will Receive Monthly Sum Dependent on Venture's Success

Bigger and better alimony looms for Mrs. Beatrice Campbell Pennell, who yesterday obtained a divorce from John C. Pennell, peewee golf-course promoter. It all depends on the future of pint-size golf how high the alimony goes. Superior Judge Archbald granted a divorce on grounds of desertion, and approved an agreement for the support of Mrs Pennell and her children, Patricia, 17 years of age, and John, 14.

The wife is to receive $250 a month, but if Pennell's income rises to $1000 a month she is to receive $300, and if the income touches $1500 a month she will get $400. Attorney Norman T. Mason represented the wife.

COUNTY'S PRIMARY VOTE CANVASSED

Clerks Must Check More Than 500,000 Ballots

Verifying Choices at Polls

THE busiest spot in the government of Los Angeles county at present is on the fourth floor of the Hall of Records, where 180 expert clerks, headed by the Board of Supervisors, are making a canvass of the recent primary election. Under the law the Board of Supervisors is the official canvassing board of elections.

The board, which began its work the Thursday following the election on August 28, task is making a count and a tally of every vote cast in the 2401 voting precincts in Los Angeles county. While the final count of the number of votes cast in the election is not at hand, it is estimated that more than 500,000 votes were cast.

The clerical work is in charge of Miss Millicent Edinger, secretary to Supervisor Shaw, and Mrs. Alice Burks, one of the clerks in the office of the Board of Supervisors.

The election canvass must be completed by the 11th inst.

CLOTHIERS TO EXPAND FACILITIES

Eastern Manufacturer to Open Stock Rooms Here for Coast Distribution

Stock rooms for the distribution of its merchandise on the Pacific Coast will be established in Los Angeles within the next thirty days by Cohen, Goldman & Co., Inc., manufacturers of men's clothing, Morton L. Newhoff, Pacific Coast sales manager, announced yesterday. The new quarters are to be located in the McComas Building, Eighth and Los Angeles street.

A desire by the company to facilitate western distribution and form closer contacts with Pacific Coast retailers offering its products has necessitated the move, according to Newhoff. Heretofore the concern has been represented in this territory only by its sales manager.

The company, which has headquarters in New York and Chicago and operates nine factories in the East, manufactures Worsted-Tex and Knit-Tex suits and overcoats, and is among the pioneer clothiers of the country. For years it has been a consistent and heavy user of rotogravure section newspaper advertising.

RECORD HANGS ON SEPTEMBER

Mean temperature for July, 1929, was 2 deg. above normal, while morning temperatures were high during the entire month. Sunshine and cloudiness were about normal.

August of that year was the warmest month of any month ever recorded in Los Angeles—first records were made July, 1877. The mean temperature was 4.7 deg. above normal, mainly due to continuously warm nights. The total sunshine was the greatest of record for August, and it was a rainless month.

The September temperatures averaged unusually high, the summary asserts, and at 5 a.m. September 17, the mercury reached 90 deg.

May and October of that year also registered high marks, the highest for October being 100 deg. on the 21st, the highest October temperature since 1899 and the highest ever recorded that late in the season.

The following mean temperatures for the months of June, July, August and September since 1920 are taken from the annual meteorological summary compiled by Col. Hersey:

	June	July	Aug.	Sept.
1920	66	71	77	68
1921	66	72	71	67
1922	66	70	73	72
1923	64	70	70	70
1924	66	72	70	72
1925	67	73	70	68
1926	67	72	73	68
1927	67	72	73	69
1928	66	69	70	71
1929	68	73	74	70
1930	68	73	69	70

With August, 1929, holding all mean high records at 76 deg. other warm Augusts were in 1885 1886 and 1891, each registering 75 deg. The two warmest Septembers were in 1883 and 1913 with 74 deg. each. The highest mean registration of June was 71 deg. in 1883 and high July records include the first July recorded in 1877 and the last in 1930 with 73 deg. each. The years of 1883, 1884 and 1891 also had Julys of 73 deg.

LOSS OF LOVE CHARGED

After testifying that her husband told her he did not love her any more and that he wished she would go home to her mother, Mrs. Kathryn White yesterday was granted a divorce from Douglas White by Superior Judge Finney.

RADIO SHOW ENDS TONIGHT

Special Concluding Features Arranged to Climax "Most Successful" Exhibition

Special concluding features for the National Radio Show Beautiful, which ends tonight in Ambassador Auditorium, were arranged yesterday. They include a try-out of amateur radio entertainers and announcers, a carnival and a concert by Salvatore Santaella and his orchestra.

The carnival is expected to extend far past the usual closing hours of the show. It has been decided to keep the doors open until nearly midnight.

At the amateur try-out this afternoon, Harry James, assistant program manager, will find intervals for more than thirty novice broadcasters to take their places behind the show's microphone. Judges and critics, searching for new radio talent, will be stationed in the audience to make notes.

"The most successful radio show yet held in Los Angeles," was the way Waldo T. Tupper, managing director, described the event yesterday.

In addition to other features, the usual quota of radio artists will furnish entertainment this afternoon and night. The show opens at 2:30 p.m.

Elsie Janis Quits Acting for Writing

To charm the rattling keys of a typewriter and not a rapt audience will be the future aim of Elsie Janis, who yesterday said she had forsaken her dramatic career to devote all of her time to screen writing. The noted actress further declared she would turn to writing rather than to marriage.

"I have made the decision not to marry since the death of my mother almost two months ago," Miss Janis said, "and that is only a continuation of a resolve that I made while she was alive.

"I believe I am doing what mother would have me do. I have always wanted to write and now that mother is gone I am grateful for the opportunity."

Miss Janis explained that during her mother's lifetime she had never thought of marriage for the reason that the close bond which existed between the two filled the need for companionship.

"And now that she is gone, I do not believe that conditions are changed greatly. It seems to me that she is with me still and I believe that my work will give me all of the companionship that I want," she said.

Just now Miss Janis is working on the script for a screen picture which Irving Berlin will produce at the United Artists studios. During the last two years she has attained success for her screen dialogue produced by the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Paramount studios.

Counterfeiting Suspect Taken

Police and Federal officers were forced to draw their guns at Third and Flower streets last night in capturing Charles Sarles, 35-year-old Chicagoan, counterfeit suspect.

On Sarles, according to a report made by William Ashe, Federal operator, were found several $20 counterfeit bills. Plates, asserted to have been used in printing the bills, were found in his room at 236 South Flower street.

The suspect was booked at City Jail on suspicion of counterfeiting and will be turned over to Federal officers today.

Paul Gregory Quits Stage for Motion Pictures

Another New York stage favorite deserted Broadway yesterday in favor of Hollywood when Paul Gregory purchased a home in Beverly Hills and announced that he will forsake the stage. Although he was expected to open in a New York stage production next month, yesterday he signed a contract to play a series of feature roles for Warner Brothers.

Gregory has been seen in the recent stage successes of Florenz Ziegfeld, of whom he was a protege. He made an impression on eastern critics both with his singing voice and his appearance, and was induced by Ziegfeld to play one role in pictures. It was this engagement that led to his film contract. Gregory let contracts yesterday for a gymnasium, tennis court and swimming pool at his home. He formerly was an amateur boxer and wrestler.

Dinner Given by Predecessor to Mexican Consul

Rafael De la Colina, who will take over the post as Mexican Consul to Los Angeles next Monday, arrived here yesterday and was tendered an informal reception last night by his predecessor, F. A. Pesqueira.

The latter expects to leave here soon for his new post at Nogales, Ariz., following five years of service as Los Angeles consul. The shift will be made in accordance with a Mexican government rule that transfers consuls from one post to another at expiration of each five-year period.

De la Colina was transferred here from New Orleans. He has been in the Mexican consular service fourteen years.

Last night's dinner celebration party included De la Colina, Pesqueira and Robert P. Carrey, attorney for the local consulate.

APPEAL COURT BARS FIGHT ON ASSESSOR

Division Two, District Court of Appeal, yesterday denied the petition of Charles J. Husband for an alternative writ of mandate to compel the District Attorney to institute action on the bond of Assessor Hopkins for the amount of taxes declared to have been lost through failure to assess solvent credits of local brokerage houses. Husband previously applied unsuccessfully to Superior Court for a writ of mandate.

JURY BALKS PROBATE OF CONTESTED WILL

A jury in the court of Superior Judge Hahn yesterday upheld the contention of John F. Wilkens regarding the will of his wife, Anna Wilkens, and denied the probate of the document. Mrs. Wilkens's estate is valued at from $2000 to $6000. Efforts were made by Lillie Peterson, a sister, to have the will declared valid. Under the provisions of the will the sister was left $5000 and personal property. Mrs. Wilkens died January 22, last.

INFANT STRANGLES IN FALL FROM CRIB

Falling from his crib while his parents slept near by, Robert Mason, 1 year of age, was strangled to death in the bedclothes early yesterday morning, according to a police report. The accident happened at 3729 Seashore Drive where the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Mason, were visiting friends. The Masons live at 229 Twenty-fourth street, Manhattan Beach.

Manager of Bay City Mayor Declares Neutrality

G.O.P. Committee Fight Growing Warmer

Opposing Forces Check Up Votes in Contest

The fight of various elements of the Republican party in Los Angeles county to oust Col. W. R. Fowler as chairman of the party's county central committee, took on added interest yesterday when spokesmen for the local Rolph-for-Governor forces emphatically denied that Fowler is the Rolph group choice for re-election.

Announcement that the local Rolph managers are taking no part in the county chairmanship contest between Fowler and his sole opponent, Attorney Ingalls W. Bull, was made by Al Faulkner, Southern California manager of Rolph's primary campaign.

"Our position in this matter is absolutely neutral," said Faulkner, "as we feel that this is not a case for interference. Our sole problem is getting out a great vote for Mayor Rolph as the Republican gubernatorial nominee."

Those purporting to have knowledge of the internal affairs of the local Rolph organization said yesterday that the Bay City Mayor's Los Angeles supporters had tentatively lined up for Fowler on the assumption that the incumbent county chairman had supported Mayor Rolph in the primary election.

Such assumption, they said, was discovered to be incorrect and several of the Mayor's following switched their support from Fowler because of a feeling that they had been misled as to Fowler's actual position in the gubernatorial contest.

Completion of the canvass of votes for county central committeemen in the county's twenty-two Assembly districts yesterday definitely determined the personnel of the Republican committee's 203 members and led to an intensive check-up between the opposing forces fighting for the chairmanship.

The various district units will gather next Wednesday to perfect a county-wide organization, culminating in the election of a successor to Fowler, who was elected two years ago.

CENTRAL COMMITTEE'S NAMES ANNOUNCED

Names of the winners for places on the County Central Committees of the Republican, Democratic, Prohibition and Socialist parties as chosen by the voters in the primary election on August 28, last, were announced late last night by members of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors sitting as an election canvassing board.

There were 203 elected chosen for the Republican County Central Committee and 220 for the Democratic party. The Republicans are elected for a period of two years, during which time they will guide the destinies of their various parties in Los Angeles county.

Charity Modeled on Golden Rule

FUNDS FOR NEEDY ONES CONFERRED

Golden Rule Foundation Appeal by Official Here Meets Prompt Answer

Support of the Golden Rule Foundation, funds of which are used to alleviate poverty, was pledged to C. V. Vickrey, executive vice-president of the organization, by a score of representative Los Angeles citizens following an address by Mr. Vickrey yesterday at the Biltmore.

Describing the foundation as "a world Community Chest" ministering to needy persons in areas beyond the scope of local community chests, Mr. Vickrey told his audience that the foundation last year provided funds to thirty-five child-welfare organizations in twenty countries.

One of the main objects of Mr. Vickrey to Los Angeles is to start the campaign for the observance of Golden Rule Week, December 7 to 14, inclusive, in which time philanthropically inclined persons are asked to abstain from one or more meals and to donate the cost of the food to the foundation.

John Willis Baer, treasurer of the California committee, has offices at 639 Southwest Building, Los Angeles.

RAGES LAID BY WIFE TO VIOLINIST

Arthur Hartmann Loses Mate and Children in Divorce Court

Temperamental outbursts by Arthur Hartmann, internationally known violinist, were asserted yesterday by Mrs. Marie Hartmann in obtaining a divorce decree which was awarded by Superior Judge Falk. It was said in court that Hartmann has played here with the Philharmonic Orchestra and that he has since moved to Philadelphia. The Hartmanns married in Paris on December 21, 1909, and separated here April 5, 1929, the wife testified. Their children are Gregory, 18 years of age, and Helen, 13.

Mrs. Hartmann asserted her husband cursed her and her family, cried that he wished they never had married, and that they must separate.

The wife offered in evidence a letter which, she asserted, Hartmann left pinned on her pillow in 1928. The letter read:

"May you know sleepless nights such as I. The black despair, the pain that turns the hair white, the wretchedness, the loneliness of misery such as I have suffered and am suffering through you, and should it ever come to you—and you, too, should feel yourself alone—without hope, dead at heart, then you may understand how much you have failed. Arthur."

For eighteen months prior to their separation, the wife asserted, Hartmann kept company with one Alice Safford in New York City, giving her jewelry, gifts and money. Judge Falk granted Mrs. Hartmann a divorce and custody of the children. Attorney Edwin F. Hahn, Jr., represented the wife.

Films of Air Races Feature "Times" Reel

Views of the National Air Races at Chicago in which records were broken and lives were lost in accidents, feature the latest issue of The Times-Universal Newsreel now showing in Southern California theaters. The scenes include one of R. L. R. Atcherly, the British ace, dipping so low that he stirs up a cloud of dust.

Other recent events of interest shown in the film include the explosion of a 10,000-ton dam at Arvida, Que., a fire in the trade commission's administration building in Washington, a regatta at San Francisco, a wood-chopping contest in New Hampshire, and a fete given by Italians in New York in honor of St. Anthony.

The schedule may be obtained by telephoning Newsreel Book at REpublic 3171 and asking about Newsreel No. 71.

WIFE CITES PHILOSOPHY OF AUTHOR

Mrs. Bynum Wins Divorce from Library Employee and Gets Child's Custody

Complexes and philosophies of life were discussed yesterday in Superior Judge Tappaan's court where Mrs. Helen G. Bynum was getting a divorce from Lindley D. Bynum, author and library employee. Mrs. Bynum complained that her husband humiliated her by losing position after position through inattention and neglect, and that he had failed to follow his profession as author.

Mrs. Bynum complained that she had to teach school to support Bynum and their son Lindley, Jr., 3 years of age.

"He further humiliated me by his belief in a philosophy of life that decries all obligation of whatever nature," the wife complained.

They married in Monrovia June 29, 1921, and separated June 22, last. Bynum is employed by the Huntington Library, it was said by the wife's lawyer, Lewis P. Black. Judge Tappaan granted the wife a decree and custody of the son, and ordered Bynum to pay $30 a month for the child's support.

Hall Quits Old Job for New One

Resignation of Deputy City Prosecutor Frederick M. Hall to accept an appointment as City Public Defender was announced yesterday by City Prosecutor Johnson. Johnson appointed R. C. Wygant, local attorney, as trial deputy to fill the vacancy.

The Prosecutor also announced two promotions on his staff, B. N. Sherman from clerk to investigator, and J. Henry Sweitzer from junior to senior clerk.

SHOOTING HOAX JAILS YOUTHS

Trio Linked for Time to Ensenada Murders

Hole Shot in Windshield of Car to Fake Battle

Vivid Tale of Mexico Fight to Have Been Told

The desire to give a real wild-west welcome to his visiting cousin and a companion caused 17-year-old Paul Gallion of Coronado to present them with pistols and guide them on a trip to Ensenada, Mex., that ended yesterday with the visiting companion being jailed in Ensenada, the cousin held in County Jail here and Gallion released after a day's questioning by officers in connection with the Ensenada knife slaying of Francis Conlon and Lois Kentle.

The wild-west reception took an unexpected and realistic turn when Capt. Estelle of Huntington Park police took the cousin, Harry M. Harmon, 18, Wichita (Kan.) oil worker, into custody because of a bullet hole in the windshield of Harmon's light roadster.

HEROIC ROLE IMAGINED

Harmon first told Acting Captain Hunter of the Sheriff's homicide detail, and Capt. Bispham of the auto theft detail, that he and Gallion had been ambushed on the road from Ensenada to Tia Juana a week ago.

Gallion, however, convinced the investigators that Harmon shot up the windshield on a suggestion that it would be nice to impress girl friends in Wichita on his return home that Harmon had been in a shooting affray in Mexico. Harmon later admitted this.

CHECK UP ON CAR

It also was learned from Gallion that Harmon's companion, Joe Taber, who came here from Wichita with Harmon, is in jail at Ensenada for carrying one of the guns with which Gallion presented them before they left Coronado on the Mexican trip.

Harmon was booked here for investigation while Bispham checks up on the Kansas car. Gallion was released, but may be requestioned today, Hunter said.

Headlines Win Briton's Praise; Thank You, Sir

Headline writers' ears probably burned yesterday.

J. S. Berry of London, whose father is part owner of the London Daily Telegraph, offered them a word of praise in his suite at the Biltmore.

"I am amazed at the vast amount of news crammed into the headlines in your American newspapers," he said.

Berry has been reading American newspapers with close attention since his arrival in this country with Lord Harcourt, also of London, because he expects to enter the newspaper profession in about a year.

The two visitors are deeply interested in the approaching cup race and polo matches, and hope to arrive in New York in time for the events.

RESERVE FUND VOTED FOR SEWER PROJECT

After a disorderly session, with President Sanborn continually rapping for order, the City Council yesterday voted $375,436 from the reserve fund to pay for the construction of two sections of trunk line sewers in the San Fernando Valley. The vote was 9 to 5, with Councilman Barthel absent. Payment from the fund was opposed as setting a bad precedent.

YOUNG GAD-ABOUT COMES HOME AGAIN

Teddy Burgess

"Just $3 for meals from Winnipeg to Los Angeles!"

That's some kind of a record which was claimed yesterday by Teddy Burgess, 7-year-old son of Mrs. Helene Burgess of 840 South Hobart street, who arrived home on the Los Angeles Limited of the Union Pacific System, traveling alone.

He stepped from the train into his mother's arms. The youngster left Los Angeles alone early last summer to visit relatives in Canada.

BOTULINUS HELD CAUSE OF DEATHS

Tests Confirm Diagnosis of Torrance Fatalities from Canned Fish

At the conclusion of laboratory tests, Dr. George H. Roth, in charge of the communicable diseases division of the county health department, yesterday announced botulism as the cause of death in the cases of three persons who died in Torrance this week after having eaten home-preserved tuna. The findings confirm those of Dr. J. S. Lancaster, the attending physician, and make unnecessary any further investigation, Dr. Roth said.

The victims were Mrs. Paul Lupos, 41 years of age; her daughter Josephine, 19, and her father, Isadore Tintimiglia, 71. The fatal meal was eaten August 28. Josephine died in Torrance Memorial Hospital last Tuesday and the others Thursday. Two other members of the family, Paul Lupos, husband and father, and Joseph, a son, recovered, they having eaten only sparingly of the tainted fish.

WHERE DID RATTLESNAKE GO?

Serpent Halts Rebuilding of Residence

Minnie Gertrude Pop and "Cutie"

A LARGE rattlesnake, according to description, halted work yesterday on a frame house which is being rebuilt into a stucco residence at Main and One Hundred and Ninth streets.

Two carpenters, whose names the police of the Seventy-seventh-street division did not take, dropped their tools and waited for Acting Captain Greene and Officer Bush to find the reptile and remove him.

Acting Captain Greene and Officer Bush poked under the house with long sticks, held their revolvers in readiness, but did not find the snake. Late last evening the two carpenters didn't know whether they'd return to the job or not. Which seems to be all there is to the story, except that Minnie Gertrude Pop, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Pop, 108 West One Hundred and Ninth street, and her pet kitten were confined to the house while police searched for the snake.

Ballard Heads Unit for Chest

R. H. Ballard, president of the Southern California Edison Company, Ltd., will head Committee No. 20 of the central division in the Community Chest campaign, a position he held the past two years, according to J. A. H. Kerr, Chest campaign chairman.

R. H. BALLARD

Graphically summing up the need for a successful campaign this year, Ballard stated: "My experience gained in serving during the campaigns has taught me that the larger contributors to the campaign appreciate the work which the Chest is doing. They not only appreciate the fact that the member agencies are serving thousands of people each year, but that the Chest is accomplishing this great service with a minimum of time and expense."

Mr. Ballard has been prominent in Community Chest councils since its inception, and has held a number of important positions in its campaigns.

GOLF COURSE FIGHT DETAILED IN COURT

Discharged as manager of a miniature golf course at 1131 West Seventh street, Frank Kerwin came back with several other men and threw John Bradley, part-owner and acting manager, out of the office and took charge, Bradley and his wife, Mrs. Gladys Bradley, testified yesterday in Municipal Judge Bush's court, where Kerwin is on trial on charges of disturbing the peace and unlawful detainer. The State's case, unfinished yesterday, will be resumed Monday morning, Judge Bush ordered. Kerwin's defense is expected to be that he had a financial interest in the course, although both Bradley and his wife denied this on cross-examination yesterday.

PASSENGER BUSINESS AT PORT GAINS

Los Angeles Becomes One of Major Harbors with Increasing Tourist Trade

That Los Angeles Harbor is fast developing as one of the major passenger ports of the United States as a result of the tourist travel campaigns conducted by the All-Year Club of Southern California, was advanced yesterday by Louis D. Stone, cruise director of the American Express Company.

"The volume of travel with us has been greater this year than in any other similar period," said Mr. Stone.

"A heavy percentage of our tourist business is handled through Los Angeles Harbor. Thousands arrive yearly at the port en route for a tour of the California Southland and the increasing appetite for travel by your citizens of today who were in the main the tourists of yesterday, is evidenced by the increasing demands for world tours as contrasted with former demand for tours to just one country.

"In the reading salons of all our largest ocean steamship lines and American railroad lines a copy of Southern California Through the Camera, a pictorial booklet portraying what the tourist can see, do and enjoy in California, as is sued by the All-Year Club, occupies a prominent place today."

Manslaughter Charge Made

C. G. Beaudine of 426 Fifth street, San Bernardino, is charged with manslaughter in a complaint issued yesterday by the District Attorney holding him responsible for the death of Charles Mathias, a passenger in his automobile, who was killed Thursday night when Beaudine drove his car over a steep bank on Foothill Boulevard.

Mathias died later in the Pomona Valley Hospital.

Investigating officers assert that Beaudine had been drinking and was under the influence of liquor at the time of the accident.

After two years continual use, this lady is more sold than ever on one of my favorite products. Read all of her letter as it embodies several valuable points of information.

Joannes Corporation,
Gentlemen:

Gratefully I take this opportunity to thank you for teaching me the easy, healthful way of coffee making with your Ben-Hur Drip coffee and the simple coffee making appliances.

About two years ago, I obtained one of your Ben-Hur coffee makers. Since that day I have made coffee in no other way, and I am more thoroughly sold on the idea than ever.

Before the drip maker became an article of daily use in our kitchen my husband had frequently complained that the coffee was bitter or too strong. I used a percolator and would forget the passing of time and perc or boil its contents to a brine. Now, making from two to ten cups at a time results in clear, unboiled, satisfying, just-right coffee—neither too strong nor too weak.

I simply boil water and pour it over the measured coffee on the filter paper in the drip maker. Our coffee is ready to go to the table in the earthenware pot in which it is made.

My husband and I are inveterate coffee drinkers and as I drink it without sugar or cream and he uses both we are competent to judge fairly of flavor excellence. He says it's the best coffee we've had in fifteen years of housekeeping.

Drinking it with meals or evening refreshments does not injure our digestion or keep us awake and we urge our friends who hesitate about coffee at night to try ours. There is no "comi - un" of Ben-Hur Drip Coffee after a hearty meal as there was with the old boiled kind.

I find it inexpensive, too; so little brings out the coffee essence. There is no item of our menu that gives as great satisfaction at so little cost as our coffee.

Sincerely,
MRS. W. H. H. PILCHER,
731 East Penn St. Whittier, Cal.

To sharpen the food chopper when the knives become black and dull, run a piece of sand soap, or scouring brick, through the chopper as you would a potato. It brightens and sharpens the knives so they cut like new. Use pulverized sand soap or scouring brick, or small ends left from the cake of scouring soap. Wash well in boiling water afterward to remove all grit. Oil the chopper or eggbeater with a little glycerine; this is a lubricant which does not taste in food.

Desserts which are simple and delicious withal are in demand, so with that thought in mind I am giving you, today, a recipe which I feel certain all my readers will like. It calls for Guasti Concentrated Grape Juice of course, so don't you know it will prove popular?

Grape Dessert—Soak one package of gelatine in one cup cold water, five minutes; dissolve in two cups boiling water; add one-half cup Guasti Concentrated Grape Juice (red or white) stir until thoroughly mixed; add one-quarter cupful lemon juice; strain into mold.

Of course, it's a nuisance sending your washing to one concern, your dry cleaning to another, but why be bothered in this way when the Crown Laundry and Cleaning Co., do both kinds of work oh, so well and at a very modest cost. May I not urge you to try them this coming week; phoning WEstmore 6351.

A well-toasted crust, or a piece of stale bread tied in cheese-cloth, added to the water when cooking will reduce the odor of cabbage. Another good method of reducing the odor is to put one teacupful each of vinegar and water in a small pan and let it simmer on the stove while the cabbage is cooking.

When extra dressing is to be baked, get a dry loaf of bread, cut off one thick slice and scoop out the inside, leaving only a thick crust; then fill it with the dressing, pin on the end slice and bake. It will be as delicious as if baked in the fowl. Stale bread is best for this or for filling a fowl.

Don't throw away your old carpets or nice fresh rags! Save both and have Fluff rugs made out of the former and Colonial rugs from the latter, the work to be done by the Hoffman Rug Works, 3914 W. Jefferson st., EMpire 3043.

To scale fish easily, lay fish down flat in a large dish or pan and pour boiling water over it; then quickly take it out and plunge it into cold water. The scales will come off easily with little rubbing. A currycomb, or coarse grater, is better than a knife for scaling fish, as it protects the hands. Wrap fish in waxed paper before placing it in the refrigerator to avoid tainting other foods.

Cheese for sauce, macaroni, etc., will be smoother if run through chopper, instead of grating it, using a medium knife.

HOSPITAL FOR CHILDREN TO GET NEW RESPIRATOR

Mechanical life-saving equipment in use at the Children's Hospital soon will be augmented by a respirator similar to that recently installed in the Children's Hospital at San Francisco. The board of directors announced yesterday that a woman member who asked that her name be withheld has donated $2000 for purchase of the machine and that it already has been ordered by wire. Another board member has contributed $500 to create a fund for purchase of infantile paralysis convalescent serum.

The respiratory apparatus is known as the Drinker-Shaw Respirator and is the invention of two Harvard professors. It provides a method for prolonged artificial respiration in cases of muscular paralysis following infantile paralysis, as well as in cases of gas poisoning, drowning and diphtheria. By alternating the negative and positive pressure on the chest, the body being inclosed in a chamber, the machine can produce inhalation and expiration indefinitely if necessary.

Dr. John Snape Back Tomorrow

Dr. John Snape, pastor of the Temple Baptist Church, who has been on a summer tour of Europe, will return to his pulpit tomorrow morning. Dr. Snape arrived in New York Wednesday morning and first planned to come to this city by plane, but missed connections so that the time of his arrival here by train will be but a few minutes before the time he is scheduled to step into his pulpit.

After a tour of most of the cities of Central Europe Dr. Snape passed through Naples the day before the disastrous earthquake of July 23. He returned to the stricken areas of Italy following the temblor and during the course of his address tomorrow will give a description of the scenes he witnessed.

THWARTED MARRIAGE BLAMED ON COUPLE

Louis and Minnie Weiner are made defendants in a suit asking $50,000 damages filed yesterday against them by Martin Volk, wherein the plaintiff accuses them of making remarks which caused his fiancee, Miss Hadwig Escher, to refuse to marry him. According to the complain Volk had already obtained his license to marry Miss Escher. Later, he asserts, the Weiners turned her against him and she refused to go through with the ceremony.

Ainsworth Quits Post with City

The Board of Public Works yesterday accepted the resignation of James V. Ainsworth, master mechanic of the city's machine shop at 1907 Pasadena avenue. J. W. Mountain, machinist foreman, will assume Ainsworth's duties, but not his title, it was announced.

Ainsworth said that while he was not requested to resign, he understood that his severance from duty would be satisfactory to the Board of Public Works. He has been in the city service twenty-five years, twelve of which have seen him in charge at the shop.

Mrs. Collins's Suit Deferred

Police Captain Jones's plea that he had been unable to obtain counsel yesterday won from Superior Judge Mahon a continuance until Monday of the retrial of Mrs. Christine Collins's suit against the officer for $55,300 damages. Mrs. Collins charges false confinement in the psychopathic ward of General Hospital because she refused to identify an impostor, Arthur Hutchins, Jr., as her missing son, Walter Collins, 9 years of age.

Mrs. Collins originally also sued the city and James E. Davis, former Chief of Police, who were eliminated by the court.

GOLF IN COURT

Already a judge holds that this peewee golf is not the real game and that the rules and regulations for one will not apply to the other. It would seem to an outsider that this half-pint golf would hardly attain the dignity of a court decision.

BUSINESS IN CHINA

Our trade with China has fallen off to a low mark. The Chinese are so busy shooting up one another that they have no time for the world markets. If they don't settle down to business pretty soon they will forget how to work. What China needs is a dictator about nine feet high with a bullet-proof coat.

INDIAN SIGNS

Said that Gen. Hugh Scott, the famous Indian fighter, is going to various reservations to make talkies of the Indian sign language for the purpose of making a visible record of the same. Sounds funny to be making speech of pantomime, but if it is to be interpreted the voice is also necessary. Gen. Scott is himself an authority on the sign language and can interpret it even better than our own Col. McCoy and Bill Hart. At any rate it is well that he is undertaking the work. It is important that a record of it be preserved, as the Indians themselves are growing mighty rusty in its interpretation. When Big Chief How Come makes signs it looks like a pinwheel.

CRIME AND THE COURTS

Complaining that the courts are unjustly criticised for the escape of criminals from justice, a writer in the Bar Association Bulletin cites the record of murder-case appeals in the Supreme Court since July, 1915, and up to July, last, 110 judgments of conviction were affirmed and only five reversed. Four of the cases, on retrial, resulted in convictions with life imprisonment and the fifth, a Folsom convict, was returned to serve out a life term, so that no defendant gained liberty during this fifteen-year period as a result of action by the Supreme Court.

Furthermore, there were no reversals whatever in hanging cases between January, 1916, and October, 1926, a period of ten years and ten months. The record shows plainly that if there is a fault of undue leniency in the judicial machinery anywhere, it is not in the Supreme Court.

The conclusion need not be drawn, however, that justice needs no overhaul merely because the Supreme Court is blameless. Not all murder cases reach the Supreme Court. Los Angeles county has approximately fifty murders a year, according to police records, of which the police assert that they "solve" about three-fourths. Assuming that they really do solve half of the cases, that means that in fifteen years there have been 375 murders in this county for which there has been a reasonable probability of convicting somebody, while in the same time the Supreme Court has passed on only 115 cases for the whole State. The discrepancy is too great to be accounted for by vagaries of the jury system.

Further changes to increase the sureness of the courts in dealing with criminals are evidently necessary. If a layman may make a guess, most of the changes need to be made in the rules of evidence. But two changes which can improve matters, outside the rules of evidence, ought to be adopted. One would give the jury the benefit of the advice of the one unbiased expert present, by restoring the old rule permitting the judge to comment on the evidence; the other would permit the obvious inference to be drawn when the defendant refuses to take the stand.

THE SCOFIELD CONTROVERSY

The controversy over whether E. M. Scofield shall remain a Water and Power Commissioner of the city of Los Angeles revolves around much larger issues than appear on the surface. The question really is which is tail and which is dog in the Water and Power Department. Anyone familiar with the city's needs ought to have no difficulty in deciding whether the water supply or the power supply—bearing in mind that the latter is not solely or even in large part dependent upon municipal enterprise—is the most important. Water is the necessity and power is a by-product, so far as the city government is concerned. But the Board of Water and Power Commissioners as at present constituted does not seem to accept this fact in all its implications. Commissioner Scofield in particular does not so accept it.

Mayor Porter apparently seeks to reconstitute the board so that these two functions of that body will appear in their proper relation. In which effort, so far as he carries it out in good faith, he is entitled to public support. Water and power, of course, are both necessities; but there is only one way to get water, while the city can be supplied with power in several ways, and is being so supplied.

It has always been the power-minded contingent that has made trouble. The whole Owens Valley controversy could have been and should have been settled years ago, at a cost very much less than the city will have to pay now to settle it, and would have been so settled had the Water Bureau and its officials been allowed a free hand. That both bureaus are hampered by the factional strife between them may be admitted. It can only be ended by frank recognition of the paramount claim of the water end and equally frank recognition that power is a secondary, if important, consideration. The efforts of the Power Bureau to run the whole show need to be restrained.

The present difficulty had its origin when the Water and Power Departments were separated and established as ostensibly parallel units, each with its own general manager. But with a majority of municipal-power-minded men on the Board of Water and Power Commissioners, it immediately became evident that the real purpose of the move was to subordinate the water side and to exalt the power. This program has been successfully carried forward almost to the present, thanks in part to the fact that Chief Electrical Engineer Scattergood is a politician and Chief Water Engineer Van Norman is not.

The present program is one of reconsolidation of the departments, with the Water Bureau at its proper place of pre-eminence therein and a man as head of the combined bureaus who understands and will maintain both in their right relations. Apart from that advantage, the plan has the obvious additional one of making for greater economy and efficiency and for doing away with present waste and friction.

Mayor Porter states that his removal of Commissioner Scofield is to eliminate a stumbling block in the way of this program and, to that extent at least, to reduce the "political-mindedness," which heretofore has handicapped and made inharmonious the operations of the departments. On its face, at least, it is a sensible move and one meriting the support of the Council.

THE GARMENT STRIKE

The calling out of 600 employees at the height of their best earning season in the women's cloak factories here by union agents from New York bears all the earmarks of a racketeering scheme backed by rival manufacturers in New York, anxious to cripple their rivals on this coast. There is no dispute over wages or working conditions; the strike is for the closed-shop and for the purpose of putting local garment manufacturers and workers under the same handicap which cripples them in eastern cities.

Of sixty-three plants in the city, nineteen have been forced, temporarily, to close, while the other forty-four were affected little or not at all. The nineteen plants affected are entitled to all the sympathy, support and protection the community can give them, and to forbearance on the part of their customers, who themselves have a very direct interest in the maintenance of the open shop.

The police have promised that no violence will be permitted and that picketing and other forms of intimidation will be prevented or punished. If this promise is kept the strike will be of short duration. For the employees thrown out of work through a mistaken sense of loyalty and because of obedience to orders of imported "organizers"—orders which they would defy if they understood the situation fully—there can be only compassion in this time of slack employment. They are in for a good deal of suffering and loss in any event, since the cost of the strike inevitably will fall chiefly upon them. Few of them wanted to strike or felt they had any real grievance.

It should be reiterated that this disturbance is imported. It has no roots in any local conditions. The open-shop garment factories of this city were operating as satisfactorily to all concerned as could be expected in view of general business conditions, with prospects for early improvement. The strike, any kind of a strike at this time, is in direct violation of solemn pledges given by the American Federation of Labor to President Hoover, that no labor organization would rock the boat during the present year. Under all the circumstances, the strikers are morally wrong, and it is impossible for them to win if the employers stick together.

For several years the garment manufacturers of this city have been gaining an increasing share of the business, much to the discomfiture of the New York garment manufacturers, and there is reason to believe that certain New York employers and New York union members have joined hands in an effort to put a stop to west coast competition by every possible means. There is no other name than racketeering that is applicable to a conspiracy of this kind; it is the dirtiest kind of competition, which ought to be resented by all Los Angeles and which ought to bring out the utmost co-operation on the part of Los Angeles business interests, any of which may suffer the same sort of a blow if this one succeeds.

The New York organizers who have been working here to foment trouble—they have been at it for weeks—are liberally supplied with funds, according to all reports, which could have come from only one source. They have diligently sought to conceal their real purpose, of course, and no doubt have misled and deceived many workers. Their real purpose is to take business away from the local factories and throw it to New York. They have no interest in the welfare of the Los Angeles workers; their interest is on the eastern seaboard and in the contents of their own pockets.

The real interest of the Los Angeles workers, of course, is in seeing that the Los Angeles factories are strong and prosperous, able to give employment to larger numbers and for longer periods. Good wages and steady work are the needs of employees, and the best guarantee of these is the industrial tranquillity and the square deal that come from the open shop.

The introduction of racketeering here is a menace to all Los Angeles.

SHAW AND THE FILMS

Bernard Shaw came near yielding to the lure of Hollywood. He admitted that the talkies had wrought a complete revolution in dramatic entertainment and he considered the filming of some of his plays here. But nothing much really happened. Now it is announced that he has made a contract with an English corporation for the production as a talkie of his play, "She Lied to Her Husband," which he penned away back in 1904. Shaw seems to be now of the opinion that the films will be the whole thing in drama and he is ready to proceed on that basis. It means easy business for him, as it will make possible a revamping of dozens of old plays without any particular action or effort on his part. Whatever happens Shaw wins.

LEE SIDE O' L.A.

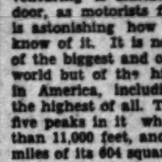
By Lee Shippey

YESTERDAY we could have broken the world's jumping record if we had wanted to, but our native modesty and unwillingness to push ourself forward at such a moment restrained us. We were on Moro Rock, from the brow of which the cliff falls sheer and straight as the wall of a skyscraper — and not one of the setback type, either—for 4100 feet. But we lost all interest in athletic championships in the awe and wonder which came over us as we took in that view. Below us spread the Kaweah Canyon, threaded by a river which is a rushing and clamorous stream when you get down near it, but looked from that distance as if it could pass through the eye of a needle. And the horizon was framed in peaks, a score of them, rising more than 13,000 feet above sea level.

Although this Sequoia National Park in which we Gas Arabs are adventuring is almost at Los Angeles' door, as motorists figure distance, it is astonishing how little most of us know of it. It is not only the home of the biggest and oldest trees in the world but of the highest mountains in America, including Mt. Whitney, the highest of all. There are seventy-five peaks in it which tower more than 11,000 feet, and only five square miles of its 604 square miles are occupied by the giant sequoias. There are 600 miles of trail in it, but only sixty-six miles of motor road and no more roads are to be built outside the area now reached by roads, so that it will always be wild and natural. There are more than 200 lakes, numerous waterfalls and innumerable streams. There are lakes which many of the guides and park employees have never seen and which can be reached only by "packing in." Yet most of the points of greatest general interest are within easy reach by motor road or a three-mile hike from some point reached by motor.

The Heavyweight Champion

Speaking of athletic events, though, those people who sigh that there are no heavyweight pugilists worth seeing nowadays simply don't know. The annual heavyweight battle for the championship of Sequoia Park was held the other day, and those who witnessed it say it was the greatest sockfest since the days of John L. Sullivan. For years Scarface, a brown bear weighing about 650 pounds, was champion of the park, but a few years ago Clubfoot, who weighs in at 700 pounds, disputed his royal sway and apparently had the best of things when time was called by the rangers. Scarface let it go for a whole year, then challenged Clubfoot again and again got a little the worst of it. Last year there was another indecisive battle, after which Clubfoot continued to rule Beardom. But Scarface was not satisfied. The other day he came swaggering down to the place where the bears are fed every day at the time when both the human and the animal crowds were thickest and announced to all present, by a few savage growls, that he was out to regain his kingship. Immediately the mother bears told the cubs to scamper and they went up the tall trees like squirrels. Cubs are amazingly obedient to their mothers. Whenever danger threatens they are told to climb and they will not come down until their mothers call them down. Scarface then drove a few of the 300-pound and 400-pound bears up trees, too, to show he was in earnest.



All that time Clubfoot had been sitting on his haunches far back on the hillside, looking his kingdom over with royal disdain for the bickerings of the smaller fry. But then he rose and came lumbering forward with a warning growl. Scarface growled defiance and instantly Clubfoot threw off his lumbering pace and ran forward. A bear can run almost as fast as a horse when he wants to. The two rose on their hind legs and slugged like pugilists, except that their paws were open and their long claws were out.

Talk about action! Two hundred sightseers were present when the first blows were struck and fifteen fat ladies in hiking togs were climbing trees just as the cubs did before the next exchange. Others were crawling under parked cars and breaking sprint records for parts unknown. They didn't stop to think where they were going, but were on their way out of sight of the carnage and flying fur. For five minutes men, women, children and all the other bears were racing each other in climbing and running contests. A ranger yelled and threw things, but did not dare intervene. But then Scarface had to turn and run, thoroughly whipped for the first time in his twenty-one years. Since then he has been seen at the feeding place only a few times and has not ventured anywhere near Clubfoot.

Things Which Knocked Us Out

Before we came to California we never saw a tree the trunk of which was more than seven feet in diameter. The first limb on the Gen. Sherman breaks out at just the height of a height-limit building in Los Angeles and is 7.3 feet in diameter. We don't care for statistics, but it takes things like that to give some of us realization of how wonderful these trees are. John Gabbert, the park lecturer, tells us that before the ice age these mighty monarchs of the air—majestic, you know—were the commonest trees in the world, spreading over most of Europe and most of North America. In coal mines in France pieces of mammoth trees have been found, undoubtedly buried there by the ice age, and not long ago the Standard Oil Company, drilling near Taft, struck into the wood of a Sequoia gigantea at a depth of 550 feet. The amazing thing is that that wood, which must have been carried down there in the glacial age, long enough ago for 550 feet of earth to accumulate above it, was in good condition. Now that California is the only place in the world in which living Sequoia gigantea exist, and no other land can raise any worth looking at for at least a couple of thousand years, we ought at least to know a little about them. So we hope our readers will pardon us for writing so much about this wonderland. And as we're leaving it tomorrow we'll promise not to say much more about it.

CROOKED NOSE

Donald Maegan of Fitchburg, Mass., had his nose broken in an automobile accident some five years ago. Just the other day he was in another smash-up and landed on his nose again. The last bang straightened it. So a biff on the nose may be a beneficence and straighten out a past.

GOLDENROD

By James J. Montague

When leaves are drifting down the stream,
Where autumn vapors rise,
And wrens and robins drowse and dream
Of kindlier southern skies,
One hears a low and distant sound
Among the dells and glades
As if there stirred beneath the ground
A host of tiny spades,
For then, in their deep tunneled homes
Below the moss and mold,
The little bent and crooked gnomes
Begin to mine for gold.

In every crevice, every crack
While toiling to and fro
They leave a dusty shining track
Behind them as they go,
And tiny rootlets that are thrust
Amid the murky glooms
Draw up the motes of golden dust
To paint the autumn blooms.
And when on clear September days,
The children rush about,
They cry, as on the fields they gaze:
"The goldenrod is out!"

It scatters over fields and hills
Beneath the misted sun,
It gleams reflected in the rills
That murmur as they run,
It borders every road and lane
That winds about the town
And gilds the valley and the plain
Until the frost comes down.
And when, upon a stroll you see
A glow of golden flame,
You need not wonder—thanks to me
From whence the glory came.

LETTERS TO The Times

[Name and address of writer must accompany all letters for this column. Letters of a personal nature or involving contentious religious questions are not acceptable.]

True Architecture

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 1.—[To the Editor of The Times:] That was a splendid article in the Sunday Times by Arthur Millier on our California architecture. More of such truthful doses may help us recover from our architectural heebie-jeebies.

One of the most charming houses in California is in the northern foothills, ancient and weather-beaten and inhabited by the son of the forty-niner that built it. The builder made the frame of hewed logs and got balance; he had a crude instinct for proportion and fitness and somehow achieved beauty. Mr. Millier's remedy no doubt would help, but even if a true artist is employed by some retired citizen from Dumpville he must, for commercial reasons, be influenced by his employers' taste. True beauty cannot be bought and plastered on. It must grow out of the spirit of a people.

CURTIS VAN ECK.

Nature's Pipe Line

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 4.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Our small earthquake of Saturday afternoon has a logical explanation. It was caused by a mass movement of a part of the immense gas and oil body under the ocean off the coast from Playa Del Rey to Santa Barbara, through the underlying sand and gravel formation, deep down in the earth, toward the depleted oil fields near the La Brea pits north of Wilshire Boulevard.

It is my opinion that there will now be a gradual replenishment of the oil and gas into the sands under the old La Brea oil fields by way of nature's pipe line, reopened by this quake.

Highest Mountain

SANTA ANA, Sept. 2.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In reading about the new State Park in Southern California, by Henry Hodges in the Outdoor Section of the Sunday paper.

He mentions that Mt. San Jacinto is the tallest mountain in Southern California. I think if he would look at a map of California giving the altitudes he would find that Mt. San Gorgonio is higher by 600 feet.

EDWARD GROTHIER.

Sportsmanship, As Usual

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 4.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I am calling to your attention, Arthur Brisbane's article in today's Examiner on Coste's nonstop flight from Paris to New York.

Mr. Brisbane tries to smother it and belittle it by recounting things that have happened in the past and things likely to happen in future.

It may be retaliation for the French action in "shooing" Mr. Hearst out of their country, but whatever his reason it seems to me his article is very unsportsmanlike and should be criticised through the press.

E. C. PATRICK.

The Wandering Journalist

MONROVIA, Sept. 5.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Every true American who disapproves unfair journalism will laud France for her way of dealing with the publisher who had given to the world the contents of a secret document through his newspapers. But say, how did he happen to think of England as a place of refuge? He was certainly spiteful to England during the World War, to say the least. OBSERVER.

WHERE CAN I LEARN

Hand Composition?

BY LOUISE L. TEMPLE

[Prepared in co-operation with the Los Angeles evening high schools. Questions concerning free evening classes will be answered if stamped addressed envelope is inclosed. Address Louise L. Temple, care of The Times.]

There are more books, magazines and pamphlets of various kinds being printed now than ever before. This requires a constant influx of new men into the printing field. To advance apprentices and other printers who feel that an intensive drill program would increase their speed and accuracy, a free course is offered at the Frank Wiggins Trade Evening School, 216 West Venice Boulevard.

Work of the course covers the learning of the case, proper use of the composing stick, justification and spacing of the type lines and the setting of simple type masses of straight composition; also the proper method of tying a form, the taking of planer proofs, the use of the proof press, inking and washing up, proof reading and the care and distribution of type and material. General style is taught, including the use of italics, the different methods of indention, the setting of poetry and the printers' point system for leader and figure work and multiplication.

There is also practice in book and magazine composition, job composition, advertising layout, elements of lock-up and imposition. Those enrolling at once will not have to delay entrance on account of a long waiting list, as many presses enable the handling of a large class. The only expense is $1 enrollment fee and both men and women in the trade are welcome.

THIS IS ON ME

BY EUGENE BROWN

Heard from Al Smith the other day and he tells me that the Democrats will soon be in control at Washington—thus assuring a happy and prosperous nation. The enthusiasm is his.

Gee! but that bird is an optimist.

The formula is such a simple one that it is a wonder somebody did not think of it before. If the people had only been prudent enough to have picked a Bourbon Congress and had turned the reins of authority over to Tammany we would now be scooting down Easy street at the rate of a mile a minute.

Just like that.

But it is evident that Al figures on success for his party in the Congressional elections this fall. Yet as the Congress then chosen may not get into action for a full year it is possible that the promised happiness and prosperity may not materialize until that time.

Wire Conan Doyle for data on materializations.

In the meantime Al will keep a stiff upper lip and pray for famine and drought—which form the favorite background for Democracy.

Of course President Hoover and the present Congress could resign, but a gentleman who was in Washington recently tells me that there is little likelihood of this step being taken. The boys seem to take their jobs seriously and will not even move over to make room for Al's Pollyana vision.

The New Jersey game commissioner has been West shopping for rabbits. He took on some 5000 live ones in one order and is placing them where they have a chance to thrive and propagate—which is about the best thing they do. This seems like monkey-doodle business to a westerner, but it must be remembered that conditions are different in New Jersey, where rabbits, mosquitoes and enforcement officers are considered big game.

It appears that the visible supply of rabbits has been pruned to the bone. For one thing the motorists dashing from Philadelphia to New York have bumped off thousands of them. The bunnies had formed the habit of parading the highway and at night would get confused by the lights of the flying Fords. Biff! there goes another one. In the morning the State police would have to send out a truck to pick up the rabbit meat along the line.

Also the hunters were complaining that there was hardly anything left to shoot unless they took to peppering one another. Hence this sudden acquisition of rabbits in carload lots. Anyhow, anybody having an excess bunny might be able to get a nickel for same by crating it to the Jersey game commissioner.

It is proposed to put a midget golf course on the deck of the Prince of Wales' pet battleship—the one on which he does most of his world jaunting. The Prince has developed something of a passion for the real game and it is figured that he might like to adapt it to the sea, where Britannia is supposed to rule.

Hence this small-time practice.

That's the system.

Equip all our warships with skewed-off links and let the sailors be taught the use of the putter as well as the marlinspike. When the battle craft of rival nations meet instead of belching cannon at one another let them have putting contests for a round of drinks and the glory of the fleet.

Let the crews meet each other's hazards with a clean touch of sportsmanship and let the ablest putter be hailed as the champion of the rival squadrons and entitled to a seat at the admiral's table. Instead of drumming to quarters to repel boarders the cry will go up to clear the decks for a foursome.

The League of Nations should warmly welcome golf as a substitute for war and further disarmament would largely consist of a displacement of golf courses.

In this connection we hereby nominate Bobby Jones for admiral of the fleet with Walter Hagen as a runner-up. When England's king and queen sally forth to review the resources of the empire the slogan of the fleet shall be: "Putt, brothers, putt with care. Putt in the presence of the royal pair."

DEPARTMENT-STORE DITTY!

When wife goes shopping,
She walks forty miles—
And travels from morning till night;
She hikes up and down
The department-store aisles
Intent on each "bargain" in sight;
She walks till she's weary,
Bedraggled and worn,
And both of her "trilbies" are sore,
And comes home at night
Looking ill and forlorn—
And laden with bundles galore!
And when she has rested
She unties the strings
And opens the parcels she's brought,
And holds up to view
All the "wonderful" things—
The "marvelous" bargains she's bought!
She studies them closely—
Examines each one
Until she has sized up the stack,
And early next morning
She'd up with the sun,
Her mind changed—and sends 'em all back!

JAMES E. HUNGERFORD.

Push and Pull

Scientists have established that it is easier to pull than to push. The flexing or bending muscles of our arms are more powerful than the extending or straightening muscles. A test with oars proved that the "pull" stroke was nearly twice as effective as a "push" stroke.

POULTRY-CHASING DOGS DO SO AT THEIR OWN RISK

Turkey chasing can be pursued by strange dogs only at their own risk, the Appellate Department of the Superior Court has ruled, in a decision filed yesterday. Presiding Judge McLucas and Judges Shaw and Tappa reversed the conviction of Frank Stanthoffer of Culver City, who had been tried by Justice of the Peace Hardy of Venice, and sentenced to pay a $500 fine or serve 250 days in jail on a conviction of wounding a police dog owned by Bert Smith.

On appeal, it was set up that Stanthoffer, who raises poultry, had lost forty turkeys through depredations by dogs and that a week prior to the shooting he had stoned away a marauding police dog. It was represented further that Smith loosed his dog to chase a rabbit and that his police dog bounded on Stanthoffer's property. Stanthoffer said he fired a shotgun thirty feet to one side of the dog to scare the animal and that some shot hit one paw.

The Appellate Department merely referred to the 1929 statutes, Section IV, which provides that any person may kill a dog that is killing, wounding or pursuing live stock or poultry on premises not owned by the dog's owner.

Quiz Started on Anonymous Circularizing

Investigation of charges that a certain political faction in Belvedere violated a section of the election law pertaining to anonymous circulars on the eve of the primary election was ordered by Dist.-Atty Fitts yesterday after hearing the complaint of a group of voters representing the Belvedere Township Political League.

The voters, headed by Ivan Miller, chairman, asserted that an anonymous circular distributed to voters the night before election caused the defeat of Barry Sullivan, a candidate for justice of the peace. Sullivan lost to John Zarling, incumbent.

The circular cautioned voters to beware of a plot by underworld characters to gain control of the township government.

HUSBAND DEFEATED BY SCREEN PLAYER

Jean Harlow

VICTORY IN SUIT SCORED BY ACTRESS

Jean Harlow's Husband Restrained from Altering Trust Fund Given Her

Jean Harlow, screen actress, yesterday scored on her husband, Charles F. McGrew II, when Superior Judge Finney made permanent a temporary injunction restraining McGrew from altering in any way an agreement by which he created a $200,000 trust fund for her in Chicago November 30, 1927. The actress, in private life Mrs. Harlean Carpenter McGrew, had obtained a temporary injunction from Superior Judge Westover on August 6, last.

Last month, McGrew had set aside the default divorce Miss Harlow was granted July 9, last, his contention being that at the time of the hearing ten days had not elapsed since he was served with the complaint. The film actress, in attempting to prove the validity of her decree, dramatically described the asserted service.

She said McGrew visited her Beverly Hills home at 4 a.m. June 28, last, and told her he was flying away on the 5 a.m. airplane to evade service. Miss Harlow said that she entertained McGrew while her mother telephoned for a process server who served the papers on her husband as he left her home.

Miss Harlow did not appear in court yesterday.

COURT SETS ALIMONY OF MRS. PAGEL

Stock Broker Ordered to Pay Her $300 Per Month Pending Divorce Trial

Herbert F. Pagel, wealthy Beverly Hills stock broker, yesterday was ordered by Superior Judge Smith to pay his wife, Fern L. Pagel, temporary alimony of $300 a month pending the trial of her divorce action, filed recently.

Mrs. Pagel accuses her husband of openly and brazenly fondling and kissing other women in a cafe in Los Angeles on August 6. He continued the caressing of the women in their automobile on the way home, Mrs. Pagel contends.

The husband has filed a cross-complaint asserting that the sixteen years of his married life were made miserable by his wife's verbal abuse and that she refused to rear a family.

Mrs. Pagel also asserts her husband, prior to their coming to California, paid a man at Sycamore, Ill., $3500 to settle a $100,000 suit against him wherein he was accused of alienating the affections of the man's wife.

Hulme Ordered to Face Trial in Auto Death

Phillip D. Hulme, Alhambra real-estate dealer, was held for Superior Court on manslaughter charges by Municipal Judge Turney yesterday. He was accused by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Coleman of running down and killing David Thomas of Burbank on the Seventh-street viaduct on August 10.

Evidence against Hulme was circumstantial and consisted mainly of a hat containing his initials found near Thomas's body, and hair identified by Police Chemist Welch as that of the dead man on the bumper of the automobile.

Girl Says She Was Kidnaped

Held captive until she agreed to marry was the story told yesterday by Mrs. Natividad Santillon in inducing Superior Judge Guerin to annual her marriage with Antonio Santillon. The girl testified with the aid of an interpreter.

"Santillon asked me to leave my home in El Monte and come to Los Angeles so that I could get some letters and pictures which were in his room," she was quoted by the interpreter. "When we arrived he held me captive overnight. Next morning he told me I would be disgraced if I did not marry him. I consented because of my fright."

ELEANOR BOARDMAN ON FOX LOT

M.-G.-M. Signs Joan Marsh; Joan Clare with Colman; Spence Writes Wheeler-Woolsey Story; Fay Wray in "Dirigible"

BY MURIEL BABCOCK

Eleanor Boardman will play the lead in "Net Work," the Russian spy story to go into production on the Fox lot next week, according to word last night.

ELEANOR BOARDMAN

Miss Boardman, who gave one of the finest performances on record in "The Crowd," is an actress who is seen infrequently on the screen these days. Hence her selection for this role, if confirmed by Fox executives, should be good news to a lot of fans.

"Net Work," as a good many people know, is a narrative of adventure by Rene Fulop-Miller. Ernest Pascal has prepared the screen adaptation for Berthold Viertel, who will direct.

And—Milton Sills will play the leading masculine role.

Blondes Preferred

With the idea in mind that gentlemen screen fans still prefer 'em, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has signed to its ranks another blond.

JOAN MARSH

Starting immediately, Joan Marsh, blue-eyed and five feet two inches tall, will transfer her make-up box to the Culver City studio, under the terms of a favorable contract. She has recently appeared in various roles in "King of Jazz," "The Little Accident," several episodes of the "Leather Pusher" series and other films. Most of her appearances have been with Universal.

She was literally born in the shadow of a motion-picture camera, as her father is Charles Rosher, one of the best-known figures in film photography. After years with Mary Pickford, Rosher recently went to M.-G.-M.

Sam Goldwyn, Screen Coach

Sam Goldwyn evidently believes in training his own screen actresses.

Yesterday, he let it be known that his latest selection for Ronald Colman's new picture was Miss Joan Clare, a former Ziegfeld Follies girl, who has never before stepped in front of a motion-picture camera.

This seems right in line with his policy of selecting the other two feminine performers, Misses Constance Cummings and Florence Britton—neither of whom has ever acted before in pictures.

Miss Clare, it seems, appeared last season in the ingenue role in "Lido Lady" on the London musical stage. She was in the "Artists and Models" show in New York in 1926. She came west four weeks ago.

Now It's "Hook, Line and Sinker"

Ralph Spence, ace title writer in the days of silent pictures, is preparing the next Bert Wheeler-Robert Woolsey show for R.-K.-O., and, according to those who have seen his first drafts, the lines in it come thick and fast.

ROBERT WOOLSEY

It is titled, "Hook, Line and Sinker," and deals with activities in and about a big metropolitan hotel. Spence joined the R.-K.-O. writing staff two and a half months ago to do "Half Shot at Sunrise."

Luther Reed will direct "Hook, Line and Sinker."

Fay Wray Chosen

The winsome Fay Wray has been chosen by Harry Cohn to play the feminine lead in "Dirigible," Columbia's story of adventure in the field of naval aviation, it was announced last evening from the studio. "Dirigible" is the newest Frank Capra effort. Ralph Graves and Jack Holt, who were in "Submarine" and "Flight," are in the picture and with Frank Capra, director, just returned from Lakehurst, N. J., where they took a lot of scenes about the big dirigible, the Los Angeles.

Norman Kerry to Halperin

Here's Norman Kerry back in the limelight. He will play, it was told yesterday, a principal role in "Ex-Flame" to be made by the Halperin Brothers. This will be the first of four Kern pictures for Halperin.

And—don't shudder, "Ex-Flame" is the title given by the Halperin Brothers to their adaptation of "East Lynne."

Just in Passing

Evelyn Brent is going to do "The Quest," an English play, next for R.-K.-O. . . . Marie Astaire, Raida Rae, Ida Rae, James Mack and Joe Girard have been added to the cast of "The Third Alarm," which Tiffany has under production . . . Mary Duncan left yesterday for New York for a short vacation. She has been offered a play but says she will come back to work for Universal.

Production Shots

Three minutes of grand opera on the "Children of Dreams" set at Warner Brothers were enjoyed Thursday by thirty Los Angeles and Hollywood scribes as the guests of Oscar Hammerstein and Sigmund Romberg. An enormous and lavishly built set, resembling the interior of the Metropolitan Grand Opera-house, was the setting for the occasion . . . Production was started yesterday on the R.-K.-O. lot of "Sheep's Clothing," the picture which Louis Wolheim will direct and act in . . . The second Slim Summerville short comedy was launched yesterday at Universal with Ed Griffith, Pauline Garon and Al Ray in the cast. The Summerville stock has had a terrific rise ever since "All Quiet on the Western Front." He has appeared in four features, besides two shorts.

Miriam Seegar to Columbia

The blond Miriam Seegar, who came to Hollywood about a year ago and played some parts for Paramount, has won the lead in "The Lion and the Lamb," opposite Walter Byron at Columbia, it was announced last evening. This is the drama that George B. Seitz is directing. Carmel Myers is playing the role of the menace. Although a good many people don't know this, Miss Seegar, who came to town from London, where she had been playing on the British stage and in British pictures, is really from the South—Kentucky, I think it is.

MIRIAM SEEGAR

About the Lots

Betty Boyd has been assigned a role with Edmund Lowe in "Men on Call." Good parts seemed coming Betty's way these days. . . .

Richard Barthelmess, with Mrs. Barthelmess returns today from a six weeks' trip to Canada. He is said to have had a fine vacation, camping in the open and shooting and fishing. He may take the time between now and the start of his next picture, about Christmas time, to go to China.

Henry B. Walthall departed last night for Santa Cruz to join J. G. Blystone on location for "Tol'able David." . . .

Alice D. G. Miller, well-known magazine writer, has reported for work with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and yesterday was assigned a story tentatively planned for a Norma Shearer vehicle. . . .

Andrew Callahan, manager of the Technicolor Studio in Hollywood, departed last night for New York. . . .

Universal Studio is planning a stars' golf tournament the 14th to the 21st inst. Along with good entries from the electrical and publicity department have come those from Lew Ayres and Jeanette Loff. . . .

Cecil B. De Mille has received an official-looking communication from the country of Abyssinia asking permission to show his production, "The King of Kings," on the occasion of the coronation of the new King this month. Mr. De Mille hasn't replied, but it looks as if he won't have any objections . . . Phil Dunham and Monte Collins have been assigned to the cast of the R.-K.-O. "Nick and Tony" production, "Moonlight and Roses." This is the picture in which Lita Chevret appears.

IDLE RICH FROLIC AT MAJESTIC

'What Men Want' Reveals Story of Gay Parties and Jazz Orchestras

BY M. B.

Moviesque in story and treatment, "What Men Want," a glittering tale of love along idle rich row, moved into the Majestic Theater yesterday.

Pauline Starke, Barbara Kent, Ben Lyon and Robert Ellis share the principal roles. Ernst Laemmle directed from a story by Warner Fabian.

If it were not for the fact that the picture is dialogued, the casual spectator might for the moment imagine he was back in the palmy motion-picture days when bathtubs were marble sunken pools and Gloria Swanson was the reigning clothes horse.

The picture emphasizes not so much the story, a trivial light-hearted affair at the most, but backgrounds—richly modernistic—and costuming—ultra evening.

In other words, "What Men Want" is a treat for the eyes of those who like to see what the movie-makers' conception of a life of luxury is like.

Miss Starke plays the role of a beautiful woman of the world who wants to wed Ben Lyon, a smiling, ingenuous and wealthy lad, and live happily ever after. Her plans are upset by the arrival of the fresh-faced, collegiate-flapper sister, Barbara Kent. Ben loses interest and falls in love with little sister. Robert Ellis, in the role of the wordly attorney who has always had a deep interest in Pauline, hovers in the background, willing to do anything to make his amour truly happy.

There are lots of gay parties, at which glasses clink and jazz orchestras thump out tunes. Hallam Cooley, impersonating a silly-ass party hound, officiates at most of these.

Not at all important and with really no unexpected moments, the picture hits an amusingly gay pace and should be liked by those who like to see glitter and hear jazz.

FARES TO YOSEMITE REDUCED BY ESPEE

Hundreds of Angelenos are expected to visit the Yosemite Valley within the next two weeks as a result of low-fare excursion rates which Southern Pacific will place in effect from the 19th to 23rd inst.

Bargain rates from all stations between Colton and San Luis Obispo will be in effect. On account o. the low rate the round trip must be completed within seven days of date of departure. The company is striving to induce Californians to know their own state, placing fares so low that the resulting travel will be heavy, it is anticipated.

Japan is having many mergers of industrial concerns.

UNDERTAKER GIVEN CREMATION VERDICT

A verdict for the defendants was awarded yesterday by the jury in the damage suit of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Slatten against Allen Bade and others, undertakers, wherein they asserted the defendants cremated the body of their baby daughter instead of burying it. They asked $15,000 of each of the defendants in the suit which was tried before Superior Judge Fleming. The defendants contended Mrs. Slatten's mother had stated they proposed to cremate the body.

A DELIRIUM OF GURGLING ROARING, BODY-SHAKING LAUGHTER!
TODAY the laugh wave hits Los Angeles . . . heads will fly back . . . mouths will open . . . loud and lusty guffaws, such as this old town never heard before, will rise to the rafters . . . heels will tap . . . eyes will water . . . the whole town is in an hysteria of glee.
What's it about? . . . really . . . we tossed the dictionary in the waste basket; for old man Webster not having seen "RAIN OR SHINE," had no words to describe its crackling, chortling, laugh-strewn comedy.
There'll be a convention of laughs here now . . . they'll ALL be here . . . the shrill childish ripple . . . the gentle girlish giggle . . . the sonorous baritone "ha! ha! ha!" . . . the piercing shriek of feminine glee . . . the deep rumble of the aged . . . the queer mule-like tremolo . . . and all of the strange sounds which humans make when tickled to death.
Incidentally the picture is so packed with laughs that there was no room for theme songs . . . dances . . . or "boop-boop-a-doop"

"HOLDING"

Is a superb masterpiece . . . in which each character does remarkable work. Particularly . . . is the work of Ann Harding . . splendid. The motion-picture industry is fortunate . . indeed . . to have so fine an actress in its midst. WALTER HUSTON ACTS BAD MAN

Traditional Role Filled by New Favorite

Play Done in Talkie Form at Downtown

Conveniences of Plot Seen in Version

BY PHILIP K. SCHEUER

Porter Emerson Browne's opera bouffe, "The Bad Man," is now a talking picture. With Walter Huston in the part Holbrook Blinn would doubtless have taken had he lived, the film opened yesterday at Warner Brothers' Downtown Theater. Its stock characters walk and talk as they did on the stage, puppets dangling on the string that Pancho Lopez, bandit de luxe, jiggles to suit his fancy. Never very real, they nevertheless furnish suitable foils for the expounded philosophies of a legendary figure who, knowing no law but his own, attends to everything "per-son-nal."

He's not all bad, the bad man. Riding at the head of his band to the ranch of Gilbert Jones, he proceeds to mete out justice to the motley assortment of Americans he finds there. He settles a mercenary dispute between "Senor Loan Fish" and "Senor Wall Street;" he gives Angela Hardy the choice of marrying his henchman, the Harpo-Marx-like Pedro, or Cowhand "Red" Giddings; he shoots Husband Morgan Pell so that Wife Ruth will be free to marry Rancher Jones, and he finally offers Jones the choice of fighting for Ruth or losing her to him—per-son-nal.

Then, with a flourish and an exit speech—"at last I've made man from you, what would kill for his wom-man!"—he steps out and into a fusillade from the doughty rangers. What a grand old sinner he was!

HUSTON'S DELIGHT

It is a pleasure to sit there at Warners' and watch Walter Huston playing bad man. He makes each point with such great deliberation, a grin twisting back from his gleaming teeth; he has such a good time at his own party. Sharing each proper coup with him are Pedro, an incredibly ferocious desperado whom Arthur Stone realizes to perfection, and an annoyingly garrulous Uncle Henry caricatured by O. P. Heggie.

The others, conventionalized to order, are Dorothy Revier, Sidney Blackmer, James Rennie, Marion Byron, Guinn Williams and Erville Alderson.

"The Bad Man" is not a distinguished contribution to the art of the screen; for one thing, it comes a bit late. Fashions in drama change rapidly in these talkie times, so that the conscientious producer, setting out to immortalize an old favorite in celluloid, frequently finds himself on the horns of a dilemma. Should he adhere to the best traditions of the original play, or should he modernize it, equip it with a new, succinct vocabulary, and gamble on not offending those to whom it is a more or less cherished memory?

HISTORY CHALLENGED

First National, in the present instance, was additionally faced with the problem of successfully replacing the late Mr. Blinn and (particularly in the West) Leo Carrillo in a role that is known from coast to coast as peculiarly theirs. Mr. Huston is a fine actor; how closely he approximates the individual's conception of Pancho Lopez is a matter for the individual. But because we have gone ahead and left the play itself behind, the comparison no longer seems very important—either way.

Some magnificent shots of the cattle country, of cactus and towering ridged cliffs, are brought to the screen by Director Clarence Badger. Otherwise the action occurs preponderantly in the ranch-house with the emphasis fortunately placed on the comic aspects of the whole proceeding. At least, I hope no one expected such happenings as the attempted branding of his wife by Morgan Pell, and the same gentleman's later resurrection from the dead, to be taken too seriously.

Three short subjects are on the bill—"The Play Boy," with Harry Fox; "Modern Business," a Vitaphone Variety, and a news reel.

Intelligence Marks "Holiday"

Ann Harding

Adds to her rapidly increasing popularity as the leading character in the film now showing at the Carthay Circle Theater.

Russian Music Presented by Noted Artists

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

An evening of Russian music was the rare pleasure afforded a capacity audience at the Hollywood Conservatory last night. Mme. Elizabeth Ivanova, formerly of the Imperial Operahouse in Petrograd, was assisted by Feodor Gontzoff, baritone of the Russian Opera of Moscow; Alexandre Kosloff, well-known Russian pianist, and Alexandre Borisoff, violoncellist.

The program was dedicated to Russian composers and was conspicuous among concert programs for the beautiful art songs presented. The audience contributed to the enjoyment by its comprehensive appreciation of the works of Rimsky-Korsakoff, Gliere, Rachmaninoff, Prokofieff, Borodin, Gretchaninoff, Dargomijsky and Tschaikowsky. Hearing Russian music in the Russian language was a revelation of its beauty.

Mme. Ivanova sang with sympathy the fine, sensitive poetry which the masters of her country have set to music. The "Song of Georgia" by Rimsky-Korsakoff opened the concert. "Sweet Sang the Nightingale" and "A Mood of Tenderness" by Gliere followed. Simple expressions of moving emotion—they were set in rich accompaniments which enhanced their melody. In all this program there was not a banal phrase except for slight digressions in the encores. Dargomijsky's "Badness" was repeated and it left an impression of ineffaceable loveliness.

Mr. Kosloff, who not only gave a group of piano solos which were enthusiastically received but played self-effacing accompaniments for Mme. Ivanova and M. Gontzoff, chose two intricate etudes by Barkevich and Rachmaninoff and delighted his hearers with the humorous modernism of the ever-young Prokofieff. His encore of the familiar Rachmaninoff Prelude in C sharp minor was done with taste and commendable restraint.

Mr. Feodor Gontzoff, baritone, is a recent acquisition to America's music life, having arrived here to teach in a Texas university. He is a favorite opera singer among the Russians and he chose a group of arias from the popular works of his country, revealing musicianship of a high order. Dramatic excerpts from "Prince Igor," "The Demon" and the last act from "Eugene Onegin" were given.

Sound Pictures of Air Heroes Screened Today

The first sound and action pictures of the arrival of Coste and Bellonte, French air heroes who made the first nonstop flight from Paris to New York, have been rushed to the Newsreel Theater and will be shown on the new program which starts today.

The theater also announces a new policy of showing the latest news events twenty-four hours ahead of its previous schedule. Hereafter the program is to change on Saturday instead of Sunday, and the midweek change is to be eliminated. New subjects are to be added to each program immediately upon arrival.

Among the twenty or more news items comprising the program which starts today are the arrival of Gladys O'Donnell at the air races in Chicago, the final preparations of the British polo team for their matches with the United States champions, the reunion of the Civil War veterans, and the winning of the trapshooting championship by a 14-year-old boy.

Tiffany Farce Starts Run at Tower Theater

In "Borrowed Wives" Tiffany's farce-melodrama, starting today at the Tower Theater, is a cast which includes some noted character comedians of the screen.

The romantic leading roles are played by Rex Lease and Vera Reynolds, while the important character of the policeman is played by Paul Hurst.

'APPLE CART' BOOKED AT MUSIC BOX

Shaw Play Selected to Open Civic Repertory Season Here

"The Apple Cart" by George Bernard Shaw has been set as the opening production of the Civic Repertory Theater.

This was announced yesterday by A. C. Balch, president of the newly formed Bowl Theater Association, the organization which will sponsor and manage the repertory movement here. "The Apple Cart" will open October 27 at the Music Box Theater in Hollywood. According to Balch, other plays of the same high caliber will follow the run of the Shaw production.

The Bowl Theater organization, indorsed by the Hollywood Bowl Association, contemplates the building on Hollywood Bowl property of a theater to house the repertory movement. Plans are to have it ready for the fall opening, two years hence.

WELL-KNOWN PLAY MADE INTO FILM

"Girl of Golden West" to be Screened at Hollywood Warner Theater

Ann Harding, considered one of the most popular actresses in Hollywood today, comes to Warner Brothers' Hollywood Theater Friday in the name role of David Belasco's drama of California, "The Girl of the Golden West."

This play has become one of the traditions of the American stage, it is said, and has been brought up to date with Miss Harding in the part that served Blanche Bates and Geraldine Farrar as milestones in their dramatic careers. The chief supporting roles, the road agent and the Sheriff, are assigned to James Rennie and Harry Bannister, respectively.

The noted scene of the poker game in which the girl plays for the life of her lover is the high light of the picture, it is announced. John Francis Dillon directed for First National.

NOTED COMIC WILL MAKE FILM DEBUT

Joe Cook Plays Leading Role in "Rain or Shine" Today at Orpheum

Joe Cook, who was called "the funniest man in America" by Percy Hammond, noted dramatic critic, makes his screen debut today in "Rain or Shine" at the Orpheum Theater. The picture is Columbia's version of the play in which Cook starred for more than two years.

In "Rain or Shine" the comic demonstrates, it is said, the versatility that has gained for him the unique title of "the one-man show."

Tom Howard and Dave Chasen, who have assisted Cook on the stage for many years, were brought to Hollywood to appear with him in "Rain or Shine." Joan Peers has her first important screen role as the leading feminine player, and Louise Fazenda, William Collier, Jr., Alan Roscoe, Adolph Milar and Clarence Muse also appear. Frank Capra directed.

CRESPO IN PRISON ROLE

Jose Crespo, Spanish player under contract to M.-G.-M., has played in many stage and film productions, but as Morgar in the Spanish version of "The Big House" he finds himself in a prison story for the first time.

TALKER IN SPANISH AT CALIFORNIA

Adolphe Menjou Stars in "Amor Audaz," Supported by Strong Cast

BY SALVADOR BAGUEZ

The California International Theater entered upon its second week of all-Spanish programs most auspiciously yesterday with the presentation of "Amor Audaz." It is Paramount's Spanish adaptation of Percy Health's "Slightly Scarlet."

Strange as it may seem, in this production, which is the second to be undertaken by the producers, Adolphe Menjou is starred. The local Spanish-speaking colony will rejoice at the return to the screen of this former Paramount silent-picture star. In this, his initial appearance in Spanish talkies, he emerges as a new actor and a linguist of distinction, pronouncing the tongue of Cervantes almost to perfection.

The picture should create particular appeal among women, for in his former characterizations Menjou has always won their approval. It affords him unlimited opportunities to make use of his histrionic ability, which gains considerably with the added charm and finesse of his speech. He is supported by a capable cast, headed by that charming dancer, Rosita Moreno, who also makes her debut in the Spanish talkies. She photographs beautifully and does the most with a part that should have been interpreted by a more experienced actress.

Other members of the cast are all very acceptable, notably Maria Calvo and Vicente Padula, who contribute bits of very amusing comedy. Barry Norton, Ramon Pereda, Carmen Guerrero and Paco Moreno appear in minor roles. The dialogue and adaptation were done by J. Carner-Ribalta and A. W. Peset assisted Louis Gasnier in the direction.

A comedy, a Spanish talking comedy-cartoon, and sound news complete the interesting bill.

Film Depicts Construction of Railroad

BY ELENA BOLAND

What machinery has done toward building the new Russia is again the inspiration for an Amkino production. This time the glory of the railroad has been pictorialized in a film entitled "Turksib," which is now at the Filmarte.

From the type of pictures being sent out from Russian studios, it would seem that the government has hit upon the camera as the best means of publicizing the reconstruction work now going on throughout the country. If it does give Russia a boost, it at the same time serves an educational purpose.

"Turksib," which is also the name of the railroad linking Turkestan with Siberia in the North, is not as clear in its idea connection and symbolism as some previous Russian films released here. Because it essays such a gigantic scope, it offers difficulties in keeping each separate exposition clear and complete in itself.

For "Turksib" follows no story. Its first problem is to show the privation in Turkestan through lack of water and trade facilities. Siberia, with its commercial wealth rotting on the tracks because there is no transportation, is the next scene. After that, step by step, the railroad takes form against a perpetual battle with the cruelest forces of Nature.

More than anything else, "Turksib" excels in photography, a common attribute of Amkino pictures. As a scenic sweep this supplies constant interest. It affords an insight into conditions prevailing throughout primitive rural Russia, high-lighted by amusing incidents with native tribes.

One of the most spectacular of the many episodes is the great sand storm which lays waste man, beast, machinery—anything that obstructs its path. But all the way through this dominance of Nature is felt, symbolized as an evil destruction of the works of man and progress. Victor Turin directed.

A youthful and battling Mary Pickford is seen in "The Informer." This must date back many years, as it is one of D. W. Griffiths earliest efforts. A love tale of the Civil War it is, with sorrow and romance entwined into one beautiful horror. Henry B. Walthall may be often spied uttering curses through his mustache behind yon spreading oak.

A dash of the artistic is "Episodes in the Life of a Gin Bottle," which was directed by Bella Von Block for some higher purpose.

Bakewell Wins Contract with M.-G.-M. Studio

Although he is one of the youngest film actors playing major roles, William Bakewell has to his credit a list of successful performances, recently climaxed by a role in "All Quiet on the Western Front," now showing at the Criterion Theater. It was his work in the Universal war classic that brought him a five-year contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, it is said.

Bakewell's career in Hollywood is said to be in striking contrast to the thousands of young persons who attempt to achieve success in film work, but who are turned back disappointed and discouraged. He has steadily advanced from that first day when, as a callow graduate of a local military school, he stepped upon a lot as one of a 100 other extras.

"Candle Light" to Close Run

An extra erformance of "Candle Light" will be given at the Biltmore Theater tomorrow night, completing the two-weeks engagement of this Viennese comedy. The play goes from here to the Lobero Theater, Santa Barbara, and will not play elsewhere in Southern California.

Featured in the cast of the production are Eugenie Leontovich, Russian actress; Reginald Owen, who appeared here recently with Fay Bainter in "Caprice," and Alan Mowbray, remembered for his role in "The Second Man."

Fraternity to Honor Nugent

As a tribute to their popular fraternity brother, Elliott Nugent, the University of Southern California chapter of the Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity has taken over El Capitan for a theater party on the night of the 16th inst., for a performance of "The Poor Nut."

As a fraternity man and student at Ohio State University, Elliott Nugent gained first-hand material for the college comedy which he wrote in collaboration with his father, J. C. Nugent, and in which he stars.

Paramount will Have Late Show

A show for those who prefer their entertainment in the later hours is scheduled for tonight at the Paramount Theater. The four Marx Brothers in "Animal Crackers" and the complete Paramount stage show are included on the program.

Those madcap comedians, the four Marx lunatics, are justifying the film being held a second week, according to the theater management.

BY JOHN S. DAGGETT

Radio stations KTM, KMIC and KMTR takes over the reins of entertainment at today's eighth annual Radio Show at the Ambassador Auditorium.

LETA CHEVRET

Breaking in the doors at 1:30 p.m., without their horses, the KTM Ranch Boys take over the Crystal Studio at the show—they have a host of fans and their program will go over the air. At 2 p.m., KMIC takes over the next half-hour with Lord McIntyre's Hawaiians, the Banjo Boys, Andy and Jack and the Happy Go Lucky Trio. This program will not go over the air. From 3:30 to 4—KTM is on the studio stage with its Miniature Symphony Orchestra, Loyce Whiteman, Dorothy Dee and many more of their highlights. Frank Gage will be master of ceremonies.

Again at 4:30, they take the air with "Amateur Artists' Program." This sounds like an old-fashioned "Amateur Night," with whistles, hooks and senile eggs. At 5 p.m., the Ranch Boys romp in again for half an hour—and then KMTR, at 9, sweeps onto the stage with the "best they have," the concert orchestra, Roy Rockwood, the Dare Misters and even the Hollywood Sweepstakes will be run on this period.

THE TIMES' HONOR GUESTS

KMTR's broadcast of the night ball game prevents their putting this excellent program on today station, but it is to be hoped KTM will rebroadcast the period. Then at 10 to 11, Salvatore Santaella and his orchestra "makes music" that is to go on the air over KTM.

This will give Radioland an opportunity to get thoroughly acquainted with the personalities that come to your dial over these three popular radio stations.

You are cordially invited to stop at The Times' Booth No. 39, and meet our guests of honor tonight—John Steven McGroarty, author of "The Mission Play;" Peggy Hamilton, fashion editor of The Times; Leta Chevret, star of R-K-O; Raymond Harmon, Mary Hawkins Shover, James Russell Loyal, David Durand, "Little Boy Blue" and Dick Wilshire, "[illegible] Reporter."

THEY TELL US THAT—

Don't fail to dial KTM and KMTR while they're at the radio show today. They promise to touch off a blast of their best.

KHJ at 5 finds the C.B.S. "Showboat" with a four-act mystery "melodrama," a bride, a balloonist, and a detectative.

KFWB at 9 tonight—"The Valiant," a radio playlet by Stuart Buchanan and Mary Duckett—said to wrench tears from your eyes. The "hot seat" at Sing Sing is the end of James Dyke's trail.

HUSBAND JAILED IN KNIFE DEATH

Wife Slashed Twenty-three Times After Quarrel

Police Trail Suspect to Home of Friend

Quiz on Ensenada Murder Brings no Clews

Flying into a jealous rage Miguel Garcia, 44 years of age, slashed his wife, Josefa, 35, twenty-three times with a large pocketknife and then, as she lay dying on the floor, made an attempt to decapitate her as the climax to a quarrel in their home at 812 Stanford avenue yesterday afternoon. The woman was dead when detectives, called by neighbors, arrived.

Twenty minutes later detectives traced the infuriated man to a friend's home in Watts and placed him under arrest on a charge of murder. He offered no resistance. Shaking and trembling, he told detectives he had been told his wife had been unfaithful. Four small children, two boys and two girls, are being cared for by neighbors.

Because of the repeated slashing of the woman, detectives questioned Garcia in connection with the murder of Lois Kentle and Francis Conlin in Ensenada. Miss Kentle and her sweetheart were each stabbed half a dozen times. The questioning revealed no information, Detective-Lieutenants Pilkas and Baggot stated.

Garcia, according to the detectives, used a large pocketknife which he purchased a short time before the quarrel.

After a legal battle over the question of the jurisdiction and the identity of the defendant, the hearing of Joseph B. Adkins, held here on a charge of a murder in 1897 in Oklahoma, was continued yesterday by United States Commissioner Head until the 16th inst.

Adkins is being held on the charge that he is Robert Atchison, convicted of the murder of John Coontz in 1897 at El Reno, Okla. Adkins denies he is Atchison, and asserts he is Adkins, a cousin of Atchison. He is being held in the County Jail pending a determination of the case.

Air Plans Held Spoiled by Mate

Mrs. Veda Blake was forced to take up aviation as a profession because her husband failed to support her, according to her complaint for a divorce filed yesterday against Grover C. Blake.

Mrs. Blake asserted her husband so harassed her she became too nervous to take her test flights.

She also stated he called her a gold digger and that he struck her.

INTOXICATION BLAMED FOR YUMA MARRIAGE

Intoxication tricked her into marriage, Mrs. Lillian Dorothy Granger testified yesterday in asking Superior Judge Haslett to annul her union with Christopher Granger. They were married in Yuma, Ariz., on June 11, last. "I was so completely intoxicated I didn't know what I was doing," Mrs. Granger said. "When I regained complete possession of my faculties an hour after the marriage, I immediately left Granger." Judge Haslett granted the annulment.

HUNT UNDER WAY FOR GIRL

Until August 22, last, Edna May Richmond, 17 years of age, daily assisted her mother, Mrs. Liloraine Richmond of 1868 West Twenty-second street, to sell candy. On that day the two started to solicit orders in a residential district of Pasadena, the girl taking one side of the street and the mother the other. The girl suddenly disappeared, and has not been seen by her mother since. The police yesterday began a general search for her.

DATE-PLUMS OR PERSIMMONS

The native wild persimmons found in North America require frost to remove the puckery taste, and they are commonly left hanging on the trees until the frost comes, long after the leaves have departed. The tree is very ornamental when loaded with the ripe, golden-orange globes.

Some of the Japanese persimmons, now being grown extensively in the United States and Canada, are larger and do not require the frost to make them palatable.

Persimmons, when ripe, are sweet, tender and juicy, and have the appearance and texture of custard in a thin silken bag. The fruit, although delicious, has not yet become popular; however, the time may come when they are as familiar to us as oranges or apples, for their exceptional food value certainly merits attention.

The puckery taste of some of the persimmons is due to a small amount of tannic acid. The Japanese method of ripening them artificially, so that the bitterness is removed, is to place the persimmons into casks newly emptied of native beer or sake. The barrels are then sealed and in two weeks the fruit is ready with all of its sugary flavor and marvelous color. Out of curiosity, scientists investigated the process and found that the casks contained carbon dioxid which when acting upon the tanic acid mellowed the fruit. From this comes the process of exposing the fruit in storage rooms filled with carbon dioxid gas until ready for marketing.

Unless cultivated, the fruit is usually too soft or small to be of much value commercially, but those who are fortunate enough to live close to the wild trees will enjoy the fruit. In some of the Southern States it is a race between the possum, the coon, and man to be first to reach the persimmons clustered on the bare branches after the frost time. The negroes use poles to shake down the persimmons from which came the saying, "The longest pole gets the persimmon."

The Indians made a persimmon bread by grinding corn and blending it with the pulp of persimmons and baking it into a sort of cake. Chinese and Japanese dry the persimmon, using a process which leaves the dried fruit with a thick coating of natural sugar greatly resembling a date in consistency and flavor. In the oriental countries, the marketing of dried persimmons may be compared to our marketing of dried peaches.

The persimmon contains about 15.13 per cent of sugar, although some range higher. It has about 80 per cent of water; 1.38 per cent of protein; .57 per cent of fat; 2.08 per cent crude fiber, and .65 per cent mineral matter. The principal mineral elements it contains are: Potassium, calcium, magnesium, sodium and phosphorous.

In serving the fruit, it is usual to pull out the stem end and eat the center with a spoon. The fruit may be sliced and each slice used as a base for a fruit salad. When peeled and mashed with the addition of a little orange juice it may be frozen and makes a very delicious dessert.

Now that shipping methods are so reliable, with proper care, refrigeration, and packing, it should be possible to ship the fruit more extensively, and the persimmon will possibly come into greater prominence in the ordinary market instead of being a rarity. It has been estimated there are over 1,000,000 square miles upon which the persimmon is growing wild, waiting for some organization to popularize it.

CHEF WYMAN'S RECIPES

The Times' free cooking school conducted by Chef Wyman has been discontinued for the summer. Date for resuming has not been set but will be announced later.

SWISS MEAT PANCAKES

Put through the fine knife of the meat chopper, one cupful of lamb or beef, season it with salt and paprika, a few grains of nutmeg, and a half a teaspoonful of grated lemon rind, place the mixture in a sauce pan, and allow to heat but not brown. Beat three eggs, and beat into them two cupfuls of milk and enough sifted flour to make a thin batter, drop the batter in large spoonfuls onto a well-boiled hot griddle, and when brown on one side drop on each pancake two tablespoonfuls of the meat mixture, fold over the pancakes and remove to a hot platter, garnish with parsley.

SOUTHERN CHOCOLATE CAKES

Cream one-half cupful of butter and cream into it very thoroughly one cupful of sugar, adding it a little at a time, add to the mixture three well-beaten eggs, mixing the eggs in a little at a time, then add two squares of [illegible] chocolate that have been melted over boiling water. Sift one and one-fourth cupfuls of sifted flour with two level teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-fourth teaspoonful of soda, and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt add the flour, alternately with two-thirds of a cupful of sour cream, or sour milk. Stir in a half a cupful of finely chopped walnut meats, and flavor with two teaspoonfuls of vanilla extract. May either be baked in layers or an oblong tin, and cut in squares.

RUSKS

Scald two cupfuls of milk, and when it is luke warm, dissolve in it one and a half cakes of yeast, stir in enough flour to make a batter, about as thick as pancake flour, and set in a warm place until it doubles in bulk, then beat to a cream one-half cupful of butter and gradually add to it one-half cupful of sugar, two well-beaten eggs, and one teaspoonful of salt, combine with the other batter, and add enough more flour to make a soft dough, stirring with a spoon until it gets thick enough to knead in the bowl. Break off the dough in pieces and make them into small balls, place in pans and set in a warm place to rise again, brush over the tops with melted butter or shortening, and when double in size place in a hot oven for the first fifteen minutes, then reduce the heat and continue the baking.

ITALIAN ONION TORTA

Peel and slice in thin round slices eight medium-sized onions, simmer until tender with water sufficient to cover, remove from the fire, drain and add a half a cupful of melted butter, beat three eggs until light and creamy, add to them three tablespoonfuls of flour and one-half cupful of rich milk, or cream, season with salt and paprika, and just a few grains of nutmeg or mace. Beat the mixture well, add the onions to it, place in a pastry lined pie dish, sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese and bake in a hot oven for the first fifteen minutes, then reduce the heat and bake until the custard is set. Serve as a vegetable or a main luncheon dish.

The Large Party

Table room is always relished in the kitchen when having a large party. Try putting the ironing board into service for an extra table for soiled dishes. Cover it carefully with paper first and place it in an out of the way corner of the room. Then all those dishes will not interfere with the arranging of the next course.

This department offers mothers help in weaning and feeding the child from 6 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema, outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, formula of normal, colic, fever, cold sores, rashes, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prone babies, lime water, rupture, styes and colds and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the reply. If your particular question is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

BREATH-HOLDING IS NOT ALWAYS SYMPTOM OF TEMPER

Adults have a rather unwise habit of diagnosing their children's behavior difficulties and fitting a ready-made explanation to them. If baby cries, his mother says: "Oh, the little darling has the colic!" and she keeps on saying this for months after he is born. If he jumps and waves his arms about at every loud noise, she says: "He's such a nervous baby." And if he holds his breath, she always calls it temper and says determinedly: "Well, he isn't going to try any of those tactics on me!"

Sometimes these ready-made explanations hit the mark; many times they are deplorably "off" and the baby suffers. While the mother is certain she knows what is wrong, she makes only feeble attempts to right it.

In this matter of breath-holding the phenomenon may be a trivial one which won't hurt baby even if he does hold his breath. Inevitably he has to draw it. Sometimes just a whiff of smelling salts under the nose will help him to do that, and then he goes on crying in the usual way without frightening his mother to death.

HOME TREATMENT

The excitable and nervous child may, when angry and upset, be unable to breathe temporarily. The child starts to cry, but is seized by a spasm of the glottis and cannot exhale, holding his breath until white and shaking and covered with perspiration. Even if this were a temper tantrum there seems no reason for the parent to let the child suffer such exhibitions. Treat him calmly, because the mother's excitement would react to frighten the child still more, but hold the child up, and to help him to breathe again, use the smelling salts, which is less disturbing than throwing cold water on him. These children are usually of the high-strung, easily disturbed type, so better meals, more sleeping hours, and calm care are as helpful as any other measures.

But when the baby has an overlarge thymus gland this large-sized gland presses upon the respiratory organs so that when baby is excited or hurt or angry and starts to cry, he is very apt to be unable to draw his breath and grows black in the face because he is actually suffocated. In this case the baby's agitation is not temper, but a real inability to breathe. The fatal results of breath-holding are the results of suffocation from an overlarge thymus gland, not temper spells which baby could control.

MEDICAL ATTENTION

Such a child needs help at the moment and medical attention to end the cause of his breath-holding. The mother may actually court disastrous results by failing to heed what should be a warning signal to her.

The thymus gland can be X-rayed, measured, and if necessary, reduced by X-ray. Growth itself causes it to shrink in size so that these seizures may be outgrown naturally. The prime duty of the thymus gland is to inhibit the growth of the sex glands until the age for their natural development arrives. Thus at puberty the thymus, having fulfilled its purpose, usually disappears. Meanwhile, it is safer to suspect its size to be excessive in the child who is an habitual breath-holder.

AUTO CRASH DAMAGE ACTION TRIAL ENDS

Superior Judge Haslett yesterday took under submission Mrs. Augusta Margulies's suit against C. C. Tolson, truck owner, for $5000 asserted damages. The plaintiff, wife of an apparel manufacturer, testified that she suffered lacerations on head and body as a result of a collision between a car in which she was riding and a truck owned by the defendant.

Mrs. Margulies asserted that the truck made an illegal U turn on Alameda street between Slauson avenue and Florence Boulevard causing her husband's car to collide with it. Tolson contends that the negligence was on the part of the Margulies car driver.

In Iceland and Northern Siberia, the extreme length of life is only about 70 years. Temperate climates are best fitted for long life. Ireland and Bulgaria are noted for their number of inhabitants who have reached the age of 100.

WHEN THE SANDMAN COMES

by THORNTON W. BURGESS

BASHFUL MISS FRISKY

Where'er you go you'll find it true
That bash'ful folk are hard to woo.
—Old Mother Nature.

It was two days before Impy saw that strange Chipmunk near his home for the second time. He popped out from under the fern surrounding his doorway just in time to catch a glimpse of the stranger scampering along the rail fence. Rage filled Impy's heart as he started after the stranger. But the stranger could run and in a very short time Impy had lost sight of this tormentor. You see, that is the way that Impy regarded the stranger: yet this stranger persisted in coming.

He climbed to the highest stone on the pile of stones

Impy turned around and went back. He climbed to the highest stone on the pile of stones, and there he sat and chattered. By and by he had a feeling that some one was watching him. He turned suddenly in time to see a tail disappear between some of the stones of that pile. My, but Impy was upset! Never have you seen any one more upset. This was unforgivable imprudence. He started to hunt for the intruder. In and out he ran between the stones of that pile. And then shortly the same thing happened again. This time, however, Impy got a better look at the stranger and, curiously enough, his anger suddenly melted away. He couldn't have told you why: it just melted away, that was all.

This time Impy didn't follow. He remained where he was and it wasn't long before he saw a pair of bright eyes peeping at him from behind a stone. He sat perfectly still. Those bright eyes remained still also. He know they were watching him. Impy pretended not to see them. After a long, long time, the prettiest Chipmunk Impy had ever seen hopped up on a stone a little distance away.

"Miss Frisky," replied the pretty little stranger.

"That's a nice name," said Impy, and turned toward Miss Frisky. Instantly she disappeared. She was very bashful—very, very bashful, indeed. Impy was becoming excited. He hunted for her, which was the worst thing he could have done. His hunt was in vain. He returned to his former seat on the rock. It wasn't long before he discovered Miss Frisky peeking at him again. "Where do you live?" asked Impy.

Miss Frisky refused to tell him.

"I suppose you know," said Impy, "that I live here?"

Little Miss Frisky nodded, but she didn't say a word.

"Can't we be friends?" persisted Impy.

Again, little Miss Frisky nodded. At this Impy started toward her. Instantly, little Miss Frisky darted away. Impy stopped. Little Miss Frisky stopped, but at a safe distance. "I won't hurt you," said Impy. "I promise you I won't hurt you?"

Little Miss Frisky said nothing, but suddenly turned and darted away. It was surprising how quickly she could disappear. Impy was disappointed. He made his way back to his favorite stone and there he hoped and hoped that little Miss Frisky would come back. But, though he waited and waited, he saw no more of Miss Frisky that day. That was because she was so very, very bashful.

SUIT REVEALS ROMOLA TRAIL

Federal Indictments Here Based on Report

Realty Commissioner Had Watched Operations

Agents Declare Company Solely at Fault

Through a suit started in San Francisco it was disclosed yesterday that the thirty Federal indictments recently returned in Los Angeles against officials and representatives of the Romola Corporation were based on a report of the State Real Estate Commissioner covering the operations of the corporation since August, 1926.

Among the charges made by the commissioner in this report was that salesmen in the employ of the corporation received from 20 to 40 per cent commission; that 8000 acres in Riverside county were disposed of at from $800 to $1750 per acre, which prices were considerably in excess of full-bearing fig orchards in San Joaquin Valley, and that the corporation continued to make promises of rich returns after the pumps essential for irrigation purposes had been shut off months before by the Southern Sierras Power Company for nonpayment of bills.

The suit resulting in the disclosure of the basis for the indictments, and the charges of the real-estate commissioner, was brought in San Francisco by Mrs. Elden E. Callender, a widow of Willows, Cal., against D. Jay Smith, the San Francisco representative of Romola.

Smith, one of the thirty under indictment, is accused by Mrs. Callender of withholding $3000 in stocks and bonds since May 22, last. She sets forth she gave these to Smith for conversion in cash or securities, the proceeds to be used for purchase of Romola stock.

Smith declares he sent the money to the Los Angeles office of the corporation and that he was not able to return it to Mrs. Callender because just at this time the company's stock-selling permit was revoked, and its affairs placed in the hands of a receiver.

Robert C. Baker, real estate broker at Tucson, Ariz., another of the thirty persons indicted, yesterday was quoted in press dispatches as declaring he had severed his connection with Romola several months ago. He added that whatever property he had sold for the corporation as a broker had been disposed of by him in "perfectly good faith, on the representations of the company."

"Several months ago, at about the time of the receivership I lost faith in Romola," he added, "and severed my brokerage connections."
